City’s urban renewal project to be carried out in 2 phases

Original federal grant won’t cover all costs

St. John’s proposed urban renewal project will have to be carried out in two phases if the city wants to avoid another year’s delay in getting to the bid stages.

The phasing is necessary because the federal government’s original grant of $4 million won’t cover the entire cost of the St. John’s program.

In its final application, which the city commission approved making in November, the city asked for $10 million to cover the first project stage and $5 million to cover the second stage.

The second stage would be the original project, as well as some $78,000 to make necessary improvements to the existing site.

Foster & Jolgren of Lansing, the consulting firm, agreed to sponsor future acqu equations at this project (Sleepy Hollow), and have at hand other objectives at this project (Sleepy Hollow), and have at hand other objectives.

The urban renewal story — Supporting data vital to application

Despite a long history of talk about downtown St. John’s improvements and a strong interest in the matter on the part of many residents, the project itself was not developed until the city received a federal grant.

Supporting evidence was needed for almost every point on the application.

The city was now in a position, she said, to have a real program, to have a real plan, to have a real statement of how the city would benefit.

Upper Maple River Watershed Project

Clinton, Gratiot & Shiawassee

The Upper Maple River Watershed Project will have to be carried out in two phases if the city wants to avoid another year’s delay in getting to the bid stages.

The decision Clinton’s making to split the project at a cost of $3 million into 2 phases will benefit the city in several ways.

First, the city will be able to focus on one phase at a time, allowing for better planning and execution.

Second, the project will be more manageable, enabling the city to secure adequate funding for each phase.

Third, the project will be more widely supported, as the community can better understand and rally behind each phase individually.

The decision to split the project will have several implications.

SCS gets ’green light’ on Maple River project plan

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) has received approval to proceed with the Maple River project.

The project, which aims to address flooding and improve water quality in the Maple River, has faced challenges in the past.

However, with the approval from SCS, the project can finally move forward.

The project will involve the construction of a dam and the installation of a drainage system.

The total cost of the project is estimated to be $2.5 million.

The project is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The construction of the dam will take place in the spring, followed by the installation of the drainage system in the fall.

The project is expected to benefit the local community by reducing flooding and improving water quality in the Maple River.

Tourism in Michigan: At the crossroads

Tourist Council defends request for additional $590,000 in next fiscal budget

The Michigan Tourist Council is making a request of the State Legislature for an appropriation of $1,817,000 for fiscal 1967-68. This is nearly $950,000 more than last year's appropriation of $850,000.

The Tourist Council points to the incredible rise in tourism in Michigan, the last seven years, and the maintaining potential of the next five years in the increase of its 1961-66 budget requests.

1961 - 1966

Five years ago, Michigan received about $850 million in tourist spending. The Michigan Tourist Council announced a five-year program in which forecast an increase to $1.5 billion by 1970 per year. This new forecast makes a significant contribution to the state treasury, create even more millions of dollars to the state's economy within the next five years, and increase employment opportunities in the service industries, and industrial development.

THE ABILITY to attract new and improved motels, ski lodges, attractions, and other accommodations is the best product in the world. We must maintain, improve, and lead to the best product in the world.

These goals have been reached through a $1 billion annual increase from tourist spending have grown from about $850 million to $1.5 billion annually, the Michigan Tourist Council is making a request of the State Legislature for an additional $590,000 in next fiscal budget.

FIVE YEARS LATER, in 1966, the Michigan Tourist Council presented its first report to the State Legislature. The report stated that $124,000 was appropriated in fiscal 1961-62, $176,000 in fiscal 1962-63, $391,000 in fiscal 1963-64, $590,000 in fiscal 1964-65, and $850,000 in fiscal 1965-66, with an appropriation of $1,817,000 for fiscal 1967-68. This request in the next five years is to be made in the form of sales and use tax money, tobacco and liquor levy dollars, and additional private investments in travel facilities, create more opportunities for service industries and contribute to the overall economy of the state.

By promoting our attractions, Michigan can attract even more visitors, with special emphasis on bringing guests from out-of-state, and even from the West Coast. There is no doubt that the Michigan Tourist Council is making a request for additional $590,000 in the next fiscal budget.

The next week will be part of the Michigan Tourist Council's yearly program to attract even more tourists to the state. This program includes a complete insurance policy to really protect. Let us help you plan a complete insurance policy to really protect. Let us help you plan a complete insurance policy.

When Kathy prays, I can almost hear angel wings flutter. Her simple conversations with God are a field of trust and confidence. I feel so much I am standing at the dawning of her hope.

After prayers, I took her into bed, turn off the light and go downstair. And I find myself confessing the conversations she has started. Parents are always the same...that is she grows and her needs and her change, my little girl will continue to develop and understand and love of God.

How great I am for my church. It has been a source of inspiration for my own religious growth. I know I will be ready to help me answer Kathy's questions. It is wonderful to know that I do not have to tackle the religious education of my children.

Attend your church. Let it help you as you guide your child's religious thinking.

Predicts rising production costs to farmers again in '67

Production costs will be a major concern to farmers this year, as they were in 1966. With the market value of soybeans and small grains, increasing and with the prices of virtually everything farmers need rising, the cost of production is expected to increase. This is according to Hagen, who predicts rising production costs for farmers in 1967. Hagen notes that the cost of production is a serious problem for farmers in recent years, which has affected their ability to earn a living in agriculture.

The bank which Hagen heads, the Michigan State Bank, serves farmers and the community in general. It is an important source of financial assistance to farmers, providing long-term real estate and other types of financing. The bank also offers a variety of services, including checking accounts, savings accounts, and loan programs for both personal and business needs.

Michigan farmers are facing increasing production costs due to rising prices of raw materials, labor, and energy sources. These costs are expected to continue to rise in the coming years, which will affect the profitability of agriculture. Therefore, it is important for farmers to find ways to reduce costs and increase efficiency in their operations to remain competitive in the market.

FARM ASSETS IN the U. S. in 1966 was $273 billion. Most of this was farmland, which was $173 billion. The rest was in livestock, machinery, and other equipment. The market value of livestock increased by 10% between 1965 and 1966, due to increases in the market value of soybeans and small grain.

WASHINGTON— At one time in 1966 we paid as much as 6.14 per cent interest on funds for lending by issuing bonds. The interest rate for borrowing funds by issuing bonds was much higher in 1966 than in 1965. At the end of the year, the interest rate for borrowing funds by issuing bonds was 6% per annum, which was lower than the interest rate in 1965.

Michigan farmers are currently facing an acute labor shortage and rising costs for labor saving equipment. The majority of Michigan farmers are dependent on family labor, which is not enough to meet the demands of modern agriculture.

The prediction of rising production costs to farmers again in '67 is not surprising, as the cost of production has been rising steadily over the years. It is important for farmers to find ways to reduce costs and increase efficiency in their operations to remain competitive in the market.

Every once in a while I go out on top of my desk. Most of the negatives were taken of my brother, but I've found some pictures showing the same scene, a "free press" and this does not supply the truth. I don't develop the film, but it is not something that a "free press" can afford, but it is not something that I have had for the past 10 years. I have had to replace the camera if St. Johns is going to remain the beauty that trees offer.

A few factors should be considered: a. The size of the pool should be sufficient. b. The process should be random and impartial. c. The list should not contain only retired judges.
