NOT EVERYBODY AGREES—A while back, one of us surmised that the whole issue was much ado about nothing. It makes you wonder how the damage would be assessed, but the townspeople obviously did not want us and the town council and the town council had to impose an additional property tax. We opponents of the delaying legislation had expected that the House Republican leader, A couple of years ago, then-Congressman C. Daniel Smith, one of my Republican colleagues, said the petitions had not been successful in the state. We do not think the State Tax Commission has not been very successful in its task of equalizing the levels of assessments. We do not think the State Tax Commission will be very successful in its task of equalizing the levels of assessments. OPEN NEW YEAR'S EVE UNTIL 6 P.M. - CLOSED NEW YEAR'S DAY!
The year in review in Elsie area

By NENA KEEN

The early settlers left this earth a long time ago, leaving behind a rich heritage that still lives on in the form of fine patrons. Ovid is one of those places where the past meets the present, and the future. The town is known for its annual events, such as the Elsie Area Fair, the Elsie Fireworks, and the Elsie Christmas Parade. It is also home to several important institutions, such as the Elsie Public Library, the Elsie High School, and the Elsie Community Center. The town is also home to a number of businesses and organizations, such as the Elsie Area Trailers, the Elsie Area Thrift Store, and the Elsie Area Historical Society.

The year in review

The Elsie High School and the Elsie Community Center were the focus of much activity this year. The school opened its doors to a new class of students, and the community center was host to a variety of events, including a bake sale and a craft fair.

The Elsie Area Trailers and the Elsie Area Thrift Store were also active this year. The trailers provided a useful service to the community, while the thrift store continued to offer a wide range of goods at affordable prices.

In addition, the Elsie Area Historical Society continued its important work, collecting and preserving the history of the area.
