Hunting a burial ground

by Jim Fitzgerald

Recently, there has been a surge in interest in finding old burial grounds. Many people are interested in learning more about the history of their community and the people who lived there.

Many are the same people who insist on knowing the location of a loved one's final resting place. It is important to respect their wishes and to help them in their search.

MORAL DILEMMA: Do I tell this person where their loved one is buried? It is true that the location of the grave is important to them. However, the law may prohibit me from disclosing this information.

It is a difficult decision, and one that should not be taken lightly. It is important to consult with an attorney or a professional who can help you navigate this complex issue.

"It's personal" is a way of saying that it is not easy to talk about these things. It is important to respect the feelings of those involved and to be considerate in all interactions.

Southern Michigan's pheasants 10% above last year's figures

But again this year, as in the past, southern Michigan counties, including Van Buren, Allegan, Barry and other counties, have reported a decrease in the number of pheasants. However, the decrease has not been as dramatic as in previous years, and the number of pheasants has remained relatively stable.

In 1972, the number of pheasants in southern Michigan was 100,000. This year, the number is estimated to be around 90,000, a decrease of about 10%. However, the number is still higher than the 75,000 pheasants reported in 1971.

The decrease in the number of pheasants is due to a number of factors, including the effects of severe weather conditions and the use of pesticides. However, the decrease is not expected to have a significant impact on the pheasant population in the near future.

KROGER'S OWN GOOD NAME GUARANTEES THE PURITY FRESHNESS AND FLAVOR.

If you had to supply about 7 million customers each week with perishable dairy products, how would YOU do it?

If you were Kroger, you'd build and operate your own ultra-modern dairies... five of them. You'd put each one under the supervision of a specialist with a degree in Dairy Technology, You'd set your own quality standards even higher than most federal and state requirements.

You'd install sophisticated blookey equipment for maintaining continuously quality control. And, to make sure it met your high standards, you'd test-taste every single batch. Then, and only then, would you put your name on it.

That's what we did. And that's why you can depend on dairy products bearing the Kroger name and prepared in Kroger's own dairy.

The Middlebury United Methodist Church presented to Middlebury Church a lovely picture of the "Last Supper" Clarence Semans accepted it and thanked them very much for it. Charles Warren provided special music and the choir sang "We Have An Anchor." The cooperative ham dinner featured a three, decorated cake with a church and the letters "100" on it. The tables and dining room were decorated with red and white streamers, red geraniums and mantels with praying hands. On the wall hung a colorful banner with the theme "Touch The New Century With Renewed Faith" made by the pastor and wife, Rev and Mrs Brian Kundinger. The sanctuary was also decorated with red geraniums and other flowers. During the dinner hour, Rev Kundinger and members of the UMYF presented a kalamidoscopic effect of songs and movies accompanied with the songs, "Day by Day" and "Jesus, Won’t You Come By Here?" with guitar accompaniment, a very effective service.

After dinner, the UMYF conducted the board contest with winners as follows; Best board, John Shaw; most unusual, Bruce Pierce; best groomed, Richard Semans; and best mustache, James Van Dyne. Prizes were awarded each one. A time of reminiscing followed with letters and chat from former pastors. The afternoon session began with group singing led by Gladys Warren on the organ, Osro and hand on the trombone. Rev Kundinger on the censer. Tom Semans gave a resume of the Church History. He said the Flatsburg family to a seven generation family to attend the Middlebury Church. There are others that are five and four generations. Charles Warren had been a member the longest of these present. Rev Kundinger called the church with a look into the future. The History Committee had prepared a display table which held many interesting old pictures, articles, books, lamps and other items of the past. Middlebury United Methodist Church is a typical little white, rural church surrounded by beautiful shade trees. It is located south of Ovid on the West Hibbard Road. It has stood as the pulse and heart of this community for 100 years, a constant reminder of "Faith", and the work too!

The church was started in 1872 as a result of class meetings which had met in homes or in the woods for 50 years. Farmers with oxen and horses drew the lumber from 18 miles away. It was dedicated on June 29, 1872 and cost $554.27.

On July 18, 1883 the church bell was ordered. The bell was completely mounted as a swing bell with 40 feet of rope. The price was $255. Today the bell would cost $1,500 or more. It was placed on the tower in 1883. The tower in inches and was composed of all virgin copper and tin. The weight of the bell the wagon had to be reconditioned with heavy timbers and raising it to the belfry was a dangerous task; but with scaffolding, ropes and the help of many men, the bell was put in place and its beautiful tones could be heard for miles around. In 1935 lightning struck and destroyed the church steeple, and it was never replaced.

Through the years many improvements have been made to the church including digging the basement for a kitchen and a dining room, which doubles as Sunday School room, in 1948, and building an annex for modern rest rooms and front doors in 1983. In 1968 the sanctuary was remodeled, including extending the platform, dry wall, painting, refinishing the woodwork, new window, new windows, new rest rooms, new doors and a new piano. The choir also acquired new robes. Since then the dining room has undergone remodeling; a new ceiling was installed, new furnaces, new lights, new folding doors to divide the classroom and a folding door to divide the dining room floor and the back entry have just been carpeted. Much of this has been made possible by the generous gifts and memorials to loved ones. Many of the members have given of their time and talents to get the job done. One of the members always on hand with his lawn mower to keep the lawn neat. Others are there with tractors when there is snow to move.

The Women's groups, Youth groups and Sunday School groups have all been very active through the years and added much to the church's effectiveness. It would be impossible to name all the acts of love and labor that have gone into this first century of the Middlebury United Methodist Church.

The Middlebury United Methodist Church, surely those who follow have been left a challenge to serve the church as its ministers. We want to thank all the committees and everyone who worked so hard to make this Centennial a success.
