Important school bond vote Nov. 20

School voters will decide Monday whether or not to permit the St. Johns School Board to bond for an additional $380,000 to finish a multi-million dollar building program started earlier this year.

Over half the money would be used to buy equipment for the new neighborhood elementary schools. The rest of it would be for site development at the high school, a new bus storage shelter, and interest and bonding costs and contingencies.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday at the normal school district polling places.

Owners of $1,000 and personal property owners who owe more than $100 in school taxes would be the only ones taxed on the bond issue.

A majority more than 50,000 will be needed to pass the issue.

Great thanks for the signatures on the petition. "We are going to win," said a faculty member.

"We are not going to stop working until the bond issue is passed," said Carol A. Oates, city clerk for the vote on the income tax ordinance passed last winter, meaning 180 signatures must be filed with the county clerk. The city clerk then has 20 days to verify the signatures.

"We have gone out and gotten more than a majority of those people who have been asking for the bond issue," said Oates, "and now we're ready to go.

"The expansion project is very well received in this community," said Oates, "and the people who have been asking for the bond issue have now been received by the St. Johns Board of Education.

The collection of signatures is about 70 percent and we will continue our campaign following city commission and county commission hearings. We want to get signatures on a very large number of the city commission and the county commission in addition on another school and started seeking signatures which would have been possible in this campaign.

A STUDENT members of the student body, Mr. & Mrs. Tom Warren and Mr. & Mrs. Paul Warren, plan to go to the polls Tuesday to vote in favor of the bond issue.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday at the normal school district polling places.

First new classroom at Eureka occupied

EUREKA—Classes are now being held in one of the new classrooms at the Eureka Elementary School, the first such room to be completed under the bond issue for the St. Johns Public School building program.

Mrs. Glenn Emlen's second and third grade room was moved into the new room over the weekend from its previous location in the Eureka Center building. Mrs. Emlen's move last week was the first step in moving the original school building so that it can be vacated and the new one occupied.

The school board has been anxiously waiting for the new classrooms to be occupied. Contractors are working on the other classrooms and in the coming weeks they will be moved in.

Bond issue

The school board, present in 'You don't need long enough for me to explain it but I am here for theussen catalog issue for the new classrooms, and if we don't start them and we have to call there we don't have time enough to explain it or the teachers and there will be too many students to explain it too.

The finished room will be occupied as quickly as possible, and the students will be moved and the day will begin.

It was a dark, dismal afternoon, and the gleaming, solid metal cutlery set from Carvel is to be used.

The new room will be used by the St. Johns Honor Guard and the Eureka Fire Department, and it will be occupied as quickly as possible.

There’s music in the air in the halls of Rodney B

By MARIE DAVY, St. Johns High

Twelve girls will make up the membership of the vocal group, the Wilsonettes. Five of the members, Pat Fox, Sharon Koeckner, and Teresa Dewa, recently returned from a trip to Ohio where they were members of the Wilsonettes. Pat Fox, Sharon Koeckner, and Teresa Dewa. Pat Fox, Sharon Koeckner, and Teresa Dewa.

The Wilsonettes have increased in size and have added solos and upping of vocal arrangements, which the girls are now preparing for their first performance.

TAX RATES

There are two tax rate options to choose from: for the average taxpayer, the rate is 20 dollars per $100 of assessed value. For those individuals who are not paying taxes on an income tax, the rate will be 30 dollars per $100 of assessed value. The rate will be based on the amount of property owned by the individual.

Adoption of tax rate:

This is a unique opportunity to participate in the local government. The tax rate was proposed and adopted by the City Council. The adoption of the tax rate is a significant step in the process of funding local services and facilities.

VARIABLE RATES

The tax rate applies to the following types of income:

(1) Salary, bonus, wage, commission (includes vacation, holiday pay, sick pay); (2) distributive share of net profits of a nonresident partner, trust or estate; (3) rental, royalty or license fees; (4) interest on savings or loans; (5) income from estates and trusts; (6) Net profits from farming, livestock, hire or service.

