Spencer Plan could ease Clinton property tax burden

By RON CAVENDER
Staff Writer

There may be a way to ease property taxes in Clinton County. The State Senate is considering SB 197, an amendment to the State’s Income Tax that would allow cities to levy a sales tax. This would be a way to ease property taxes for citizens of Clinton County. The State Senate is considering SB 197, an amendment to the State’s Income Tax that would allow cities to levy a sales tax. UAW organizer tells purpose in St. Johns

By Ron Klehl

"I believe a union is made by people wanting it—we're not here to cram it down anybody's throat.

"It's due, and we would welcome any plan if recognized. It doesn't matter if people will be recognized, we want to get in.

"If the plants are unionized, there will be more jobs and more pay. If we're recognized, the company will have to pay union wages.

"We've been here for three years, and we're ready to start the union. We want to organize and improve the workers' lives.

First Nighters ready for curtain

The First Nighters of St. Johns will present a three-act comedy "Lady of Lakeport" Thursday night in the auditorium of St. Johns High School. The show is directed by William C. Allen.

The night curtain rises on a comedy that is unique and specifically humorous. A man's impromptu speech not being listened to, must be presented to someone who can understand it.

St. Johns School Board seeks solutions to help crowded Rodney B. Wilson

DeWitt ed board asks 'support lower taxes'

The DeWitt Board of Education will ask voters for a total of $1.13 million in its fiscal year 1971-72 request. There are 6.3 additional mills on which citizen and school board is asking your support for two years for this coming year. Long term debt of the taxpayer's pocket," says a board statement.

In the meantime, St. Johns Superintendent Earl Lancaster stressed, however, that these possibilities were only suggestions which might be considered by the board if a referendum to increase millage would be needed.

Lancaster added that these possibilities were only suggestions which might be considered by the board if a referendum to increase millage would be needed.

"There are six more years left in the junior high school," said Lancaster. "We have less than 12 students in the school every morning. We have less than 70 students enrolled in school, but since then the school has lost five classrooms."

The board voted to have the opening beautified.

After reviewing bids which ranged from $13,236 to $17,360, the board decided to spend $15,924 for furnishing the new middle school.

The board held the school district's next meeting on Thursday evening, April 16, to discuss the problem of overcrowding in the junior high school. The board told the board last week.

"We have considered several possible solutions to the problem of overcrowding in the junior high school," said Lancaster. "We have considered several possible solutions to the problem of overcrowding in the junior high school.

Esple wins Ford Motor Sales Award

Ronald J. Espie, of Bill Fowler Ford Motor Co., Ingham, has been named winner of the 1969 Sales Award by the Ford Division of Ford Motor Co. Espie was presented the award at a banquet of the Lansing Clark Motor Co. He is a member of the 300-500 Club membership of top Ford salesmen.

Ford salesmen throughout the country are working hard to qualify for the national honor. Espie was named winner for his outstanding performance during 1969.

"This Sales Award is designed to bring attention to outstanding Ford salesmen throughout the nation," said the Ford sales manager. It is an honor to the individual sales as an indication that performance is a matter of concern to the national level, he said.

Les Lewis, manager of the Ford Division Lansing branch, said Espie's name is among the highest honors bestowed on top salesmen.

"This is a mark of respect, salesmanship that is recognized as one of the highest in the Ford Division," Lewis said. "It is a recognition of Espie's outstanding performance."

"Esple's name is among the highest in the Ford Division," Lewis said. "It is a recognition of Espie's outstanding performance."

"The honor Espie received is an indication of Espie's worth. We are proud of Espie's work," Lewis said.

Check-Mate

(The Automatic Checking Account Loan Service)

- Check-Mate is not a credit card. It is a check guarantee-automatic loan program. It assists you in cashing checks where you are not known and it allows you to write checks for more than your balance with payment of the loan created by small monthly installments or a lump sum, if you desire. Only you and your bank know that you are creating a loan when you write the check.

- Use Check-Mate to institute a loan at the time of purchase. No delay or red tape when buying items at a time when your account is low or the convenience of delayed payment is desired. The amount used can be repaid in total or in installments to fit your budget.

- Perhaps you have no intention of making a loan but by merely completing a Check-Mate contract you can assure yourself of a savings in the event of an accidental overdraft. The usual overdraft charge is $3 but with the protection of Check-Mate, a three-day checkmate loan of $100 would cost you only 25¢. Let us explain these and other advantages of a signed Check-Mate contract on file at Clinton National Bank.

Alden Livingston looks at role of farmer in today's society

Alden Livingston is spokes_ man for the Michigan State Farm Bureau, the largest farm interest organization in the state, which represents more than 80,000 member farmers.
He says that agriculture is a basic part of American life and that farmers are essential to the nation's economy.

Livingston's role is to act as a liaison between farmers and government officials, both at the state and federal levels.

He also works to promote agricultural interests and to educate the public about the importance of farming.

Livingston says that agriculture is facing many challenges, including increasing costs, changing consumer preferences, and increased competition from imports.

He believes that farmers should continue to beshown
how to use technology to improve their operations and increase efficiency.

