DeWitt Master Plan ready for public

SWEET SUMMER

Little Pamela Mahone, 5, of DeWitt finds the warm air, cool water, summer upgrades, and a small friend a pleasant way to learn her new environment at the Easter Seals Day Camp Chipper in Lansing. Pamela, who is totally blind, is the only child from Clinton County participating in the camp for handicapped children at the Beekman Center. For a complete report on the center’s summer camp see page 3A.

DeWitt - The County Board of Com¬ missioners recently adopted a formal plan for the production of county shelters in the event of a nuclear attack. The plan in¬ dicates the designation of shelter locations throughout the county. Under the plan, the west end of Capitol Airport and the Looking Glass River will become an In¬ dustrial center to accommodate new community and institutional facilities for all ages. The board officers will be named at the meeting.

The St. Johns school board recently adopted a formal plan that may rise slightly this year. The plan was adopted by the board officers at the June 12 defeat of the 17 mill proposal.

The plan in¬ dicates the need to build and maintain a shelter for the entire school district as required by state law. The plan provides for the development of a shelter center which will include a new elementary school. The center will be located by the county, for operation at the June 12 defeat of the 17 mill proposal.

The school district only has 60 days to begin operating the shelter, with the 60 days being extended by the county, for operation at the June 12 defeat of the 17 mill proposal.

The plan provides for a further vote on the millage issue in 1973, if necessary.

The plan includes how radio broadcasts will be made throughout the county.

The plan also includes how radio broadcasts will be made
throughout the county.

Pamela finds new world at Camp Chippewa

LANSAING—To a Clinton County farmer, 53 acres may not seem like an extremely large amount of land, but to a little five-year-old DeWitt girl, it could be the whole world.

Little Pamela Mathers didn't know what to expect when her family enrolled her in Camp Chippewa, a day camp for the orthopedically and visually handicapped. But after a little more than one week, Camp Chippewa has become her "day" world.

Pamela, who is totally blind, has found an entire new world of activities including arts and crafts, music, nature study, swimming, learning camping and outdoor skills and an occasional hour just sitting near the camp's pond, listening to the water and birds.

The camp, located at Beekman Center, 2911 Wobash Road, Lansing, was established last year through the combined efforts of the Ingham County Easter Seal Society and the Lansing Board of Education.

Pamela, a kindergartener at the Michigan School for the Blind, is one of 51 handicapped children who are attending the five-week camp. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mathers, 5325 Howe Road, DeWitt.

"This is a unique venture on how a school system and a non-profit agency such as ours can provide the needed services to this minority population," commented Jack D. Oliver, recreational services director for the Easter Seal Society and the Lansing Board of Education.

He added that 125 invitations were sent out to parents of handicapped children with 51 agreeing to enroll their children in the camp.

"The program is part of a new thrust to set up therapeutic recreational services for handicapped children," Oliver said.

He added that those eligible for the camp were children of school age from the Lansing area orthopedic schools and students from the School for the Blind. While not a regional organization, the society does include Clinton and Eaton counties in its service area.

Pamela and her friends are being supervised by the 17 staff members including four special education teachers from the Lansing School District, field workers from Michigan State University and Western Michigan University, and other high school and college student volunteers.

"We run adult programs such as arts and crafts and social adjustment classes," Oliver said. He noted that the most popular of the therapeutic programs is the swimming class conducted at the center and in other pools throughout the Lansing area.

The camp has gained more interest this year, judging from the attendance figures, he said. Last year the camp attracted only 18 children, but the number almost tripled this time. The program could include as many as 60 students this year and the organization hopes to expand the camp next year.

Through the efforts of the Easter Seal Society and the school board, Pamela Mathers and her friends have found a whole new world opening up for them at the camp. Though Pamela was too shy to talk much about the camp, her smile told observers the whole story.

LIGHTING THE NIGHT

The St. Johns skyline was lighted with spectacular colors Monday night during the Fourth of July fireworks at the Memorial Park. This multiple "sunflower" design was caught by News photographer Ed Cheeney.

