Fred M. Lewis, 48 years a postman, retires

By LOWELL G. BENDER

Fred M. Lewis has given up his job as a postman after 48 years of service with the post office.

Nothing particularly unusual happened except that he retired to the private life of a retired postman. Friday he began a retirement dinner before an unseen throng that could not be seated that night. He was a bit late in leaving his post office of 90 years ago, but he was also a bit early in leaving.

The post office has been in business for 90 years. It has been the property of the city of Ionia for almost that long.

In 1875, a post office was established in Ionia, and Fred M. Lewis was employed as a postman. He has been employed in that capacity ever since.

His retirement was announced by Postmaster J. A. Robinson. He has been on the job since 1940.

"Lewis was an outstanding employee," Postmaster Robinson said. "He worked hard and never complained. He was always cheerful and friendly."

Lewis also had a reputation for saving the mail. He was known to go through the mail to make sure that all the letters were delivered.

Lewis said goodbye to his co-workers and to the town of Ionia.

"I will miss the town," he said. "I will miss the people. I have made many friends here."

Lewis will continue to live in Ionia with his wife.

Gen Tel spending set record in ’65

A record $18 million was spent by Gen Tel personnel in service expansion and improvements. In 1964, Gen Tel spent $14.8 million. The company said the expansion will provide 3,000 additional telephone lines to serve growing suburban areas.

The Clinton County board of supervisors held their first meeting in the new courthouse wing Monday, even though all the furniture has not arrived. The chairs are sitting in row now, but the tables are temporary until new tables get here, Chairman James L. Creathman announced at the front of the room.

Board moved fast on miscellaneous items

Despite some lengthier debate for the first time a number of items were placed on the agenda at the meeting. A number of other transitions were made.

For instance, they easily set dates for the supervisor’s meetings in the coming weeks. The first will be a meeting of the Township Officers, Jan. 28, and another will be a meeting of the Supervisors on Jan. 19. The meetings of the Board of County Commissioners will be held at the courthouse.

In other miscellaneous items:

• The board approved a taxing committee recommendation to increase the 1966 tax rate by 3.7 cents.

• The board accepted a recommendation of the Board of Social Services to approve the appointment of Richard Clark as the assistant county auditor. A high class candidate.

• The usual report of Draft Compliance Division. Compliance with the draft, the board noted.

• President Tabor and several other members were asked to make a recommendation at the next meeting on what merchandise the board would like to purchase from local merchants.

• Communications Chairman Arthur Carver said he is in touch with the Clinton County grape growers and is interested in the grape industry in the county.

• The board noted that the court of commons had adopted a resolution opposing the closing of the Chippewa County精神病院.

• The board noted that the Chippewa County精神病院 had adopted a resolution opposing the closing of the Chippewa County精神病院.

Then she decided to buy a spoon as a hobby for her collection. She began collecting at an hobby in 1950 when she developed a hobby at the circus. A Laing.

She was interviewed by the collector, who was also a collector, and she explained the history and value of the spoons she collects. She said that she enjoys the hobby because it allows her to learn about the history and culture of the people who made the spoons.

The collector also mentioned that there are many different types of spoons that can be collected, including souvenirs, commemorative spoons, and spoons that are made from different materials such as wood, silver, and bone.

There are also collectors who specialize in a particular type of spoon, such as those that are made in a specific region or are made by a particular maker.

The collector recommended that anyone interested in collecting spoons should visit local antique shops and flea markets to find unique spoons, and also mentioned that there are many online resources available for finding information and buying spoons.

New Year's Eve and Christmas in Eureka

On New Year's Eve, the Eureka Congregational Christian Church held a special service to ring in the new year. The service was followed by a special dinner and a dance to celebrate the occasion. The church was decorated with holiday-themed decorations, and the congregation came together to share a festive meal.

Similarly, on Christmas Eve, the church held a special service to mark the holiday. The service was attended by many members of the community, and included special music, readings, and a special message from the pastor. After the service, attendees enjoyed traditional Christmas dinner, including roast beef, mashed potatoes, and all the trimmings.

"It's always preaching forgiveness for trespasses, and that surely includes forgiving ourselves!"
Em tree 'holes' in city landscape are showing

The City of St. Johns is in the throes of a big tree problem, much the same as many other communities in the state. The old elm and dying elm trees are marked with an X—the marking that soon will be found.

About 1,000 or more trees in town have the yellow X on them. This is in the basic morality, for the trees in front of a house is an asset to any property, and mortal property owners would go along with an idea like that.

The utility companies certainly would have some thoughts concerning the shade trees of medium height, and tree nurseries would be happy to provide information. Street department service groups in town might provide a little financial support.

It does take time for saplings to make shade trees. But it is the time that should be planned now for the future beauty of St. Johns.

Says new legislation needed to fight crime

Moral sense and unscrupulous legislation have been called by a Wayne Circuit Court Judge as factors contributing to the nation's worst crime wave.

Speaking to law enforcement administrators at a Michigan State University conference, Judge Edward S. Piggins condemned a 'decline in moral standards, a phenomenon that many Americans who place selfish material acquisition ahead of family and community interests.'

"THESE PEOPLE," he contended, "are ignoring the vital importance of observing the law.

He said recent court decisions have made police departments uncertain of their authority, and have resulted in a lack of police aggressiveness.

Judge Piggins called the law enforcement agency "our greatest bastion of strength against the forces of evil from within," and added, "We must destroy the illusion that someone receives the highest respect, regard, cooperation and public accord."

He emphasized that continued criticism of high court decisions will avail no enforcement enforcement.

THE ENACTMENT of legal and constitutional legislation by police officials and citizens to "create the balance between police responsibility and authority and citizens' rights." is the most important answer to the present dilemma," he said.

Judge Piggins suggested joint meetings of attorneys, legislative bodies, police officials and citizens to "create the balance between police responsibility and authority and citizens' rights."

Farmers can help preserve beauty

Michigan driving is the favorite mode of travel for many of our nation's farmers, according to recent studies in the Michigan Farm Service Review. The majority of them prefer driving to visiting other states or the nation's capital for recreation. The Michigan Farm Service Review conducted a survey to determine the mode of travel that farmers prefer for recreation. The survey was conducted at various locations throughout the state, including the Michigan State University Extension Service, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The survey found that driving is the preferred mode of travel for farmers for several reasons. The survey also found that farmers prefer to travel to other states or the nation's capital for recreation when they are not working on their farms. The survey also found that farmers prefer driving for recreation because it allows them to experience new places and cultures. The survey also found that driving is the preferred mode of travel for farmers because it is more convenient and less expensive than other modes of travel. The survey also found that farmers prefer driving for recreation because it allows them to explore new places and cultures.
