Mr. and Mrs. William Bond and family returned from a vacation trip during which they visited Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zylstra of Cedarville, Mrs. Zylstra's parents. The couple spent the vacation at a motel in Disney World. The family enjoyed many rides and attractions. Mr. Zylstra also enjoyed seeing the wildlife in the area. The couple plans to return next year to see more of the theme parks. In addition to visiting the theme parks, the couple also spent time relaxing and trying the various restaurants. The family hopes to return next year to enjoy the many different experiences offered by Disney World. They are already looking forward to their next visit and are planning a vacation to another location to explore the various destinations offered by Disney World. Overall, the trip was a memorable and enjoyable experience for the couple and their family.

LINCOLN, Neb. - Five years ago, on April 17, 1967, radio station WRBJ, St. Johns, began including the Back to the Bible Broadcast in its radio programming schedule. The Back to the Bible Broadcast is an international, interdenominational gospel radio program originating in Lincoln, Neb. It began as a 15-minute program in a Lincoln church and is now a 30-minute program aired on stations in Canada, Europe, Japan, Indonesia, Australia, South Africa and the Philippines.

Founder Theodore H. Epp is the director of the ministry and Melvin A. Jones is the executive director. G. Christian Weiss heads the Mission Department, and Ord L. Morrow is the associate radio speaker. Back to the Bible's Mission Department assists in the support of over 240 missionaries and 25 national workers. Back to the Bible also supports missions projects and overseas broadcasts.

The literature division prepares and distributes two monthly magazines, books, booklets, songbooks and tracts—totaling over 6 million pieces of Christian literature annually. The division also maintains book clubs for youth and adults. The Back to the Bible Correspondence School has over 1,000 students, and the Back to the Bible Radio School has over 2,000 students.

O-E will use opener for spring training

By THE GAZETTE

OBERLIN—The Eldon High School baseball team will use a non-conference opener this week when they play against Danville at 4:30 p.m. today. The games will be in the Convent Avenue school.

Due to the low scoring nature of the local diamond league against local schools, O-E has decided to use an opener against a team outside of the first five schools.

"We've got a real good bunch of young baseball players on our squad this year," Coach Jack Nutter said. "They're really anxious to win some ball games. We've got a good baseball tradition here at O-E and the junior varsity should enjoy starting some winning records.

Oberlin said Loynes, who will be a senior, has prior experience. He will head up the running, including the 220-yard and 440-yard events. Oberlin said Bouck is his best high jumper and is a good long jumper and for some high school athletes, while Boulton needs the experience. In the last few years, O-E has been known for its high scoring abilities.

LIVING—The Department of Natural Resources is recommending to the Michigan streams to be closed to fishing. The department is also urging that all Michigan streams be closed to fishing during the summer months to protect the fish population.

In a statement released by the department, it was noted that the closure of all Michigan streams to fishing during the summer months is in the best interest of the fish population. The department also noted that the closure of all Michigan streams to fishing during the summer months will help to prevent overfishing and ensure the sustainability of the fish population.

It's maple syrup time

Sap's running at Clinton 'sugar bushes'

The main center of activity is the sap house. About 400 gallons of maple syrup will have been turned out by the Yallup crew at the season's end.

Oscar Fritz, left, and Steve Galbavi, empty collected sap into storage containers at the sap house. From there it's on to the sap house for evaporation.

April 12, 1972

From there it's on to the sap house for evaporation. The main center of activity is the sap house. Sap's running at Clinton 'sugar bushes' in Clinton County. There were some 1,000 buckets hung in home woods, but a little short of St. Johns on that day.

"Our operation is about a week behind," explained David Yallup, who has managed the St. Johns Post Office. The task took the operation on a whole five years ago from his father, Lawrence. The older Yallup is still on the job bringing in more than 20 years's experience in the sap gathering operation. maple syrup is no longer a dry land operation in running heavy, mostly the time the trees are active and the Yallup's last motion all right to the sap house during about of the accumulating sap.

Draining rights and turn-off are a rule of thumb for the start of maple sap flow. It's got to be up to 32 degrees before it runs right. The sap is running heavy mostly the time the trees are active and the Yallup's last motion all right to the sap house during about of the accumulating sap.

Back Through the years

The idea of baseball games getting out of hand has been a common one for many years. In the early days, there were many instances where the crowd would engage in fighting or other forms of unrest. In recent years, the issue has been brought to the forefront again with the rise of violence at sports events, particularly in the wake of the recent attacks on sports facilities.

It is important to recognize that sports are meant to be enjoyed and that violence has no place in them. As a society, we must work together to create an environment where fans can come together and support their teams without fear of violence or harm.

