Valedictorian

St. John's Senior Class of 1967

I remember each day when I arose from the quiet calm of sleep. As the sun rose in the east, I knew that I was to meet another test of my abilities and knowledge. I was to be tested in every subject that I had learned throughout my high school years. I knew that my future depended on this test, and that every mistake I made would affect my success in the future. I was determined to do my best, for I knew that I had worked hard to prepare for this test.

In each subject we've studied, we have been required to learn a great deal of new material. We have been required to learn to apply our knowledge in new and different situations. We have been required to learn to think critically and analytically. We have been required to learn to work independently and cooperatively. We have been required to learn to write clearly and effectively. We have been required to learn to speak confidently and persuasively. We have been required to learn to listen attentively and to ask thoughtful questions. We have been required to learn to think creatively and to solve problems in novel ways. We have been required to learn to use technology effectively. We have been required to learn to work with data and to analyze information. We have been required to learn to work with people and to communicate effectively. We have been required to learn to work with machines and to use technology. We have been required to learn to work with nature and to understand the environment.

As I began my valedictory speech, this question returned to me: "What have we learned in the past 13 years?" The most important thing that we have learned is that we are not just students, but we are individuals with unique abilities and strengths. We have learned that we are capable of great things, and that we can achieve anything if we put our minds to it. We have learned that we can overcome obstacles and that we can succeed in the face of adversity. We have learned that we can contribute to society and that we can make a difference in the world. We have learned that we can work together and that we can achieve more when we work as a team. We have learned that we can respect each other and that we can appreciate each other's differences. We have learned that we can think critically and that we can analyze information. We have learned that we can communicate effectively and that we can work with others. We have learned that we can think creatively and that we can solve problems in novel ways. We have learned that we can work with technology and that we can use technology effectively. We have learned that we can work with nature and that we can understand the environment.

As we look forward to the future, we must remember that we are not just students, but we are individuals with unique abilities and strengths. We must remember that we are capable of great things, and that we can achieve anything if we put our minds to it. We must remember that we can overcome obstacles and that we can succeed in the face of adversity. We must remember that we can contribute to society and that we can make a difference in the world. We must remember that we can work together and that we can achieve more when we work as a team. We must remember that we can respect each other and that we can appreciate each other's differences. We must remember that we can think critically and that we can analyze information. We must remember that we can communicate effectively and that we can work with others. We must remember that we can think creatively and that we can solve problems in novel ways. We must remember that we can work with technology and that we can use technology effectively. We must remember that we can work with nature and that we can understand the environment.

Ovid council tables zoning study request

Ovid — The Ovid Village Plan- ning Commission has held the first of seven public hearings to present the proposed zoning plan. The hearings are open to the public and will continue to be held Thursday evenings at 6 p.m. for the next seven weeks. A proposed plan has been on file at the Village Office since April 6, 1967. Ovid council became a city only last month by the application at the April 6 meeting.

Such action was taken after the zoning commission had met several times and the planning commission could develop a work plan. DEVELOPMENT of a base map for the city and area, a land use map, the population and economic study, a zoning map, a rezoning map, a study of current land uses, a study of future land uses and an implementation of zoning ordinance and recommendations of a subdivision ordinance would require $1,300 of the $5,000 grant.

A proposal that has been under study since April 6 by the planning commission, and recommended by the zoning commission at the April 6 meeting.

The establishment of zoning was completed last September as an outgrowth of a federal directive for revising a community by a $55,000 grant for a sewer project.

Both Township's new township hall at Walker and Drumheller roads [at last] of the Bath community has been occupied by officers of the township for several weeks now and Monday got its first public welfare when the school district polling place was the new township hall. Supervisor Gerald Shepherd said a public open house will be held later after all work — including the start of landscaping — is completed.

