Road employees, commission locked in contract talks

The Clinton County Road Commission is meeting tonight for what could be a final presentation for a new contract, according to county Road Commissioner Bob Martin.

Martin said the road commission had been negotiating with the road employees represented by the Teamsters union for about six months. The current contract expired Dec. 31, and new negotiations were expected to start shortly.

Robert Clemons, field contractor for the county, said the new contract would be based on the state's 73 cents-per-hour rate. He said the county was trying to keep up with the state's increase.

The contract is expected to be finalized in the next few weeks, he said.

Union members voted down the contract offered by the city last week, which included raises per hour for today's workers.

The new contract will be voted on by the union members at a meeting later this week.

CMU to offer 2 classes here

The university could soon offer classes in St. Johns. The CMU board will decide whether to offer classes in January. Ms. Wineman Teiler, who teaches Goodwill, is scheduled to be in attendance.

Teiler, who is a former state senator, is an expert on the subject of the House of Representatives. The board will meet on Monday, Jan. 8, at 7 a.m. in the Johnson Administration Building.

Section 3 of the state constitution requires the university to offer courses in Goodwill. The board has already approved the course for the fall semester.

In other news, the CMU board is expected to vote on a new policy regarding the use of credit cards for purchases made on the campus. The current policy allows students to use credit cards for purchases up to $100, but the board is considering increasing the limit to $200.

New radar unit "really works"

By ROBERT ELDRIDGE

The end of the old year means a bit of extra time to consoldate after the road construction, although we are not due to be off the road roads for another six to eight months. A great number of townships and cities have called or have sent to the state for information concerning the state of road construction. The state has been most cooperative and has sent out a number of men to work in the area.

The next St. Johns traffic radar unit has its own little speedometer, which can be stopped and held in place to show speeding drivers how fast they did go. A ticket held by the officer or farmers to receive report of payments

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

Michigan's 1967 weather, which formed all sorts of records, brought both the good and not-so-good. But the state's largest farm industry, the dairy, ranked high. Just as one year, Michigan has been designated brucellosis free after reports proved its brucellosis status. This week federal officials released Michigan's status in brucellosis-free status. The state ranks in the top five areas in the nation for milk and butterfat production. It is estimated that over 3 million farmers will receive their 1967 tax reports due on or before January 15, 1968, to avoid a possible penalty for underpayment of estimated taxes. Farmers like to receive this report so they can compare it with farm records. Farmers wish to have now will help, but lack of high food output through the year and one of the major crops, Michigan's weather, was held up well in 1967. The big reason that Michigan's farm output held up well is expected to be the state's swine industry. A recent survey concluded that just last spring Michigan's status as brucellosis-free was confirmed. The state's swine industry is the only one in the nation that has no problem with the disease. Michigan's diversity pays off in main ranking crops are apples, potatoes, corn, and barley. The state's total agricultural output was only down 1 per cent from last year, in spite of the poor weather. The state's swine industry was hampered by the poor weather, but still held up well. Taxes or not? St. John's reader asks

Dear Reader,

Thank you for your letter. It is great to know that there are still people who care about the truth in labeling.

As for your question about the truth in labeling for men, it is a complex issue. There are many factors that come into play when determining what is and is not a legitimate claim. The government has strict regulations in place to ensure that companies are not making false or misleading statements.

What is the great unknown story of 1967?

Dear Editor,

I am interested in learning more about the events of 1967. Can you tell me about some of the major events that took place in that year?

There were several significant events in 1967. One of the most notable was the movement for civil rights, which gained momentum with the March on Washington. The Vietnam War also reached a new level of violence that year, with the My Lai Massacre.

A sign of weakness

There is a Latin expression—argument ad hominem—which applies to much current rhetoric and debate. The expression means argument to the man, or to plain English, drawing attention away from the main issues by attacking personalities.

Signs of weakness are a sure sign of weakness in the thinking processes.

Gasoline called biggest "unknown story" of 1967

Gasoline was called the biggest "unknown story" of 1967 in 1968. This was the one that everyone was talking about, but no one seemed to know for sure what it was. It made it hard for the government to regulate the industry and for consumers to make informed decisions about their fuel needs.

The store of the future

The store of the future is an interesting concept. It is hard to say exactly what it will look like, but it is likely that it will be more automated and have fewer employees. It may also be more focused on providing a personalized experience for the customer.

Men needed in nursing professions in Michigan

Major nurses are in short supply. The Clinton County News, which was mentioned in the previous text, covers this topic. The newspaper emphasizes the need for men to enter the nursing profession and highlights the benefits and responsibilities of being a male nurse. It also mentions that male nurses have a better chance of raising families.

Miss Eleanor Tromp, executive secretary of the Michigan Nurses Association, agrees with the newspaper's stance and believes that men have a role to play in the nursing profession. The Michigan Nurses Association, along with other organizations, predicts that the demand for male nurses will continue to increase.

How do female nurses feel about the increased number of male nurses entering the profession? Miss Tromp attributes this change to the increasing need for male nurses and the better chances they provide to raise families.

The article also mentions the Michigan State Nurses Association and its efforts to attract more male nurses. The association has set up a program to encourage men to enter the nursing profession, and it believes that this will help alleviate the shortage of nurses in the state.

Regulation of the drug industry is an area in which the drug industry itself and government agencies are still making efforts. The article refers to the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, which is responsible for developing guidelines for the drug industry. The association believes that the regulation of drug prices is necessary to ensure that pharmaceutical companies do not exploit patients. It also mentions that the government should continue to monitor the drug industry to ensure that they are not exploiting patients.
