The Daily News was a four-year sign for DeWitt High School's 1973 graduating class. The Class of 1973 is now just a memory, and the last official game played by the Panthers was the district opener to Bath in September.

The players are now off to college or other activities. The 1973 DeWitt football team was led by Chuck Berkimer, quarterback. He will attend Michigan State University in the fall. Other key players who will attend college are Ken Hagedus, Lloyd Isbell, Terry Timmins, Dave Enders, Jim Modes, Don Bouts, Jerry Craig, Murry Brockway, Gary Shepard, Don Strait, Jerry Craig Miller, and Murry Brockway.

The team was coached by John Wolfe, who will remain a teacher at DeWitt. He said that the elementary school will not be able to continue with its present capacity of 530 students. There will be a new high school built within the next three years.

Defensively, the Eagles played a great ball game, clean. The Eagles forced three fumbles during the course of the game and recovered two, as Kramer added to the score late in the first quarter.

The Eagles will end the season with a 7-1 record, tying DeWitt's record.

Before the start of the Fowler-Webberville contest, the Fowler players sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." The Webberville band included, from left, Bill Beswick, field judge, John Oberlin, head referee, Henry Howard, umpire and Leon McCullough, head linesman.

No argument here. These Fowler players aren't going around John any trouble about this penalty. It was against Webbervi.

It's the Head referee's job to mark off the penalty yardage and give the signals to both benches.

Laingsburg's title grasp ended by Potterville Laingsburg's hopes for a state trip finally were dashed by the Potterville Vikings.

The Vikings, who have an intense rivalry with the Eagles, scored touchdowns on a 4-yard rush from Kramer each intercepted St. Pat's passes during the night.

The Eagles' defense, led by Pat's 20-12.
Marauders look for perfect season

By VALERIE HILL

PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

On the football field, the Mini-\nMarauders are working toward a perfect season.

The Ovid-Elsie Little Marauders played their regular season finale in the swimming pool after they were forced to cancel their game against the Marauders this season
because of the weather.

The Marauders travel to St.
Johns Friday for the final game of the season against the Westphalia Shockers.

The Marauders, who were 1-9
in 1969, have a repeat cliffhanger like last season.

"The Little Marauders had our number last year, and we are looking for better this season," Denny Swanson, O-E's coach, said.

Swanson says he is confident in his team's ability to overcome the challenges they face.

The Marauders are looking for a repeat of last season's success when they scored a 13-0 victory over the Shocks in the first quarter, this time on a 30-yard pass to senior end Hon.

"We were very happy with our defense last year," Swanson said. "We plan to continue that success this season."

SECTION B  WEDNESDAY  NOVEMBER 10

Clinton National Bank & Trust Co.

ST. JOHNS—Completion of a new customer lounge area on the third floor. The area serves as a reception point for persons wishing to examine bank records relating to these transactions, then mix in her routine secretarial work. She is in charge of buying and selling bank stock, issuing certificates, making all transactions and handling any physical and operational changes in the bank. The bank has undergone some element of change, Desprez commented.

Mrs. Hansen has become a familiar figure in our main lobby and it's easy to see why. Still Betty finds time to pursue her hobbies of sewing things for her grandchildren, reading and enjoying an occasional movie. This is a dividend to the bank and to the community, the bank president said.

The new decor hints of a Mediterranean theme and the most notable achievements, but beyond that a background of bookkeeping, capped by ten years as a legal secretary. She purchased or sells stock for bank customers as well as cashing and issuing savings bonds and travellers checks. When you take all this, throw in the fact she has no children to support, it's no wonder she's been described as a "workaholic".

As you walk in the bank and see Betty Hansen working behind her desk, you can't help but believe that the spark behind this success is Ralph Lynanys enthusiasm. But Ralph is enthusiastic about any venture he undertakes, whether it's for his favorite organization or his own business.
Divergent feelings

For those persons who wish to live in a sort of Utopian frame of mind it would be most then the rumbles and the public utterances of those who would "operate" on the status quo are locked upon with no censure.

Like it or not, communities will be diversified when a change will be made in a group of people within the area who think a change is needed.

The Clinton Memorial Hospital and its Board of Directors and Trustees have been talked of in the press lately. Some changes are sought, and the immediate re-tool is in operation. The Clinton Memorial has been an important institution.