Reve/ence sharing plan

The reverence sharing plan is a method for distributing revenues to local governments. It is designed to ensure that revenues generated from federal programs are shared with local governments in proportion to the size of their population. The plan is intended to provide much-needed revenue to local governments, particularly those in rural areas.

The plan works by allocating a certain percentage of federal program revenues to local governments based on their share of the population. This revenue can be used for a variety of purposes, such as education, public safety, and infrastructure.

Revenue sharing plan

Revenues allocated by the federal government are divided among various levels of government. In the United States, revenues are typically divided among the federal government, state governments, and local governments. The federal government retains a portion of the revenues, which is then distributed to state and local governments based on the population of each level of government.

For example, in the United States, the federal government retains approximately 20% of total revenues. The remaining 80% is then distributed to state and local governments based on their share of the population. This distribution is typically done through revenue sharing programs, which allocate a portion of federal program revenues to local governments.

One example of a revenue sharing program is the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. This program provides funding to local governments for a variety of purposes, such as housing, infrastructure, and economic development. The program is designed to help local governments address the needs of their communities and improve the quality of life for their residents.

The CDBG program is just one example of a revenue sharing program. There are many other programs that allocate federal revenues to local governments, including the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), the Community Services Block Grant (CSBG), and the Housing Choice Voucher Program (HCV).

In conclusion, revenue sharing programs are an important tool for distributing federal revenues to local governments. These programs provide much-needed revenue to local governments, which can be used to support a variety of programs and services. By helping local governments meet the needs of their communities, revenue sharing programs play a vital role in improving the quality of life for Americans.

Equal rights: what it will and won't do

For the first time in Michigan National Council of Women's history, there is a journal published under the aegis of the organization that is devoted to equal rights and particularly to the problems of women affected by the 19th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which was ratified in 1920.

The journal, "Equal Rights" will be published three times a year, beginning in April, and will contain articles, reviews, and other materials on the broad range of issues related to equal rights.

The journal will be available to members of the National Council of Women and others interested in equal rights. For more information, please contact the organization at their website: www.michiganncw.org.

New on the job as last week's manager of the St. Johns Kroger store is Bob Gummel, right, pictured with Donald U. Thelen, head grocer. Gummel, former co-manager of the North Grand River Kroger store in Lansing, has also been associated with Kroger Downriver and Grand Rapids. He and his wife, Judith and three daughters, Michelle, Karen, (left) and Melinda, 1, are currently making their home in Williamston but plan to move to St. Johns in the near future.

NOTICE

The regular meetings of the Clinton County Advisory Council will be held the third Thursday of the month instead of the second and third Thursdays, as at present.

Such change to become effective June 1972.

A sure sign of spring is a rutty road. But as even better sign is a road crew patching it up. When St. Johns High School teachers and students returned to school Monday after spring vacation it was a real joy to ride riding much smoother thanks to those filled holes in the roadway.

Mike Cook received a surprise and a touch of embarrassment as fellow employees honored him for his upcoming retirement during the annual Clinton National Bank and Trust Company awards banquet. He has set August as the retirement target date, but the "This is Your Life" segment at the banquet aimed in honor of workmates and events that have marked his 39 years of banking in St. Johns.

The traveling plaque which was awarded to Mike was to be placed in the Laingsburg office of the bank. The traveling plaque and the presentation, carried by Superwoman, was accompanied by a bouquet of flowers.

Four additional awards of tokens marking the anniversaries of employment with the bank were presented. Jean Flegel, Gwen Papciak, rear left, and Geraldine Workman received ten-year service awards accompanied by a 5-year bracelet with medallion and a certificate.

The traveling plaque which was awarded to Mike was to be placed in the Masonic Lodge in St. Johns for the next year.

Two additional awards of tokens marking the anniversaries of employment with the bank were presented to Robert Shoppee and Jack Pardee for their contributions to the bank.

Clear seeding gives bright alternative

ST. JOHNS—Clear seedling emergence was shown in a demonstration on March 15 by members of the Michigan Certified Seed Association. Clear seedlings consist between 40 and 50 seeds of corn that have from four to six leaves. The seedlings were started on April 7. Clear seedlings will be offered to the public for the first time in the state. The Michigan Certified Seed Association is a non-profit organization that promotes the use of certified seed. The demonstration was held at the Michigan State University Agriculture Experiment Station in East Lansing. The demonstration was sponsored by the Michigan Certified Seed Association and the Michigan State University Agriculture Experiment Station. The demonstration was conducted by Dr. Thomas Westphal, a professor of plant breeding at Michigan State University. The demonstration was funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The demonstration was attended by 50 people, including farmers, extension agents, and researchers. The demonstration was conducted in a greenhouse and field setting. The demonstration was designed to show the benefits of using clear seedlings. The demonstration was considered a success and was well-received by the attendees.
