School officials study new vocational ed plan

by TIM YOUNGMAN

ST. JOHNS—Clinton County might be getting a new vocational education center.

At least it seems that the County Board of Education is looking into the possibility.

They’re looking at the possibility of helping

Vocational Training funds which are now available to the county if the board decides to establish an educational center.

A new vocational training center could be established on the old St. Johns High School site, said Dr. B. Stanley Focuis, Intermediate

District superintendent.

The board is considering the possibility of a new vocational training center as part of the new St. Johns High School site.

Double Exposure twice this week

ST. JOHNS—Double Exposure is usually a place where you go with a partner or family and try to guess who/what is hidden in the frame before it is covered. The latest production of the winter series of First Night is set for Saturday night, January 31st, at 8 p.m.

The play takes place in the world of theatre and involves a group of theatrical professionals. The plot revolves around a psychiatrist who is trying to help a patient get through a difficult time. The patient is a famous actress who is struggling with her personal life. The psychiatrist is also dealing with his own issues and is trying to help his patients. The play is directed by Henry Dellar and is being performed by Teresa Smith Freed, Carla Kurncz, Betty Stone, and other members.

New fire truck shows need for expansion

Exposure will be 8 p.m. Thursday and the play will be presented Thursday and Saturday at Rodney B. starting at 8 p.m.

THE PLOT REVOLVES around a psychiatrist and his nephew. The nephew is in need of money and goes to all lengths at the request of his uncle. The psychiatrist is trying to help him, but his efforts are in vain. The nephew is eventually successful, but at a great cost. The play is directed by Duane Thelen and Carla Kurncz. The play will be presented Thursday and Saturday at Rodney B. starting at 8 p.m.

The youth said they were trying to help their friends, but they didn’t know how to do it. The psychiatrist said that they need to work together to solve the problem. The psychiatrist is also dealing with his own issues and is trying to help his patients. The play is directed by Duane Thelen and Carla Kurncz.

Celebrate anniversary

Mrs. Harry Beery and Mrs. Harry Nelson donated a pole lamp. The prospective groom is a member of the Fowler Conservation Club.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Fowler High School and is a member of the Fowler Conservation Club.

The gowns were made by the sisters of the bride. The attendants, in empire-style gowns of white satin and yellow and orange daisy mums, approached the altar carrying an arch with material matching the skirt.

The theme of the wedding was a fairy tale of Princess Tiana and Prince Naveen, featuring long full sleeves and a fitted bodice. Church windows were decorated with paper flowers, and the cake was a large, white tier with gold accents.

The church was decorated with flowers and candles, and the guests were seated in the presence of the bride and groom. The reception was held at the Fowler Country Club, where a five-course meal was served.

The bride and groom cut the cake, and the guests enjoyed music and dancing.

The newlyweds left for their honeymoon at a tropical resort in the Caribbean, where they will enjoy the sun, sand, and sea.

DeWitt board issues quiz on building expansion

DeWitt — The board of education for DeWitt schools is conducting a five-question survey to determine public sentiment on certain building expansion plans. The survey is being distributed to all district residents and will be available at local businesses.

The survey is part of a broader plan submitted recently to the board of education. The plan includes a full 12-month program, and it is hoped that the results will provide feedback for the board to consider.

The district currently is bogged down on five different construction projects. An interesting question considered by the board is whether the public would go along with such an idea. The board believes that public sentiment is crucial for the success of these projects.

Jr. their children are planning a questionnaire as part of a master plan submitted recently to the board of education to determine public sentiment.

The survey includes questions such as whether the public would support a $5 million bond issue for new facilities. The survey also asks if the public would be willing to expand current facilities to accommodate growing student numbers.

The survey is part of the board's ongoing effort to ensure that the community's needs are met. The board hopes to have the survey results by the end of this month.

The survey can be found at local businesses or at the DeWitt school district's website. It is important for the community to provide their feedback so that the board can make informed decisions about future school expansions.

Panthers assured of title share

DeWitt — The DeWitt Panthers are assured of their third straight title share in the East Area Athletic Conference. The Panthers are currently in first place with a record of 9-1. The Panthers have the opportunity to clinch the title with a win against Portland this week.

The Panthers are off to a strong start this season, with five wins in their first six games. The team is led by senior quarterback Dan Davis, who has thrown for over 1,000 yards and 15 touchdowns.

The Panthers have a tough schedule ahead, with games against Holt,每位, and Okemos. However, with their current form, the Panthers are expected to come out on top.

St. Therese plans annual card party

St. Therese Catholic Church in DeWitt will be hosting its annual card party on Saturday, November 20th. The event will include a buffet dinner, dancing, and games.

The card party is a popular event among the community, with proceeds going towards the church's charitable work. The event is open to all, and tickets can be purchased at the church office.

The Panthers are expected to win the title share with a win against Portland this week. A win would solidify their position as the top team in the East Area Athletic Conference.

