The Putnam Lakes Community Planning Commission again came under fire at a recent County Board of Supervisors meeting Monday night. Local residents of the Clinton County Planning Commission, also representing the Clinton County Waste Management District, made a motion to remove the Putnam Lakes Community Planning Commission from holding its meetings in the early 1970s.

The only issue to be discussed was whether thePutnam Lakes Community Planning Commission was the same as the Clinton County Waste Management District, or if it was a separate entity.

The Putnam Lakes Community Planning Commission was considered to be the same organization as the Clinton County Waste Management District, which is a separate entity.

The motion to remove the Putnam Lakes Community Planning Commission from holding its meetings in the early 1970s was carried unanimously by the County Board of Supervisors.

Redwing spirit: the story in pictures

The spirit of St. Johns took to the streets last week as the community paid tribute to its champions—the Redwing basketball team.

The Wings, which had won the West Central Conference, a district championship, and moved to the finals in regional competition, also brought out a special feeling among their fans—a togetherness which even bridged the so-called generation gap.

An example of this was seen when about 150 fans gathered in the parking lot at 11 p.m. on Friday night, numbering 50 people who "camped" overnight in the school cafeteria while waiting for the ticket box to open. The Wings went on sale we had people lining up on the same side. It really was a beautiful and heart-warming sight, a "community" basketball game, agreed.

There were farmers and business owners, mothers and teen-agers playing cards at the same table; mothers and teen-agers learning to play basketball together, agreed. "We thought they might as well be inside and warm," he added, "It was definitely where it was happening," said one woman who took part in the vigil. "There were people of all ages, from the same side. It really was a beautiful and heart-warming sight," she said. "We thought they might as well be inside and warm."

Redwing power was super power.

"Green power," too.

"Step?"

"Music has no generation gap for people that are going to be if they are going to be," said C.J. Hunter, band master. "It was definitely where it was happening," said one woman who took part in the vigil. "There were people of all ages, from the same side. It really was a beautiful and heart-warming sight," she said. "We thought they might as well be inside and warm."

Second all-school play

‘Curious Savage’ comes to St. Johns March 20-21

In the wake of football tournament activity around St. Johns High School in the past week, a group of energetic and hard working students1 present a very unusual all-school production. For the show, the drama department has chosen John Patrick’s ‘The Curious Savage.’ Performances begin Friday, March 20 and Saturday, March 21.

The drama department has been given permission by ‘The Curious Savage’ author John Patrick to perform the play for the competition. This means that the school will be entered in the state-wide regional competition for the play, which will be held at Eastern Michigan University.

The contest is sponsored by the Manufacturers Life Insurance companies in the state of Michigan. The insurance companies have given the school a $1000 prize if the school wins the competition. The money will be used to buy a new auto for the students of the school, if the school wins.

The lead role of Mrs. Savage is being played by Mitzi, Anita Kramer as Lolly, and LeRoy Rademacher as Larry Savage. John Thelen as Ross, Tessle, Valerie Hill as Miss Thermometer and LeRoy Rademacher as Larry Savage. The performance dates are Friday, March 20 and Saturday, March 21 at 8:20 p.m. Student art show accompanied by string quartet music provided by the St. Johns Music Club. Advance tickets will be on sale for the Lansing Civic Players production ‘Home,’ which was presented a few weeks ago, for $1.25 for adults and $1.00 for students. The play will be presented Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 8:20 p.m. Tickets will also be on sale at the box office in the High School Auditorium Lobby. Try One in The Guard!

The Adjutant General of Michigan, Major General G.O. Schnipke announced today that the Michigan National Guard has a new recruit program called 'Try One in The Guard.'

The program is aimed at anyone looking for a full-time job or part-time work who wishes to catch up on the strength of the National Guard.

The prime target is the man returning from active duty, especially the Vietnam veteran. The enlistee will have the opportunity to earn extra income, receive free B.F. Goodrich loaner tires for use while working, and receive training while on active duty. Another feature of the program is that the term of enrollment extends only one year. The Guard is seeking the man who will return from active duty. Extra income, representing the many benefits for enlistment-program, and technical schooling to mention a few. "When he sees what we have to offer, we're confident he will remain in the Guard," said General Schnipke.

Shoes Stand on Ladylike Footing, Are Treated to Higher Heels

Footwear for spring takes a soft, feminine turn, in ladylike shoes with a more casual appeal to sport the new less formal, easy-to-wear styles. In the soft, rubber outsole slippers, either out or in a heel, the look is with young and old. Suede has been enlivened with an added color palette, including a variety of toe designs and cut styles. In addition, a selection of colorful shoe styles can also be had, plus several new classics, the look as smooth, soft and with the well-worn comfort of suede. Nova leathers are a new addition to the line, providing a smooth, supple look. As part of the new femininity, heels are on the rise. Little Girls Step Softly, Prettily, As Pumps, Sandals Gain in Favor

Soft and pretty is the leather shoe look for little girls' spring. Toelines generally are softly rounded, and even in school and play styles, a lower cut is starting to appear. As pumps, sandals return to favor, showing straps mostly in soft, pinked brogues, while the well-groomed air, while oxfords look new with heavy stitching, higher throatlines, ghillie ties or contrasting saddles.

Play Any Role, Is Sportswear Rule—But Be Feminine

Chosen as line and line to it, it fashions' variations for sportsmanship for a practical place, or a shady snap. Play any role this spring by all means, to become about it. As pump and pump, since sportswear focus is in softness and movement. Wearing to sports, sports, tennis, bowling, visiting, or parties, the fit is easy, but there's keen of shape moving into and differing the heeled.

