Alcohol, smoking top drug survey

ST. JOHNS — A drug survey held during June in Clinton County shows that the prevalence of drug use among 12-18 year olds is higher than in previous years.

The survey, conducted by the Clinton County Intermediate School District and United Community Services of St. Johns, sampled 16 percent of 12-18 year olds in the county. The survey was designed to determine where 95 percent of county students are in relation to drug use.

The survey showed that 54 percent of students have used drugs at least once, while 15 percent have never taken a drug. The survey also found that 22 percent have taken drugs more than once and 10 percent are regular users.

John Harrison, an educational consultant for the Central Intermediate School District's Office of Drug Abuse Education, presented the survey results to the Clinton County Board of Commissioners on June 19.

Tourists who want to travel Michigan's virtually unvisited northern peninsula have a choice of more than 300 cars, buses, and ferries which ply small lakes and narrow bodies of water with small ferries and boats between Mackinaw City and Alpena. The ferry service is so extensive that many tourists and natives alike have never even been on one.

Mackinac City, the southern terminus of the famous 24-mile-long chain, is a bustling port of departure for the islands of Mackinac, Michigan, and Wisconsin, known as the Apostle Islands. The island ferry service is operated by Mackinaw Lines, Mackinaw Islander, and Lake Superior Lines. Each ferry company operates on a favorable weather day, and their schedules are listed in the local newspapers. The islands are a favorite destination for nature lovers and history buffs.

Lakeview Transit, Inc., has 12 round-trips from Mackinaw City to Alpena and Oscoda. The Isle Royale Queen II, a 65-foot, 60-passenger boat, makes weekly round-trips to Isle Royale through mid-September, then to four from September 30 to Oct. 10. In July, it is leaving Oct. 10. In August, it will leave on Aug. 10 and August 20. The Queen, which continues to operate charters on a regular basis, operates out of Mackinaw City through April.

By HAROLD SCHMALTZ

In his recent book, "Bells across a general audience," Jim Fitzgerald traces the history of bells throughout the country. He explores the origins of bell ringing, its cultural significance, and its role in modern society.

Fitzgerald discusses the evolution of bell technology, from ancient bronze bells to modern metal chimes. He also examines the psychology of bell ringing, explaining why people enjoy the sounds of bells and how they are used to convey messages.

Among the highlights of Fitzgerald's book are his descriptions of bell ringing in various parts of the world, from Europe to Asia. He also explores the role of bells in religious ceremonies, national anthems, and sports events.

Fitzgerald's book is a fascinating read for anyone interested in the history and culture of bells.

Virginia Dare, the first English child born in America, was born in Roanoke Island in 1587. She was the daughter of John White and his wife,rogere, and was born in the Virginia Colony as part of the first English settlement there.

Dare's birth is commemorated each year on July 5th, "Virginia Dare Day," with activities and events throughout the Virginia Dare Trail. The Virginia Dare National Historic Site is located on Roanoke Island, near Kitty Hawk, and includes a museum, interpretive center, and walking trails.

The site offers educational programs for visitors of all ages, including tours, lectures, and workshops. Visitors can learn about the history of the Roanoke Island settlement and its founder, John White, and explore the archaeology of the site.

The Virginia Dare Trail is a 15-mile scenic drive that includes stops at various sites along the coast of North Carolina. Visitors can learn about the history of the area and visit places like the Roanoke Island Festival Park, the Outer Banks, and the Cape Hatteras National Seashore.

The Virginia Dare Trail is a great way to experience the history and culture of the Roanoke Island settlement and to enjoy the beautiful scenery of the Outer Banks.

Gov. Milliken test drives AAA safety belt convincer

LANSING—Part of a statewide campaign to educate motorists on the importance of wearing safety belts, Gov. William Milliken test drove a 1976 Ford Pinto equipped with electrically-operated safety belts, Monday.

"The purpose of this campaign is to demonstrate the value of wearing safety belts," said Milliken, "since the Department of Transportation estimates that 2,500 and 3,000 lives are saved annually by persons wearing safety belts every mile they travel."

"Wearing safety belts is now the law and drivers and passengers are protected by the Air Bag convincer unit which will be demonstrated at a state-wide campaign with the Safety Belt Convincer unit to encourage all motorists to wear safety belts whenever they drive."

"The Safety Belt Convincer unit demonstrates the value of wearing safety belts," said Milliken. "This impact leaves a lasting impression in the rider's mind, but not enough of staying conscious after an accident are greatly increased."

"And a seven-mile an hour impact while riding in a vehicle without shoulder harness leaves one person in a coma and five percent chances of being killed are greatly increased."

"As it is, with less than 20 percent of all motorists wearing safety belts, the government, auto industry and media are trying to convince motorists to wear safety belts," said Milliken. "The Auto Club-designed belt is manufactured by the Auto National Company to educate drivers on the use of safety belts."

The Auto Club-designed belt is manufactured by the Auto National Company to educate drivers on the use of safety belts. The Auto Club-Assigned Safety Belt Convincer is an electrically-operated safety belt. The Safety Belt Convincer unit is planned to go to 100 drives in all 50 states.

Ice cream man attracts attention with music

By LEE PETERS, News Staff Writer

ST. JOHNS — "I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream." And St. Johns locals are no exception as Peter Strums — the Clinton county seat's answer to the Good Humor Man — cruises through town with a painted truck.

"You can always manage to stop a car," Strums says, "and likewise you can stop the traffic. It's the 20 century, business is as it always has been."

"So, when he takes a much needed break to enjoy an ice cream, I scream, you scream... we all scream."

Strums, who is the lovable "ice cream man" of St. Johns, is a familiar sight to locals and visitors alike. "It's part of the city street scene," residents say, "and that St. Johns is a great place to live." Strums says he enjoys the attention with music, "but not enough to not do it."

Requests range from "I want that bummer song," to "Can you turn it on and off?" and Strums says he is always willing to oblige a potential customer.

"The Good Humor Man, the city's answer to... we all scream... five cents nowadays, but one dime will get you an ice cream. Big spenders hand over..." Strums says with a laugh.

Strums, who has been delivering ice cream for 22 years, says he is "always ready for orders."

Strums admits it's the 10 a.m. arrival that gets the ball rolling. "It's the first job he's had where he can't do any more..."

"As an adult, I now live in a house, but you can still see me down there..."

Strums' presence is a neighborhood staple, "but not enough to not do it."

Requests range from "I want that bummer song," to "Can you turn it on and off?" and Strums says he is always willing to oblige a potential customer.