We are not advocating any participate any change, or any side. It is our duty, as we see it, to inform, and to sit where we can in getting a community problem solved. To overlook, or not bother to recognize, that are real changes, is to play ostrich. And this isn't our role.

We do believe that when people have questions, then they should get a straight answer.
Not that there will always be responses that will satis-ify, but there are people who are more than willing to people from whom a community has entrusted authority.

Busing: too emotional

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLINGER

It's not easy to break bread, to say it but ably, over the last 30 years or so, the national education system has changed.

The people of Michigan have grown up in different communities.
They've been shaped by the schools in their own communities; they want their children to have the same opportunity for education as did their own children.

It is interesting to note that the majority of people in Michigan are not even concerned about the issue of busing.

I voted "no" on the bill in the first session of the last legislature and, for the time being, I remain "no" for the same reason: I do not believe that busing is an answer to the problem of equality of education.

In the recent past, the only real concern has been the implementation of the Court's decision in the caso of Brown vs. Board of Education. However, the Court's decisions have not been the only concern.

Death rate on highways drops 6 per cent

Auto safety efforts apparently had a role in Michigan's highway fatality rate being the lowest it has been in 18 years. Last year 2,573 highway fatalities were reported in the state, a drop of 146 deaths or nearly 6 per cent of the number of deaths in 1970.

The low death rate surprised most people, including Michigan Highway Patrol officials, who now are predicting the 1972 fatality rate will probably be the lowest ever reached in the state.

Michigan Highway Patrol Commissioner James C. Cope said yesterday that the 1972 death rate will be at least 6 per cent below the 1971 rate, which is a drop of 66 deaths.

"We don't know how it came about, but there has been a tremendous drop in deaths on the state highways," Cope said. "It's a good thing, but we've never experienced such a big drop before."

The low death rate is attributed to a number of factors, including better enforcement of traffic laws, a greater awareness of the dangers of driving under the influence of alcohol, and a more conscious attitude by drivers to drive safely.

Cope said the state has been working hard to reduce the death rate for several years, and that the efforts have paid off. "We believe that the public is more aware of the dangers of driving under the influence of alcohol, and that drivers are more likely to obey the traffic laws," he said. "This has resulted in a lower fatality rate for this year."

The state has also been working to reduce the speed limit on some highways, and this has also contributed to the lower death rate.

"We believe that the lower speed limits have helped to reduce the number of accidents and fatalities on the highways," Cope said. "This has also contributed to the lower death rate for this year."

Cope said that the state will continue to work hard to reduce the death rate on the highways.

"We believe that we can do even better," he said. "We will continue to work hard to reduce the death rate on the highways."

CLINTON NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY
Serving the Clinton area from eleven locations.

Member FDIC
The new quarters for the executive officers of Clinton National Bank are now located on the second floor providing much needed privacy for customers who wish to discuss their affairs. The growing demand for space in our main lobby was another consideration that prompted moving the offices, but for those who prefer, an office near our front door remains and an officer will always be present to assist in any way.

Right along with the executive offices goes a completely remodeled reception area where bank visitors are received. The official "greeters" who also serve as secretaries, are, from left, Jeanette Argersinger, Jean Pardike and Shirley Lake.
a busy place . . .

One of the busiest spots at Clinton National is our auto bank. The new, modern building, equipped with pneumatic tubes for efficient customer service, replaces a smaller structure and is more appropriately placed to minimize on-street traffic tie-ups. This worm's eye view suggests also that we didn't forget the importance of landscaping as we went about our planning—what else but pleasant surroundings for one of our busiest places.

CNB&T Auto-Bank

The wide-awake bank makes it all so easy.