The 55th annual Farmers' Week at Michigan State University, March 23-25, this year's program for men and women appears to be an unusually rich menu.

A good many men may want to stop in on several of them once again, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the week. Clinton County.

This year's program for women, will be conducted at Michigan State University, March 23-26 and promises an interesting time for artists from rural Michigan and over the Michigan State University, next door will be an MSU standing exhibit of textiles, ceramics pieces and metal work from Michigan craftsmen. Even visitors may examine an outstanding art exhibit. Not far away the extension office. Next door will be an MSU standing exhibit of textiles, ceramics pieces and metal work from Michigan craftsmen. The Great Man Came

The crowd had been gathering for hours. From every corner of the town they came—men and women, young and old, from all walks of life. Not very sexy, but...

She will give farmers some valuable advice

"She's not very sexy, but she's very good at it," said one observer.

A Michigan State University agricultural economist, who has the knack of being able to talk to farmers about their most pressing problems, will make a two-day tour of the state next week, when she expects to meet with poultrymen who maintain laying flocks.

Tuesday is poultry day at MSU Farm Week

"Michigan today grows great numbers of broilers and both broilers and turkeys," she said. "But the farmer has to have knowledge of how to grow them efficiently and economically."

Dr. E. R. Brown, assistant poultry industry specialist in North Carolina, will be the principal speaker for the poultry session.

Maryland's livestock and poultry industry has developed a great deal of efficiency and selectivity in the last few years, he said. "The poultry industry is now a major factor in the economy of North Carolina, and we are interested in developing similar programs in Michigan."

Dr. Brown will speak on "The Importance of Selective Breeding in the Poultry Industry."

"We want to encourage farmers to select the best breeds for their specific needs," he said. "We have developed several new breeds that are well-adapted to Michigan's climate and market conditions."

Elburna, 22, who operates one of the largest and most successful poultry farms in Michigan, said, "I appreciate the MSU scientists' efforts in providing us with the latest information and tips on how to raise healthy and productive birds."

The sign-up period has been extended until 7:00 p.m. and feed grain supplies are generally related to his physical and mental well-being.

Why AMIBEN is today's No.1 soybean weed and grass killer

Because it gives you, in your choice of liquid concentrate or granules, the broadest range weed and grass control on the market.

Other soybean herbicides are essentially grass killers. AMIBEN pre-emergence weedkiller not only controls a full range of grasses but also, as a bonus, controls a full range of broadleaf weeds. In fact, Amiben controls more grassy weeds and more broadleaf weeds than any competitive chemical you can buy.

Amiben gives you these advantages with safety to your crops (even in wet weather), safety to adjacent crops and to crops you may plant on the same ground next year. Other soybean herbicides may perform well within their own limits, but they are no match for Amiben... the nearest thing to a perfect soybean weed and grass killer that science has yet come up with. That's why more farmers choose Amiben than any other soybean herbicide.

A good day

There is nothing wrong with being described as a "sleepy little town," and that's what St. Johns is. Not sleepy in the usual sense of the word, but sleepy to the extent that a comfortable atmosphere prevails—an atmosphere smothered by many persona'es who lack the advantages offered by "sleepy little towns."

But in recent years bad dreams have plagued the sleepy little town. The term "austerity budget" has come to have liberator meaning and vivid visions on how to handle the fiscal problems have caused heads to roll and teeth to grind.

At times the dreams have shown ex-

More than words

Despite skepticism in some quarters that current concerns over pollution are being emphasized out of proportion, the fact remains that the gravity of our problems is decreasing at an alarming rate. We probably are all bad dreamers, and this clarification of solid waste is the minimal problem facing our society.

Suddenly everyone is aware of and concerned with environmental problems, ranging from the obvious to the ugly. The use of land has not always resulted in the rewriting from undesirable contamination. Technology has given us innovations of packaging which, in themselves, are not necessarily bad, but this elimination of solid waste is no minimal problem facing our society. The community should take an active part in preventing these problems from arising.

Whether our concern is out of proportion is a question. The question is will our concern be directed toward combating pollution. We have more words to show that it exists and it will take more than words to combat its growing presence.

View from the 87th

By William G. Balderson

State Representative

This week, I'd like to touch on the subject of a very personal thing that has been on my mind for a while. It's something that I believe we all should think about, and that is the protection of our environment. This is especially relevant given the current political climate, and the changes we may see in the future.

One of the things I've been focusing on is the idea of a "green" lifestyle. It's not just about being environmentally conscious for the sake of the planet, but also for ourselves. We need to start thinking about what we're doing to our environment, and what we can do to mitigate the damage we're causing.

I believe we all have a responsibility to take care of our environment, and that means making choices that are sustainable and environmentally friendly. It's not just about what we do for the planet, but also what we do for ourselves.

I want to encourage everyone to think about their own lives, and what they can do to make a difference. It doesn't have to be a big change, but it does have to be a change. We all need to take responsibility for the world we live in, and the world we leave behind.

I hope you'll join me in this effort, and that we all work together to make a better future for ourselves and for the generations to come.

The big fish contest

By Bob Calverley

It is fitting and proper, now that the fishing season is near its end, to note in laudatory terms the annual Citrus Lake County News Big Fish Contest. A total of 1,600 pounds of fish were caught, which is an indication of the good fishing available in Citrus Lake County. The contest is open to all persons, and the winner is the person who catches the heaviest fish. It is a contest that all can participate in, and it is a great way to enjoy the outdoors.