The commission no fire pact gets OK

The City of St. Johns and Clinton Township entered into a mutual aid pact Tuesday evening, effective June 15. In the formal contract, signed by City Manager James Bingham and Clinton Township Manager James Bingham paid the city $1,150 for a one-year, one-dwelling zone experiment. In addition to the $1,150, the city paid $300 for instruction fees.

The commission accepted the agreement and signed an assignment of the contract. The contract specifies that the city will be compensated for fire department service in the city and will be paid for any additional service in other areas around town for years four years.

The agreement calls for the payment of $1,150 per year. The city contract calls for an additional $1,350 per year after the contract is renewed for one year.

The commission granted permission for the city to provide fire protection for the city's citizens.

The city's action, Bingham Township. The city of Lansing was the last area to be approved for the city.

In making the new agreement, the commission amended the city's fire contract, which was approved by the board in May. In the agreement, the city retained the right to make any contract that it deemed.

This is what it was all about — the race to the finish line where it always took a judge’s decision and sometimes that of a camera to decide which car blurred its way across the line first. St. Johns city officials and Clinton County officials in the right side of the bleachers, Derby workers in the front, and spectators in the stand displayed a variety of expressions at the results of this one.

Men and women, boys and girls numbering between 8,000 and 10,000 watched the derby races from the sidewalks, many using comfortable lawn chairs to make an evening of it.

Lee Smith

The 11-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Cecil Smith of 248 W. Pratt Road, DeWitt, Lee worked on his car for about 3 1/2 months, getting it in shape to win the derby in his first try. He will be entering the sixth grade next year at St. Joseph School in St. Johns.

Kris Patterson (above) in car No. 36 starts his run down the ramp and along the track during one of the early heats in Sunday's Soap Box Derby in St. Johns. Tall lad in striped jacket next to ramp is Bill Jacobus, winner of the 1965 derby.

At the finish line Derby officials hollered "Hit the brakes" as the cars zipped across the line. Some leaned into the brakes in such a manner as to look like they were going through the floor boards.

Heads as low as possible to reduce wind drag, three boys get set to leave the starting ramp in one of the first heats Sunday.

Starter Jim Light gives the signal to racers including Bruce Schomisch and Cam Mooney who aim to zoom down the white line.

Race Director Jack Downing (right) leads the Soap Box Derby boys up the hill to the starting line during the 37-unit parade which proceeded the long evening of racing Sunday.

An alert, clean-cut Larry Prochazka typified the kind of boys who participated in the fifth annual Clinton County Derby Sunday.

A smiling Sue Fennell accepts a bouquet of roses from last year’s queen Julie Pung (left) after she was named Miss Soap Box Derby. At center is Jeannine Ferden, a member of the queen’s court.

New Holland's Model 975 - a medium-size combine with harvest power to spare!

Check it out. Here's harvest power. Plenty of it. Whether you're planting narrow-row or wide-row. Driving it is a big, brassy 85-hp engine, for example. It's got the tuff to handle the husky crops, the "tuff" for the tough conditions. Keeps you right on rolling till the crop's in.

And there's separating ability to match. The "975" measures in bigger than some of the "67" price combines. Extra big strawwalkers and cleaning area are fed by an almost-40-inch wide cylinder. The result is more corn—and cleaner corn!

Driving it is a big, brawny 85-hp engine, for example. It's got header height, reel height. Right from the cushioned, built to do a powerful lot of work!

Choice of headers. Select either 2-row 40-inch or 3-row 30-inch combine heads. 13-foot or 15-foot direct-cut headers. There's a lot more you'll like about the Model 975. But let your New Holland dealer be the one to give you the full story.

Yea, Tigers!

By W.E. DOBSON

Spring weather has been back and forth as the season moves past the equinox. The fans and friends of the local baseball teams are keeping a very close eye on the performance of their respective teams. We have seen our Tigers do well, but we have also seen them struggle at times. The coaching staff has been working hard to prepare their players for each game. We all look forward to the rest of the season and hope that our Tigers can bring home the championship.
