SOME FOOD SAFETY TIPS

Prepared foods including meats, poultry, fish, and eggs must be handled properly to prevent food poisoning. Staphylococcus aureus (Staph) is a bacteria that causes food poisoning. It can be found on the hands of people who handle food. It can also be found on the skin of people who have not washed their hands properly before handling food.

To prevent food poisoning, wash your hands before handling food. Use hot soapy water and wash your hands for at least 20 seconds. Be sure to wash your hands after handling raw meat, poultry, fish, and eggs. Never wash your hands with cold water because it may not appear clean.

So no one's touched you,

Foods must be cooked to a safe temperature to prevent food poisoning. A thermometer should be used to check the internal temperature of meats, poultry, fish, and eggs. For example, roasts should be cooked to an internal temperature of 140 degrees F. Poultry should be cooked to an internal temperature of 165 degrees F. Fish should be cooked to an internal temperature of 145 degrees F. Eggs should be cooked to an internal temperature of 160 degrees F.

It is also important to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. Hot foods should be held at 140 degrees F or above. Cold foods should be kept below 41 degrees F. Use a hot food station or a chafing dish to keep hot foods hot. Use a refrigerated area or a cooler to keep cold foods cold.

So now you have a plan for preparing and serving food. But what if something goes wrong? What if you or someone else gets sick from food poisoning? What should you do?

If you or someone else gets sick from food poisoning, you should seek medical attention immediately. Call your doctor or go to the nearest emergency room. Food poisoning can be serious, especially for young children, older adults, and people with weak immune systems.

In addition to seeking medical attention, you should clean your hands with soap and hot water. Do this immediately after handling or touching any foods that may have caused food poisoning.

Also, clean and disinfect any surfaces that may have come into contact with the food. This includes countertops, utensils, and cooking equipment.

Finally, you should avoid eating any food that may have caused food poisoning. This includes the food itself, as well as anything that touched the food. If you are unsure about whether a food may have caused food poisoning, do not eat it.

This advice applies to all types of food poisoning, including Staphylococcus aureus, Salmonella, and E. coli. It is important to be aware of food poisoning and to take steps to prevent it. By following these tips, you can help to keep yourself and others healthy.

Happy Anniversary to Mr and Mrs Harmon!

Some advice on fire wood

(ACQUIRED FROM FARMER)

Which will be needed for the season, says Stanley Baird, Chairman of the St. John's heating Committee. Some of the ways people can avoid wood shrinkage:

1. Do not burn the wood in the winter.
2. Do not use the wood for firewood before it is cut and cured.
3. Do not use the wood in the winter.
4. Do not store the wood where it will be exposed to the weather for an extended period of time.
5. Do not use it if the wood is wet.

Because of the fuel shortage, store fuel where it will be useable for heating homes. This source of wood fuel that is available is extensive. Because of the fuel shortage, store fuel where it will be useable for heating homes. This source of wood fuel that is available is extensive.

I don't agree with this philosophy, and, of course, I intend to keep every one of my new year's resolutions. Of course, the trick is to draft a list of long-term resolutions that are merely made to be broken.

New Year resolutions are a way of doing business. For example, in 1974. Of course, the trick is to draft a list of long-term resolutions that may never be achieved. For example, I can't agree with the philosophy and mind breaking my mother's back. And I don't think there was outside help even during the lightning strike my toe nails, if they are not kept.

JORDAN SPRINGER has proven the value of the Reader's Digest Canadian Journal. Last year, a group of people who were interested in learning more about the world, such as the Tinker Toy Reps, strolled in to my office and 5

asked to fill in a questionnaire designed to find out their interests.

Don't you wonder what they are going to do with this information? Do you really want the right to know? Do you really want to be informed?

Lake and farm pond users—the first ice is dangerous

Don't go out early! The first ice of the season is dangerous and unpredictable. This snow is frozen on the water, and while the ice might appear firm enough, it isn't. We're knowing this to warn you, not to warn off, but to warn you to be careful. If you're not sure, don't go out. We're seeing this in the community today and we want to make sure everyone is aware of the potential dangers.

Let's keep this in mind and spread the word. We need your help to keep our community safe. If you see someone out on the ice, please remind them of these warnings. Together, we can prevent accidents and keep our community safe.

Thank you for your attention.
RECP receives funds

EAST LANSING-The USDA Department of Agriculture announced this week that the Economic Research Institute for Chapel Hill, NC, and the University of Montana has received $1 million from the RECP program under the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. This is the first of three grants announced for the 1974 fiscal year.

The RECP program is designed to assist farmers and ranchers to enter into long-term cost-share agreements with owners and operators of eligible wetlands in order to protect these areas against failures, and to maximize their economic and ecological benefits.

Four fire departments participate in training

Four fire departments from Central Michigan participated in a training exercise this week at the Christmas holiday.

Members of the Departments of Agriculture, Michigan State University, and Michigan State Police are participating in a training exercise that is being provided by the Michigan Forestry Fire Training Council.

The training exercise is designed to improve the skills of fire fighters and to enhance the safety of the participants.

Some of the features of the exercise include:

- Identifying and handling hazardous materials
- Training on the use of personal protective equipment
- Improving communication and coordination among firefighters

The training exercise is being held at the Fire Training Center in Mt. Pleasant, Michigan.

Ag in action

Nearly everyone, at year's end, makes a list and plans projects for the new year. We all set aside time and money for our goals and dreams. But during the holidays, the focus is on family and friends. The season of giving sets the holiday agenda.

It's a time to be grateful and generous, to share and give. The holiday season is celebrated around the world in different ways, from the traditional American Christmas to global celebrations like Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, and Diwali.

Whether you're decorating a tree or lighting menorahs, the holiday spirit brings joy and unity.

Bell Telephone increase affects Gen Tel rates

General Telephone customers in the area will see a small increase in rates starting in February. Vice President and controller of Gen Tel, William L. Ballenger (R-Lansing) has publicly released information that the basic rate the telephone company charges for long distance calls has increased one cent for each minute, making the new rate $1.99 a minute. This means that the service, which was usually within the minimum charge, will now require a deposit of $1.