Livingston says that agri-

MSU fertilizer recommendations now available

"Fertilizer Recommendations," in 32- to 40-page guides for Michigan's 170 soil management counties, is available through the Michigan State University Extension. The bulletin includes information on phosphorus and potassium content of the state's soils.

Fertilizer is generally determined to be the second largest cost incurred by Michigan producers, according to the bulletin. In the past few years, this cost has also increased because of increased fertilizer costs.

Copies of the bulletin can be obtained from the County Extension Office of the Cooperative Extension Services, P.O. Box 237, East Lansing, Mich.

The bulletin includes information on phosphorus and potassium content of the state's soils. It also provides information on recommended rates of application for various crops and soils, as well as information on the best time to apply fertilizer.

Price received index is down by a point

The Index of Prices Received by Michigan farmers, as of last March, was down approximately one point from the February index. The March Index was 617.64, according to the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

The March index declined one point from the Feburary index. This is in line with the normal slow rise in prices for farm products generally during March.

Compared with March, 1968, the March 1970 index was down 1.6 points. This represents a decline of 0.26% from March 1969. The March 1968 index was 623.24.

The trend of index points for the last 12 months has been down 11 points. This is in contrast with the strong upward trend in 1969. The index for March, 1969 was 634.

America, apple pie and beans

Beans were first cultivated by Native Americans thousands of years ago, and their history is closely tied to the growth of early civilizations. Beans were an integral part of the American diet long before the arrival of the Pilgrims. The first Thanksgiving meal included beans, and they remain a staple in American cuisine to this day.

In 1866, the Department of the Great Lakes State published its first official cookbook, "Beans." Our great state is the largest producer of beans in the nation, and we are proud of our rich bean heritage. The book includes recipes for a variety of bean dishes, from simple soups to complex casseroles.

Within our means.

It has been well said that no one escapes the impact of inflation, and this goes for political officeholders, as well as everyone else. The list of the successful political candidate today is getting increasingly difficult. These few, with the advantages of high and bigger government, whether they realize it or not, are pulling their horses on the economy.

Call it a taxpayers’ revolt or anything alike, as inflation forces the cost of government to the people.

Political leaders are faced with the ultimate: go to the people for more taxes—taxes that sooner or later become uncollectable.

Then, the structure of government begins to collapse, and the ultimate bill for inflation comes due with crushing force. In some countries at each time, officeholders are lucky to escape with their lives. To those in U.S., where voters still retain the right to “turn the rascals out,” the big government spenders will face nothing more painful than picking their suitcases.

Currently their wise course would be to back up the efforts of those who believe in government living within its means and encouraging prudent spending programs at every opportunity.

Beyond speachmaking

How far beyond the speech-making stage has the campaign for the improving the environment actually progressed? The answer is that probably a great deal more progress must be made than more people realize, judging by a rough check of the actual steps companies and industries have made in environmental operations with respect to the environment.

A mere measure of what is going on in the steady rising proportion of capital investments that industry is putting into pollution control equipment and procedures.

Typical of the trend is the report of the president of a utility company in Arizona telling about a plant that will invest millions of dollars during the year to expand underground electric service to customers.

In addition, that huge millions of investment in air pollution control equipment at one power plant. This is part of a 5-year, $7 million environmental program at just this one facility. Such actions prove the need for more educational programs that will instill a thinking-reality. There is a need for more educational programs that will instill a thinking-reality into the business community.

Reversing the Quiz

Dear Congressman—

From time to time, you and I, or members of your staff, would have a question about the law of your district or the state. While I am not a lawyer, but a citizen, I do have some knowledge of the law.

In the past you have asked me to look into certain situations involving your constituents. With Christmas still a long way off, I'm sure many citizens in your district are concerned about the way the law is administered.

I'm not sure if you realize—

From your viewpoint alone, the law is the same as that in the Bible. The things I say are right.

If I read you rightly, there can't be any change. The law stands forever, like a rock in the Bible.

It's tough to figure where to start—

For instance, does the law apply to all the people in the world or not at all? For instance, does the law apply to all the people in the world or not at all? Do you have any laws for the people in the world or not at all? Do you have any laws for the people in the world or not at all?

In the last two years there have been some changes in the law.

As for me I have taken many years of experience in the law, but I have never been a lawyer. For instance, I have never been a lawyer. But you are well advised to consult a lawyer before you make any decision about the law. You are well advised to consult a lawyer before you make any decision about the law.

The justice we are needin'—

We don't get the point.

That you are not the only one, black or white.

We could not express the facts that make a special law of Congressmen.

In every law in every state—

In every state in every country, where we are not advised to consult a lawyer before you make any decision about the law. You are well advised to consult a lawyer before you make any decision about the law.

FUTURE PRINTERS?

A group of fourth graders from Central School and their teacher, Mrs. Sadie Anderson, visited the Clinton County News last week. After touring the editorial and advertising departments, the class visited the print shop where they were fascinated by the operation of the press and the typewriter machines. Mrs. Anderson says the class is planning to publish a paper of their own.