We're quite proud of our newly re-modeled St. Johns office but the area surrounding our auto-bank is something special. Here we have provided for fast, efficient drive-up service along with parking space for 68 autos. Modern mercury vapor lamps provide after-dark lighting and the Mediterranean theme of our new parking lot entry to the bank offers an inviting atmosphere. The middle photo on this page shows the parking area and auto bank, viewed from the steps of our parking lot entrance. Lower photo at left is a reversal of the scene, showing the steps and entryway as seen from the parking area.
when it comes to loans...

our new loan department makes it all so easy

Loaning money is one of our primary functions, but we don't become so wrapped up with our business that we forget the desires of our customers. And when it comes to borrowing most customers prefer privacy. It was with this in mind that our loan department was moved from the main lobby to a more private area where loan officers and customers could conduct their business in less distracting quarters. We've taken a bit of teasing about our carpeted panels which serve as dividers between desks, but their sound absorbing qualities have already been proven and their mobility allows rearrangement for even greater privacy. The pictures on this page present some idea of the design and decor of the loan department. At top right vice president Paul Schueller is seated at his desk examining loan applications. As senior loan officer, Paul oversees all functions of the loan department. In the next photo vice president Les Jenkins and assistant cashier Jim Cathey discuss a loan transaction while, in the third picture, Bob Bogdan enjoys semi-privacy provided by the movable dividers. Bogdan is in charge of real estate loans. Charles Halfman, commercial loan officer is shown in next photo. The two girls in the fourth photo complete this brief resume of our loan department. They are loan tellers Virginia Shawnee and Susan Reed and in some respects they're like secretaries to the loan officers. They, along with a third teller, Irene Speck, accept loan payments, complete paper detail on loans and, in general, see to it that the routines are followed. When it comes to loans we think CNB&T has the perfect combination, people who know their work and are ready to assist and a loan department which is bright, comfortable and - most important - private.
tellers are busy people...

Waiting in line is not a favorite pastime and the growing demands on our tellers' time served as the foundation for the remodeling of our main lobby. In fact, it was an important consideration that led to enlarging or redesigning all of our teller stations. The photo at upper left shows the inside view of our walk-up teller window on Walker St. as Gladys Baker prepares to open for the day's business. The photo immediately left is a view drivers would have little chance to see. It's taken from the inside of our auto bank where Carolyn Coffman and Kay Atkinson provide teller service from greatly enlarged and modernized quarters.

Perhaps the most familiar area of Clinton National Bank is the teller line in our main office which, because of the area, presents the most-dramatic effect of our new look. Accented by hues of gold, black and green in a variety of modern materials, the appearance of our main lobby has taken on a new and relaxed atmosphere.

... and so are the gals who open new accounts

Aside from the tellers, others you might meet when you visit our lobby are Betty Hansen (lower photo) or Dean Frost and Betty Ajian, assistant cashier and main office manager. The three ladies, among other duties, assist in the opening of new accounts and also serve as receptionists, making certain that bank visitors are directed to the appropriate office or area in the building.

The wise, awake bank makes it all so easy.
Our congratulations to Clinton National Bank.

some facts about the growing eagle

- Completion of the remodeling program marks the second time in approximately ten years that improvements totaling $100,000.00 have been made to better serve customers and the community.

- The current program was undertaken in July, 1969 when a feasibility study ultimately brought about a board of directors decision to remodel. The study showed the present building to be structurally sound, but lacking in adequate modern facilities such as air conditioning and efficient heating system.

- Usable space in the bank was increased from 16,000 sq. ft. to 19,000 sq. ft. and the improved facilities are estimated to be sufficient until 1977.

- The growth pattern in the past ten years is clearly reflected in the bank's operation. During the 1961-62 remodeling program 45 employees operated a bank with $13,000,000.00 in deposits. Today over 100 employees provide county wide banking service on the strength of $46,000,000.00 in deposits.

- The recent remodeling was completed by local contractors and suppliers, consequently most of the money spent was distributed in the Clinton County area, supporting local payrolls and taxes in the communities we serve.

The roots of Clinton National Bank begin nearly 106 years ago—in 1865—under the name of First National Bank and from then to the present nearly a dozen financial enterprises have merged resulting in today's $46,000,000.00 firm. Among the mergers are included banks in Fowler, Risle and more recently, Laingsburg. In addition to this pattern of growth, CNB&T has established an office in the Valley Farms area of north Lansing and is among only a handful of banks in the entire country to operate a mobile service unit. The CNB&T vehicle provides banking service through regular visits to the communities of Bath, Bareks, Hubbardston, Maple Rapids and Wacousta.