Marauders scalp Indians for Mid-Michigan crown

BY TOM HOFMANN

STAFF WRITER

Ovid-Elsie's 21-6 triumph over Chesaning yesterday afternoon gave the Marauders their second straight Mid-Michigan "B" championship. Chesaning had held a 6-0 lead at the half, but the Marauders scored 15 points in the second half to win the game.

The Marauders were well on their way to a convincing win when they scored a touchdown in the second quarter. This was after Joe Gavanda made a long interception on the Chesaning quarterback's pass. The touchdown came early in the second quarter, giving the Marauders a 14-0 lead.

For the second consecutive week, the Marauders had a dominating defense. This time, they had an interception off of a quarterback's pass, which they returned for a touchdown. This interception was made by Joe Gavanda, who returned it for 40 yards.

The Marauders' defense was key to their win. They held Chesaning to only 6 points and forced three turnovers.

The Marauders' offense was also strong, scoring 21 points on the ground.

The Marauders' victory was their second straight Mid-Michigan "B" championship. They defeated Chesaning last year as well.

The Marauders will now move on to the state playoffs, where they will be hoping to repeat their success from last year.

That was the Great War. The morning when they came to the plant, the Saylor-Beall markets internationally. At the Triangle Truck Co., when the company began to build trucks, they manufactured spraying equipment. In 1954, a Triangle Engineering division was established, and the company made air compressors. In 1946, Triangle Engineering and Saylor-Beall were acquired by Federal-Mogul Corporation. In 1947, a new plant was opened. In 1948, a new plant was opened. The company continued to operate in makeshift buildings. In 1953, a new plant was opened. The St. Johns downtown shopping district was brightly decorated by the St. Johns area students last week preparing for Halloween and the St. Johns homecoming.

The theme on this window was "Scratch the Comets." Just one more dab, "Scratch the Comets" was the theme on this window.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beckhorn of Ionia and Maxine Ernst attended the Antique Show at Marshall. Mrs. Beckhorn was a supper guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bancroft, Monday, Oct. 25 and were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Pasch and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bancroft.

On Sunday, Oct. 24 Mrs. Robert Tranchell was the theme on this window.

Trick or Treat

The staff at the Clinton County News got a sneak preview of this group of little Halloweeners last Wednesday when they stopped in at the office. The children all attend the Jack and Jill Nursery School in St. Johns and following their visit they returned to school for a Halloween party. PHOTO BY ANNETTE WHITE.

Your prejudices

by RY, HUGH BANNINGA

A clergymen tells about an experience he had in a remodeled church. In the newer section, he looked up, and noticed a very young man who seemed to be waiting for the ushers. When he turned and walked around the corner, he looked at the ushers again, and this young man was among them. He then noticed that this young man was always in the ushers' section of the church. He asked the pastor why this was the case, and the pastor replied, "Well, this young man is a member of our church, but he is not a very active member. He is more of a spectator than a participant in our church activities."

The young man was not happy with this, and he thought to himself, "If I am a member of this church, why am I not allowed to participate in its activities?"

"As I left the restaurant, I was thinking about this. I have long said, to ourselves, 'I love this restaurant.' I can't explain it, but somehow, I love this restaurant."

During the meal, I was thinking about the restaurant, and I thought, "I love this restaurant." I can't explain it, but somehow, I love this restaurant.

But then, as I was thinking about the restaurant, I remembered something. I had eaten at this restaurant before, and I had not loved it. I had not thought, "I love this restaurant." I had not had the same feeling.

"I must have done something to that restaurant," I thought, "to make it loveable."

In the end, I realized that I love this restaurant because it makes me happy. I love the atmosphere, the food, the service, and the people. It is a place where I feel comfortable and happy. And that is why I love it.

And so, I thought, "If I love this restaurant, I must love something about it."

I have decided to try to love the people who make this restaurant loveable. I will try to love the people who work there, and I will try to love the people who come to eat there.

And so, I will try to love the restaurant, and I will try to love the people who make it loveable. And I will try to love the people who come to eat there.

I will try to love the restaurant, and I will try to love the people who make it loveable. And I will try to love the people who come to eat there.

LAWRENCE — ‘You can write an essay on Great Lakes history for paragraphs and pages if you wish, but in the end, only one thing is clear: this is the most remarkable body of inter-connected inland waters on this planet.'

The words were spoken at a symposium on Great Lakes held at Mt. Heald’s “Water Resources Day,” sponsored by the Michigan Soil Conservation and Recreation Districts. The symposium was held in conjunction with the opening of the Great Lakes Conservation Zone.

November 9, 1971

The symposium’s emphasis was on the future of the lakes, and identifying some solutions to problems which have been brought into focus in the last few years.

In 3 years, over 1,000,000,000 gallons of fish and game have been dumped into the Great Lakes. This is only the beginning. In the next 30 years, it is likely that every major fish and game resource in the United States and Canada will be completely drained by 1971. This is a sad commentary on our use of our resources.