PAYMENT OF TAX

(1) Taxes are payable to the collector of the city where the property is located. The tax is payable on or before the last day of the month in which the tax is due. The tax can be paid by cash, check, or money order. The tax is payable on the form of payment that is accepted by the collector. The tax is payable on the form of payment that is accepted by the collector.

EXEMPTIONS

The following are allowed exemptions for the first parcel of real property and the following are allowed exemptions for the second parcel of real property:

(1) Income from estates and trusts; (2) Income from profits of a trade or business; (3) Income from the sale of real property.

ADDITIONAL RATES

The following are additional rates for real property located in the city of St. Johns:

(1) Income from estates and trusts; (2) Income from profits of a trade or business; (3) Income from the sale of real property.

High school close-up - Part IV

Teachers salute 'togetherness' offered by new high school design

If it had no other advantages, the new academic cluster at St. Johns High School will serve a major purpose in an era of federal government grants for school construction. It will provide the necessary space for larger classes and more electives. The central area will also be able to accommodate the needs of the large classes of the 11th and 12th grades, and the English Department hopes to have enough space to accommodate all English classes.

Leading into the center of the cluster will be the addition of a new wing, which will house the new academic cluster of English, social studies, and math, as outlined here in this architect's plan. The central area of the main cluster will be the library, with the English Department located to the left and the social studies and math departments to the right.

The classrooms in the wing will be compact and efficient, with the English Department taking the two rooms on the left, the social studies and math departments taking the two rooms on the right. The English Department will have two sets of rest rooms and a special projects room off one classroom, while the social studies and math departments will have one set of rest rooms and a special projects room off one classroom.

The English Department is expected to occupy the two rooms on the left, while the social studies and math departments are expected to occupy the two rooms on the right. The English Department will have folding partitions that will divide the rooms, allowing for more flexible use of the space. The social studies and math departments will also have folding partitions that can be adjusted to create larger or smaller rooms as needed.

The English Department will have a large, central cluster of classrooms, with the English Department occupying the two rooms on the left. The social studies and math departments will occupy the two rooms on the right. The English Department will have an office for the department head, a study room, and a conference room. The social studies and math departments will have an office for the department head, a study room, and a conference room.

Eye bank discussed

Roder L. Pilgrim, M.D., of Grand Rapids, located in the Grandview Building at Owosso, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club and lunch was held at the Owosso Country Club. Mr. Pilgrim, a graduate of Yale College and Wayne University, is chairman of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and has served on the National Advisory Panel on Eye Banking since 1956. He is the author of a book, "Eye Banking," and has spoken on this subject at various conferences throughout the nation.

Mr. Pilgrim offered his services to the Owosso Eye Bank, the first established in the state of Michigan. This bank will operate as a non-profit organization with the primary function of preserving the eyes and to distribute them to hospitals, homes and industry.

The Michigan Eye Bank serves the citizens of Michigan, he said. He said he was interested in the possibility of starting a similar organization here.

A question and answer period followed the speech and members were interested in establishing a similar organization in Owosso and to have the opportunity to receive the eyes for our hospitals, homes and industry.

Pilgrim said he was interested in the possibility of starting a similar organization here.

Plan style show Dec.

The Ovid Eye Bank will sponsor an Annual Eye Bank Style Show Dec. There will be a fashion show of the latest eye bank style from the Michigan Eye Bank. The show will be held at the Owosso Country Club on Friday evening, Nov. 24.

Mrs. Paul Platner served as chairperson and in charge of this event. Sandy Grubay and Margaret Thorton, members of the Ovid-Elsie Lions Club and Miss Myrtle Spence will be in charge of fashion shows.

Mrs. Platner said there were several native tribes. Highlights of the journey were trips into the natural habitat. One evening was spent by the water hole. She showed several slides showing her recent presentation.

The Nov. 24 show will be held in Owosso.

The Background of Integrity

There are millions of men in this world whose work is created—their handiwork is a living contrast—their integrity alone accepts without question.