The names of the present board of directors, as well as the names of those in the past, read much like an historical resume of Clinton County, securing the growth of the bank with that of the area and this pattern is not without mutual benefit, for as the bank grew it could better serve the financial needs of the county, its people and its governments. That spirit of community support is not lost in the interest of development. A list of area suppliers or contractors who worked on our recent remodeling shows clearly that CNB&T values the benefits derived from patronizing area businesses. We're most pleased with the results of the efforts of the following firms: Rademacher Construction Co., Schmitt Electric, Bob Smit Painting Co., E. F. Boron, James Glass, Oliver Gillespie, Central Advertising, Karber Block Co., General Telephone Co., Steadman Surveyors, St. Johns Furniture, Selleck Office Supplies and Spartan Asphalt Co.
some things you might see . . .

lobby lounge area

Our main lobby lounge area has already served a number of purposes, not the least of which is a convenient spot for displays. It's comfortable seating units and pleasant furnishings sometimes give way to such things as snowmobiles or 4-H projects, but we're pleased to contribute space to these community activities.

third floor lounge

Among the new additions since remodeling is this third floor lounge area where customers may relax while waiting to visit with employees in our bookkeeping department. Using the area for a brief chat are Laura Pence and Mary Kiger, both Clinton National employees.

safe deposit area

The safe-deposit area is conveniently located between our Walker St. entrance and the new parking lot entrance. In addition the area serves as a focal point for the bank's operations as phone operator Judi Jim is located here. In the background Jeanette Arzendauger and Helen Fowles are shown at the safe-deposit time desk.

and some things you might not see . . .

employee's lounge

This room doubles as an employees lounge and employee meeting room. The lounge is equipped with cooking units and a refrigerator as well as vending machines and as might be guessed is in constant use.

the real workers

Behind the scenes there are always those whose task it is to get the job done and Gaylord Desprez and Ray Geller comprise the CNB&T "get-it-done" team. The two are responsible for building maintenance.

a secret place

Well, it's not really secret, but it is out of the way. Connie Lundy is shown using the telephone beside the cabinet which houses a sending-receiving station for the pneumatic tube system connecting our safe-deposit with the main office, eliminating the safety hazard of tellers walking through the auto-bank traffic to transfer materials.

CLINTON NATIONAL

The wide-awake bank makes it all so easy.
Aside from the executive offices, board room and employees lounge, a number of other bank functions are located on the second floor. The auditing department under vice president Charles Huntington is among those as are other activities which include credit, adjustment, trust accounting and general accounting. This page presents some photos taken in these various areas.

trust and general accounting

Jean Loomis handles the trust accounting department at CNB&T and sharing office space with Jean is Gerty Workman who is in charge of general accounting. Their office is conveniently located adjacent to the auditor's.

credit and adjustment

The credit, adjustment and loan accounting departments are located over the building formerly occupied by Consumers Power Co. Here Tom Ebert and Connie Frost (not necessarily camera shy, just busy) handle adjustment matters and clear loan credit applications.

auditing

Assistant auditor Tom Nemecik and auditor Charles Huntington work closely and share office space on the second floor. The auditing department, while not frequently visited by customers, comes in for a fair amount of traffic and is situated conveniently near the elevator.

library

Another new addition to CNB&T is this library where bank personnel may research banking information. The library contains a growing number of banking profession volumes as well as periodicals, regulations and study course texts. Ron Hoard examines a new publication that has been placed in the library.
By previous standards our third floor is almost empty but that appearance comes from the sharp contrast of present spaciousness compared with the former crowded conditions. Yet a number of bank functions continue to be performed on the third floor as suggested by pictures on this page. Even then these photos depict only the general activities as many other behind-the-scenes operations are completed on this floor.

perhaps the operation on this floor which is most frequently visited by CNB&T customers is the bookkeeping department where checking accounts are maintained. Betty Donohue, supervisor of the department completes one of her daily functions while other employees in the background sort checks for eventual distribution and filing.

most everyone knows that banking and the term "balance" are almost synonymous and the proof department helps determine that all is in balance at day's end. three proof machines - two electronic, one mechanical - serve daily transactions of all offices of CNB&T and catch those which may cause difficulties.

mail - imprint

ella ditz stands before the mailing equipment maintained in the mail and imprinting room on the third floor. it is in this department where appropriate imprinting is completed to insure proper mailing of account records and communications.
