General Telephone plans to spend more than $1 million in St. Johns district next year

General Telephone Company of Florida, Michigan plans to spend more than $1 million in St. Johns district, officials announced last week.

The $1,104,300 expenditure is part of General Telephone's $84 million expansion program. The program is planned for the Central Michigan area, which includes the St. Johns district, officials said. The district has a total capital investment of nearly $10 million in line, buildings and other facilities.

General Telephone, which operates through one division in addition to the central division, has more than 10,000 employees in service to over 41,000 communities and exchanges in 46 counties.

There are plans to spend more than $1 million to provide for exchange growth and some additional one- and two-party service.

Suggestions for fall weed control offered by County Extension agent

Fall is a good time to control weeds in Michigan fields, says George McElvain, Clinton County Extension agent.

Yellow rocket and other broad-leaved annual weeds, such as Canada thistle, wild mustard, and shepherd's purse, can be controlled in established stands by treating them with herbicides. One way is to use herbicides containing MCPA or MCPA plus a contact herbicide, such as 2,4-D. Follow label directions on these products for proper timing of treatment.

If fall applications of herbicides aren't made, the weeds can be mowed or plowed down the growth seven to 10 days before a killing frost. Very young, tender growth is most susceptible to herbicides.

Weeds can also be controlled by applying the herbicide atrazine in late fall after a killing frost. The publication "Control in Field Crops," for full information on weed control with atrazine, is available from MSU Extension.

Cleavers, winter wheat, and other grass weeds can be mowed or plowed down after the first killing frost. If treated at this time, the herbicide 2,4-D should be used in conjunction with 2,3,7,8-TCDD, a contact killer. This will give the best control.

Winter wheat, which often grows in fields along with winter annual weeds, can be controlled in the fall by applying 2,4-D in late fall after the first killing frost. The weed must be 3 inches tall or more, and the application must be made on a clear, calm day.

The 4-H Chatter

By John Atkinson

Extension 4-H Youth agent

Twenty-four members who won the 4-H title award to Clinton County 4-Hers, were presented their pins at the 20th annual 4-H District Days session held recently at the Clinton County Fairgrounds. The winners were recognized for their accomplishments during the past year in the various phases of the 4-H program. The district's 4-H leaders were also honored for their hard work and dedication.

The newsletter is a place for 4-H members to express their thoughts, ideas, and experiences through writing, photography, and artwork. It is a platform for 4-Hers to showcase their skills, talents, and achievements, and to connect with others who share their interests and passions.

The 4-H Chatter is distributed to all members of the Clinton County 4-H program, as well as to other Extension offices and programs in the county. It is also available online for members to access and read at their convenience.

How do you know if the place you are going to is clean or not? Do you rely on your senses? Do you use a cleaning agent? Do you ask your friends if the place is clean?

When you go to the store or meet a friend for a coffee, you may notice how the place looks different. The place may be clean and shiny, or it may be dirty and messy. How do you know if the place you are going to is clean or not? Do you rely on your senses? Do you use a cleaning agent? Do you ask your friends if the place is clean?
Every year, as the thousands of students return to their colleges and universities, a sense of excitement builds as they look forward to the new academic year. This year, the excitement is heightened as we celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Michigan State University 4-H Club, an organization that has been integral to the development and education of youth across the state.

The 4-H Club was founded in 1921 as a cooperative extension program by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Cooperative Extension Service, with the goal of promoting the growth and development of youth through hands-on educational opportunities. Over the years, the program has evolved to meet the changing needs of youth and the communities they serve, but its core mission remains constant: to provide a safe, supportive environment where young people can learn, grow, and thrive.

Michigan State University, in partnership with the Michigan 4-H Foundation, is hosting events throughout the state to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the 4-H Club. These events will feature keynote speakers, panel discussions, and networking opportunities for current and former members, as well as families and friends of 4-H members.

The anniversary celebration will culminate in a virtual event on November 10, 2021, where past 4-H leaders, current members, and youth development professionals will come together to celebrate the achievements of the 4-H Club and look forward to its continued success.

