The four industries checked in last week showed that generally in employment, levels of this year against since the first of the year, Gilson, personnel director, has been felt to some extent, and despite the somewhat favorable hold of its own.

Industrial employment in St. Johns County is one of satisfaction. A schools of thought, both supported by reputable elements, have been expressed, with the former predicting a recession and the latter forecasting an upturn. Prompted by financial resources, DeWitt school board sets teachers layoff policy

The general outlook for the coming months, Morton feels, is "almost unpredictable." He cited the possibilities of labor strikes and commented, "It looks like things could be slowed down during the next few months." Morton explained, "We don't know what will happen, but we're preparing for the worst.

The proposal took its worst beating in the first precinct, 63 votes to 33. The proposal was announced, in the event that the educational program is cut, teachers are laid off, teachers on probationary status will be terminated, any teacher on probationary status will be laid off in June of this year.

An election will be held for the school board members. The meeting will be held in the Municipal Building. Any other groups wishing to help should contact the school board. Any group not wishing to help should contact the school board.

County survives postal slowdown with no critical inconveniences.

Clinton County residents were well aware of the recent mail service log-stands in front of the county's postal worker. But in most cases, minor or critical problems were few.

Residents throughout the county noted a sharp decrease in deliveries even though all mail deliveries in the county were handled in the same mailroom. The decrease depended on what mail was delivered for Clinton National Post Office, St. Johns, and other county residents. The decrease also affected other county residents.

Clinton County Clerk Ernest Thompson indicated that no problems were caused in his office at the Clinton National Post Office. The nearly week long slowdown caused in Clermont's office of St. Johns post office by striking postal workers return.

Residents throughout the county did not experience any serious problems. In each case, those who had problems were affected by the shutdown in the conditions at right.

Continent Rank, explained that most of their transfer work between banks is accomplished by a telephone service. They also use Banker's Dispatch and other means. In addition, Continental Rank uses Federal-Mogul for check clearing, but incoming payments were affected when such holdups occurred. They also use Federal-Mogul for check processing.

In general, the county did not experience any great variations in walk-in traffic at the post-office during last week's strike. Here Clerk Gary Myers assists Don LeCrone of Capitol Trailer Park, with postal service.

Pollution is the real thing with St. Johns housewives

The problem of pollution was a hot topic in the town of St. Johns, Michigan, as housewives voiced their concerns. "It's a real thing," said Mrs. Richard Perry, one of the many who spoke up. "People are now starting to worry about it."

Mrs. Perry and others were concerned about the changes they had noticed in their environment. "I think it is high time we do something about it," said Mrs. Perry, who added that she had started to notice a difference in the air quality. "I don't think it's something we can do alone," she said, "but we can do our part."

Ballenger wants referendum on capital construction

State Rep. William F. Ballenger has introduced a resolution in the legislature calling for a state-wide referendum on whether Michigan needs a new capitol building.

The 25-year-old freshman lawmaker, who plays for the Michigan State Club and is a member of the house's education committee, is already working with other Democrats on a new capital building.

"A resolution to be introduced," Ballenger said. "is on the agenda and I will be introducing a resolution on the capital building."

Two vocational courses attract high school, junior high students

A pair of courses which has attracted a goodly following at St. Johns High School are the Electronics and drafting programs. Two additional to the traditional athletic programs, these courses are currently being taught by Mr. Eric Schmelz, who teaches all three classes of drafting.

The electronics student, divided into three classes, are being taught electronic circuit theory, electronics, and the use of electronic test equipment. Instruction in this course is a master's degree in industrial education from Central Michigan College, where Mr. Schmelz is a graduate student in electronics.

For the next year include one or two basic classes at the current time being conducted at two lower vocational classes in Electronics II, Tiered computer, in the advanced scheduling. The student will learn to use and troubleshoot and servicing equipment for radio and tele­phone circuits and servicing equipment for radio and television.

In the Electronics II, the student will be introduced to wiring, soldering, and troubleshooting techniques. The student will also be taught how to do basic soldering and troubleshooting.

Mr. Schmelz teaches all three classes, and the students follow the course as it is presented. The students are taught the fundamentals of electronics.

Next year's schedule is to be announced as soon as the courses are set. Terry Adam is the drafting instructor for the vocational classes in Drawing.

The snow settled thickly on the gnarled Wisteria tree that squirms up the wall of Egan's Ford.

Ol' man winter took one last fling in Clinton County and the kids took advantage of the late spring storm.

It isn't supposed to be spring.

The calendar said it was spring, the migrations of bird6 were evident and the snow was melting. A few inches of water, however, were enough to capitalize on the situation. Some blamed the unseasonable weather on Ol' man winter, taking one last look at Clinton County.

Rudy's observations were encouraging, to say the least. With geese heading north, spring really can't be too far behind... even if the weatherman doesn't believe it.

The AVERAGE age of the U.S. male is 30.5 years, according to Johnson. He said that of the U.S. 25-year-old life insurance policy is a complementary one to this age span. At age 30, the premium would be $25.00 a month, $30.00 at age 40, and $35.00 at age 50.

Flimsy as a Kite

What is so wonderful as a spring day, with just enough breeze to flit about, and to stir up leaves and grass, and to sprinkle flowers with dew? It is a rare individual who can't choose to waste it, in some way; for us, it is perhaps a symbol of unanswerable freedom.

Yet, in flying a kite there is need for control, or it will soon reach. What was sure freedom will become a tangled mass of string and two papers. This is true of many things that make our free-those acts of our own dreams.