We've come a long way from the days when a sly man and a silent this was the social graces. And this growth in man's capacity for integrity has parallelizoed his growth in religious experience. Of course, the cynic will point to races and nations who still look upon the bale of the Savage man. Jesus we believe that the clack of progress has turned... is running backward!

The need, the anxiety, the desire still feel the strength of God's Name in every household. With their children they are specifying new spiritual opportunity and logic in the channel they choose.

Are you with them? Are you, too, pushing toward the freedom of faith?

U.P. dairy foods use study results for milk and butter

By F. L. Abravanel

While your dairy foods may never meet many of the products in the milk and butter categories, consumers favor milk and butter. The U.P. dairy foods study results showed that milk and butter are popular among consumers in the Upper Peninsula.

Advocates new device for fat testing of milk

As Class B dairy farmers, M. Smith is advocating the use of an automatic milk testing device for fat testing of milk. The device, known as the "Milko-Tester," is being used by dairy farmers in several countries and is gaining popularity in the United States.

Milko-Tester was used in the study of milk quality

The Milko-Tester was used in the study of milk quality by the Ohio State University's Department of Dairy Science. The device is designed to test the fat content of milk automatically, providing accurate results in a matter of seconds.

The device is user-friendly, with easy-to-read results and minimal operator training required. It is also portable, allowing for testing at various locations, such as farms, processing plants, or retail locations.

The study results showed that the Milko-Tester provides accurate and consistent results, comparable to traditional laboratory testing methods. It is expected to become a valuable tool for dairy farmers and processors, improving the quality and safety of milk products.
The St. Johns City Commission's arrow question is certainly in order following their DECISION that the people of the district will have to ignore these, probably because they felt evidence to back it up. An income tax is needed from our city fathers. The $250,000 bond issue the school board is asking next Monday will cost extra to warrant killing it. The money will provide for ballfields, pool areas, tennis courts and benches, kitchen equipment, classroom furniture and other items for the new elementary schools. Some of these items can and will be transferred to the schools. But, it is in poor taste and incomprehensible to imagine these plus a considerable amount and they are going to come to St. Johns School District residents will leave their multi-million dollar building program half-finished, even though it is a manner in which we could all pride.

We can't help but go along with the proposition to think of the cost, spending, including schools, but somehow this bond issue Nov. 30 doesn't seem to fall in line. The money will come out of the same taxpayer pocket. Operations can be cut back, but it doesn't seem logical to build $1.5 million worth of modern, functional buildings and then not provide the equipment to make them functional.

The St. Johns School Board will be waiting with bated breath next Monday to find out whether the people of the district will vote for or against building the new school buildings in the district.

Between the time of the May 166 bond issue and the taking of bids early this year on the project, contracting prices rose sharply, and the bond had to make a careful decision:

"Should we go ahead and build the schools, or should we make a determination to begin the project later?"

They made the latter course—to build the buildings the way they thought they should be built. They were wise. When public officials spend public money, it should be done for the greatest long-range good. Had the school board cut corners in the construction of the school buildings themselves, they would likely be outgrown and outdated sooner than they will now. The money they decided to leave in the construction of the buildings is money well spent.

"Courtship" problems solved by proposed constitution change

Michigan judges could be assigned to the bench on the basis of judicial performance and retribution to stay in office, under a proposed constitutional change that received initial support from both political parties in Lansing.

A hearing on the proposal would be held in Lansing at 10 a.m. Tuesday, according to Sen. Ford, R-Westland, who is sponsoring the legislation.

Forty of the state's 90 judges would be elected every two years, under the proposal. The others would be serving the remaining term on the bench and would be assigned to the bench on the basis of judicial performance.

RECOMMENDED AMENDMENTS

The Michigan Constitution, as drafted and presented to the Michigan Constitutional Convention in June, suggests that judges and local officials be removed from the bench on the basis of judicial performance.

In the House, the proposed amendment would be voted on as a package. Amendments involving the retention of judges and the retention of local officials would be voted on separately.

An amendment to the state constitution that would have been deleted in the House would be restored in the Senate. The amendment would have provided that judges be retained on the basis of judicial performance.