If you are interested in learning more about the 50th anniversary celebration or getting involved in the festivities, please visit the Michigan 4-H Foundation website for more information. Together, we can ensure that the 4-H Club continues to provide a platform for youth to explore their interests, develop new skills, and make a positive impact on their communities.

The play is based on the novel "Pygmalion" by George Bernard Shaw. The story follows the transformation of a young upper-class woman into an upper-class woman through the power of language and education. The play uses the character of Eliza Doolittle, played by a "gutter snipe," to explore themes of social class and the power of language. The play was first performed in 1913 and has been adapted into various forms, including a film directed by George Cukor in 1938. The play continues to be performed today, and its themes of social class and the power of language remain relevant.

The pool

With the opening this week of the St. Johns High School swimming pool, area residents have a new recreational facility at their disposal. The pool is one of several community facilities that have the luxury of a swimming pool, the existence of which is due to progressive planning and an example of effective expenditure of public funds.

Not only the existence of the pool should be gratifying, but the administration of the facility by school officials through the maintenance andashrting out from traditional procedures. Frequently, in necessity or design, public swimming pools are limited use by pool schedules released by school officials indicate their intent to allow public use to be their guide. Such administration of tax supported facilities of public school is to be the rule rather than the exception.

School Superintendent Earl Lancaster has been quoted as saying that "the demand for is very high," and this comment is suggestive that school district officials will receive their money's worth. Many years are required to justify expenses on facilities of limited use, but what might consequence is a luxury quickly takes on practical dimensions through broad and frequent appliance.

The opening of the swimming pool is an effective complement to the growth of the school district. It is but one more aspect of the high school which we can all take pride.

An effective job

Clinton County residents, the other citizens, have been told for some time that the tendency to enjoy tax increases, however, recent action by the Michigan State Tax Commission conducted an exhaustive study of county supervisors, finding disclosed only "infinitesimal" differences in some areas of comparison.

As a result of these calculations the commissioners supported the County Board of Supervisors' approval of property assessments that should reflect, as they say, a "realistic" evaluation of public needs.

On account of security in the county from the Board of Supervisors’ requests for real property demands are in the interest of the present economy of general benefits.

The county district commissioners against which there are no objections for the state’s economic recovery has been aided by several days.

The results of those that are not sure about the system will take their tax.” The Clinton County Equalization Committee. The county committee has withstood the test of the county and it is intended to have their efforts and decisions supported by the latter group is credit to Director Lorenzo "Tony" Ford.

Although some Medico-

A little credit does not always come easy. In the course of the past month I have had the opportunity to purchase a new car. The total cost was $3,000. I was able to pay off the balance of $2,000 in cash and the remainder, $1,000, was financed.

For example, in the automobile department of a large department store with a branch in the city of Detroit, there are several different types of automobiles available to the customer. The selection of the right type of automobile for your needs depends largely on the following factors:

1. The size of the family: If you have a large family, you may want to consider a larger automobile with more passenger and luggage space.
2. The budget: The cost of the automobile will depend on the make and model, as well as the options and features you choose.
3. The driving conditions: The type of driving you will be doing (e.g., city driving, rural driving) will affect your choice.

There is no one right answer for all customers, as the decision will depend on individual needs and preferences. However, by considering these factors, you can make an informed decision that will best suit your needs.

From the state house

If you are interested in the legislative process, you may want to consider attending a hearing or committee meeting. These meetings are typically open to the public and provide an opportunity for you to learn more about the legislative process and participate in discussions. You can find information about upcoming hearings or meetings by checking the statehouse website or contacting your local representative's office.

I am writing to express my gratitude to the staff at the Michigan Department of Transportation. I recently purchased a new car and was very impressed with the service I received.

In particular, I would like to commend the individuals at the Michigan Department of Transportation's office who handled my transaction. They were friendly, knowledgeable, and helpful throughout the process.