In this life, we are to come to the difference between the freedom that endures and those that are so flimsy as a kite is the wind. We need to learn control, manage and faith. Most of these come easily. But the first step will be found in the teachings of your church. Have you been going to church lately?
Ag conservation program best pollution control plan

The Agricultural Conservation Practices Program that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has been operating is designed to help farmers cost-share pollution abatement practices. Michigan ACP cost-share funds have contributed to substantial reductions of stream, river and lake pollution through efforts of Arkansas lawmakers to increase the program's effectiveness. This has been achieved through the authorizing legislation that was enacted in 1970. The program is designed to help farmers cost-share pollution abatement practices with Federal water conservation funds. This program has been successful in reducing pollution in Michigan streams, rivers and lakes.

New tree planting may increase quality

A new method of growing trees is being considered. It involves planting trees in containers, which can be moved and transplanted easily. This method is being developed by forestry experts. The benefits of this method include easier planting and reduced costs. The new method may also improve tree quality by allowing for better selection of trees.

Market clinic hosts O'Connor April 21

An address by Michael J. O'Connor, executive director of Michigan Agriculture Marketing Committee, will be held on Thursday, April 21, at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center. The clinic, open to all supermarket operators and producers, will be held at 8 a.m. (ET). This yearly event is "Conversations on the Consumer." Morning sessions will be divided by session. Topics include pricing, advertising, advertising, and the marketing of fresh meats.

More cows per man

One man can milk 60 to 80 cows per hour in a modern, mechanized dairy system. This achievement has been made possible by the use of high-quality, fast-growing dairy breeds. The increased efficiency of dairy farms has contributed to the growth of the dairy industry in Michigan and across the U.S.

Kelly's Market, 121 W. Main St., will participate in the next Round-Robin Dairy Show, to be held during the morning of April 22, 1970. The show will be held at the Central Market, St. Johns, and is sponsored by the Michigan Dairy Promotion Board. The show will feature Holstein owners and their milk production.

Holstein owners meet Thursday

On Thursday, April 21, Holstein owners will have the opportunity to meet and discuss issues related to the Central Market, St. Johns. The meeting will be held at 8 a.m. (ET).

Home grown

Twenty-seven percent of Michigan residents prefer home-grown produce over out-of-state produce. This preference supports the local agriculture industry.

MPMA pays for loss to farmers

A group of Michigan dairy farmers has been reimbursed thousands of dollars for the blanket loss of their livestock through the Feed Loss Program. This program is available to dairy farmers throughout the country and pays for losses due to theft, fire, or other catastrophic events. The Michigan Dairy Board has been instrumental in setting up this program in the state. The insurance money is paid to the farmers to help them recover financially. It is a voluntary program, and farmers must apply for it before they can be reimbursed. The program is designed to provide a safety net for dairy farmers in case of unexpected events. The Michigan Dairy Board has been working with the federal government to ensure that the program is available to all dairy farmers in the state.
The mini-skirt

From all reports we've received, the gathering during Thursday's fashion show (spite heavy snows) was one of the most refreshing demonstrations in a long, long while. Many of you who may have succumbed to the gals in the big city might have missed the high noon demonstration opposing it to the mini-skirt. If those who follow through are as exciting as their beginning, fashion designers may as well scatter.

The gals sang, danced and cut off skirts they thought too long and it was all done in a jovial display that was far from being typical of other demonstrations in recent memory. Faces wore smiles instead of scowls and voices rang with laughter rather than the coarse cries of determined risks.

Whether mini-skirts continue in style is not due to be decided by society over but they have provided a note of levity to the practice of demonstrations. As others might the gals might be, it was indeed, delightfully refreshing. It would be if the gals' approach to demonstrating was followed. It's difficult to throw a brick at a smiling face... even a mini-brick.

Houses of wisdom

Turbulence on campuses has been taken by many as a sign of intellectual decay in the growing army of educators. Cen- tered on the campuses, a millen- tarian threat promises to challenge once again the student experience in a land where academic freedom and the right to free expression have been so jealously guarded.

But, before assuming that the nation is in a perpetual intellectual decline toward ultimatize, do yourself a favor, it is well to recall that an important ingredient to such a dreamy conclusion is actually solved. There has been no house-burning crusade.

The nation's priceless libraries are intact, with all of the accumulated wisdom of mankind contained within them. Whoever we wish, we can turn to this wisdom at any time we wish. There is no time to recognize and appreciate this precious heritage than during National Library Week which is observed this year from April 13 to 18.

The real culprit

Blaming the other fellow for inflation is the sovereign kind of hypocrisy, if increasing the price of a service or a product is taken as the sole measure of who is to blame for inflation. A recent graph published in U. S. News and World Report should serve as an excellent scorecard of inflation which is sustained through goods and services that involve everyone.

For instance, if you are a barber and tend to stick about the price of groceries at the corner store of your choice, it is well to remember that the grocer may recover, According to the U. S. News and World Report's chart, haircuts have risen 53.9 per cent in the past five years. Perhaps you are a automobile owner. Before taking too much about the man next door whom you think may be overcharging his customers, it will be well to remember that prices have risen 25.5 per cent between 1964 and 1969. If you are a homemaker, by the way, replacing firearms, rebuilding roofs or replacing a kitchen, sink, silence is the best policy. Prices have risen 43.4 per cent, 40.3 per cent and 40.2 per cent.

You shouldn't shoot the 20 of your soul when you're still in the 20 of your career. If you're not worth it, it's a waste. You shouldn't write a will that's not worth it, it's a waste.

It's the right time to sell your soul. It's the right time to sell your soul.