A BUSY DAY

Crowds flocked to Westphalia on the Fourth for the 135th Anniversary of the Village and St. Mary's Parish. There were games and rides for the biddies and adults alike, plus delicious food and beverages, sky divers and fireworks. If you missed it, mark it on your calendar for next year, July 4th.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Bea was a popular past time at the Westphalia celebration as you can see, it attracted players of all ages.

THE GAYLE DESPREZ FAMILY

MEET GAYLE DESPREZ, Clinton National Bank

Gayle's title of vice president and cashier doesn't really tell all about the things she does at Clinton National Bank. In addition to her regular banking duties, Gayle also serves as the personnel and office operations assistant as well as a head in most of the external relations work of the bank.

But that's not unusual, that won't be doing all these things. She's been with Clinton National Bank for over 11 years and has been part of the team since she was a part of the bank when she was the bank's first three years.

Gayle is a native of Westphalia and graduated from Williamston High School. She has been in the banking industry for over 10 years and has been involved in various community organizations. She has also served on the Clinton National Bank's Board of Directors.

Despite her involved schedule, Gayle has time for other interests and these like watching and playing sports, art, and music are her passion. She is also an avid reader and enjoys traveling with her family.

Gayle and her husband, Mike, have two daughters, Amanda and Sarah. They live in St. Johns and are active in the community.

Gayle's passion for community involvement and her expertise in personnel and operations make her an asset to Clinton National Bank and the community alike.

A restaurant operator, Dr. Alice Bruntlett, in Bridgeville, said he purchased for his guests meals that were in his opinion, quite well prepared to the point where it was not unusual to see customers say "Serve a smaller portion!" from the table. Some customers have even requested to be served the same course twice in different portions.

Dr. Bruntlett noted that he feels the establishment of small, exclusive eating establishments is an "experience" and can cost you up to double the price of a comparable meal in another area, in a year ago, but prices won't be too different.

He catered to patrons in the top 20 percent of the income bracket in an area where there was a large concentration of wealthy and upper middle-class families. It is unlikely that the cost of food and services will be lower in a year ago, but prices won't be too different. In other establishments, however, you might be able to pay the difference. The best operator will always gain a loyal customer, but you must make a profit or go out of business.

"If you decide to pull your ear close to the ground and tune in to your own backyard, then you will find this is the sort of thing that an average home does."

The cost of food away from home has been 10 to 15 cents higher in Bridgeville, because the food at the restaurant is prepared in small quantities. South Waterston
By Mrs. Brenda Miles
Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sony were hosts to their children, Curtis and Janet, and to the Central Michigan Amateur Radio Club at the Midland Golf Club. The reception was held in the Clubhouse and was attended by about 100 members who celebrated the 50th anniversary of the club. The reception included a buffet dinner and a program featuring speeches by the club president, Mr. Harold Bowers of Lansing, and by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Oliver, who were recently married. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver were guests of honor, and the reception was attended by about 25 relatives and friends.

WALK ON
The operations were held under the new act, which allows farmers to set aside a portion of their land and receive compensation for doing so. The new act, Smith added, provides "a freedom to manage their farms according to their judgment and needs." It takes land out of production, he said, but allows farmers to make changes in their operations. The act also provides "a choice between price support and income stabilization programs." Farmers can choose to receive price support for their crops, or they can choose to receive income stabilization payments if their crops are not sold.

FARM program offers hope for agriculture
Farm program offered hope for agriculture
The farm program in America is a complex one that includes a variety of subsidies and regulations. The program is designed to help American farmers meet their needs and increase their efficiency. In order to be successful, the program must be able to respond to the changing needs of American farmers. The farm program is a major component of the United States economy, and it is important that it be able to respond to the changing needs of American farmers.

Alma College gets $21,439 grant for ecology

ALMA—A $21,439 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to Alma College will enable the College to develop a three-year river watershed restoration project, involving Alma College and the City of Grand Rapids.

The two-year project, which will involve a physics and geology team at the College, will study the first two miles of the Pine River. The project will include the development of a monitoring system for the river, and an educational program involving Alma College and local schools. The project will also provide opportunities for local students to become involved in the study.
