After living nearly 100 years, Edd Craun is walking history book

"Our family always said my birthday was Oct. 30, and that's what I knew," he says. "But in the age of 90, I realized I was not working it out. I learned in this life that I was not working out the calendar. So, I decided to change the birthday to Oct. 30, 1876." He says he was born at 10:30 a.m. on Oct. 30, 1876, to Henry and Julia Craun.

Edd Craun was born in Westphalia, Michigan, and grew up on a farm in the county. He attended Michigan State University, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1906.

After graduation, Edd Craun started his teaching career in the Westphalia Public Schools. He taught for 31 years, until he retired in 1977.

During his teaching career, Edd Craun was also active in community affairs. He served on the Board of Education for the Westphalia School District, and was a member of the Westphalia Kiwanis Club.

In his retirement, Edd Craun continued to be active in the community. He volunteered at the local food bank, and was a member of the Westphalia Historical Society.

Edd Craun is survived by his wife, Helen, whom he married in 1922, and their daughter, Joan. He is predeceased by his two sons, John and James.

Edd Craun is buried in the Westphalia Cemetery, Westphalia, Michigan.

A POLICE FANFREL

The following is a surmise of the old Red Jacket Indian who has been under surveillance since the year 1860. The present case for the first time in his life has been brought to court. He is a man of the old school, well known for his honesty and integrity. He is a native of the Red River Valley, and has been a resident of the United States for many years. He has been a strong advocate of peace, and has always taken an active part in the affairs of his community. He is a member of the Red Jacket Indian Council, and has served as its president for many years. He is a man of strong character, and has always been respected by all who knew him. He is now a prisoner of war, and is held in the Federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth.

Good sanitation practices can eliminate rats

So you want to eliminate rats? Then read on. Rat control is not a glamorous task, but it is necessary to protect our health and the environment. Here are some tips to help you get started:

1. Clean up, lock up, and rodent-proof your home. Rats are attracted to food, water, and shelter. Clean up any spills, store food in airtight containers, and seal off any gaps or holes where rats can enter.

2. Eliminate hiding places. Rats need places to hide and nest. Remove any clutter, such as piles of newspapers, and seal off any gaps around doors and windows.

3. Create a barrier against rodents. Rodents are sensitive to odors and taste. Place traps strategically around your home and use a lure that is attractive to rats.

4. Consult a professional. If you are having trouble controlling rats on your own, consider hiring a pest control professional. They have the expertise and equipment to handle large infestations.

By following these steps, you can significantly reduce the rodent population in your area and prevent the spread of diseases such as salmonellosis, plague, and rat-bite fever.
