F. C. Mason elects
Idzkowski president

ST. JOHNS—The F. C. Mason Company directors have elected Edward J. Idzkowski President of the agricultural manufacturing and distribution firm.

"Jack" Powell, known throughout the agricultural manufacturing and distribution firm for his many years of service and leadership, will be the new President of the F. C. Mason Company and CEO of the company.

Edward Idzkowski joined the F. C. Mason Company in July 1970 as Vice President. Prior to that, he was a part-time manager of a feed yard dairies in the state of Michigan and was responsible for implementing the company's sales and marketing strategies.

The appointment of Edward Idzkowski to the position of President is a result of the company's growth and strategic plans for the future.

"Jack" Powell is well known for his leadership and management abilities. He has been a key player in the F. C. Mason Company's success, and his experience and expertise will be vital in guiding the company into new markets and expanding its product lines.

The F. C. Mason Company, founded in 1924, is a leader in the agricultural manufacturing and distribution industry, offering a wide range of products and services to farmers and ranchers across the country.

These appointments are in line with the company's strategic goals and vision for continued growth and success.

For more information about the F. C. Mason Company and its products, please visit www.fcmason.com.

″We are also expanding our presence in the southern states,″ said Idzkowski. "Our commitment to providing high-quality products and services to our customers is unwavering, and we are excited to see what the future holds for the F. C. Mason Company.″

Ed Idzkowski explained in a recent interview about the challenges in Merchandising, saying "We have a great team in place, and we are confident that we can continue to grow and flourish in the agricultural industry."

School building repair begins in St. Johns

ST. JOHNS—Work began this week in several St. Johns schools from the result of a one mill levy voted last June for school maintenance. School officials reported the need because they had been carrying a deficit for the past three years and only emergency maintenance had been done, because of this many areas in the buildings had deteriorated and repairs were badly needed.

Recently the painting contracts were awarded to Ray Schneider and Ray Kentfield, both of St. Johns and cement work contracts were given to Cornwell Construction. Voters approved the one mill for a two year period which will total $60,000 each year for the repair projects.

Repairs are underway at Central School as Richard Cornwell and Terry Adams proceed with the task of facing up loose or missing brick work on the building.

Job well done, fellows

The baseball season for young boys has ended here for another year. For the 1962 season, 700 boys have had the opportunity to participate in an organized baseball program thanks to several interested persons who were willing to donate many hours of their time and efforts. The program not only catered to those boys participating, but also provided entertainment to many who came to watch.

Political hassles

The political hassle between State Rep. Stanley Powell and Robert Ditmer, a St. Johns radio station owner seeking election to Powell's office, does little toward getting the people public enthusiastic about the game of politics.

It's not easy to say "thanks" for a job well done to all the team managers, coaches, umpires and sponsors.

Parent-child conference vital

Last week's drug crackdown should make all parents in Michigan take a good look at their relationship with their own youngsters.

According to police, it's not by any means further investigation is continuing.
The seven suspects apprehended by police are charged with first degree murder in the Sliger incident. The apparent motive is said to be a dispute over a $5,000 drug deal involved in the sale of 500 pounds of marijuana. This indicates the Clinton County seat was a central marketplace for LSD and the dollars involved were well in excess of ten thousand dollars a week.

Next week's conference will bring about a mass of news by commenting that "I know my kids, they wouldn't become involved in this kind of thing. This may have been the fact remains drugs were, and probably still are, available to area youngsters.

It's a lot of good kids in St. Johns and surrounding communities but peer group pressure or the juvenile tendency to try something new present.

The critical question now rests with how parents can control this trend. In accord to this latter event, most youngsters were probably already aware that drugs were available, at least. It's unlikely you would have dared telling that you didn't positively forbid your children to mess with drugs. It would have been LIFTING THE CONSEQUENCES OF SUCH ACTION. If they were taught proper values as a child, they'd quickly realize drugs are a dead-end street in the Clinton County Community.

The Safety Valve

Answers one question about drugs, will not pass on to the Michigan State Police, but will try to answer questions for Michigan parents. You ask: "What makes it so hard to control the number of drug dealers on the streets?"

"It's not easy to say "thanks" for a job well done to all the team managers, coaches, umpires and sponsors."

The problem is that the drug world is the kind of organization that's hard to control. If you can't control it, you can't really help the situation in any way that I can."

The Michigan Commission on Crime Control, a legislative body, is charged with combating drug abuse. Under the law, the commission has the power to help the state in any way that it can. I have a right to try to pass drug abuse, they have a right to try to pass drug abuse. I have a right to try to pass drug abuse, they have a right to try to pass drug abuse.

"They look so happy," she said.

"They seem to be a happy people. I help the family or a child to understand drug habits. I don't see why it's so hard to control the children."

You asked: "What does it all mean in relation to who is best qualified to represent the people of the 88th District? We think it is very important in this area. This is not to say unfair campaigning should be allowed. We simply feel in this case, the entire controversy is worthwhile."

District. In response, Ditmer strongly denied the charge.

It's too bad seeking public office has to become a contest of which candidate is on the up and up. The merits of each candidate such as past performance, experience in government and a general display of level headedness and intelligence will be what the voters are primarily concerned about when deciding whom to vote for.

Nothing beats fresh bread

What's the secret to making the perfect loaf of bread? Fresh bread, straight from the oven! And it's not just any bread... it's Freshly Baked marvellous, brown bread.

Fresh bread is baked fresh in the oven, so it's extra soft and fluffy. It's the perfect accompaniment to any meal, whether it's a simple sandwich or a hearty meal. And the aroma of freshly baked bread fills the kitchen with a warm, inviting scent.

Garage sales: trash turns to treasure

ST. JOHNS — One person’s trash is another’s treasure.

That’s what the growing number of garage sales these days seems to say. It’s the popular way to turning “don’t need” into cash.

Trees and telephone poles sprout cardboard tack-ons with arrows pointing the way. Whether it’s in a garage, basement, porch, or just in the yard, they’re springing up all over.

TODAY’S INTEREST in ecology with the emphasis on recycling has taken the “stigma” off using somebody else’s cast-offs. Wise shoppers are proud to say, “I got it for a quarter at a garage sale.”

It’s not so important to keep up with the Joneses, after all, you might be wearing one of the Jones boys’ shirts.

This one was at 802 W. MoConnel. Clothes were the hottest selling item of the day at Shirley Rasmussen’s combination garage, breeze-way and yard sale.

EAST LANSING—Changing grade levels during construction can ruin the beauty of a tree, according to Gerald E. Draheim, Wayne County extension horticultural agent.

Draheim offers these tips on preparing your landscape plans to avoid possible damage to trees you wish to keep.

To avoid any change in grade levels, keep fill needed for additions as far from the tree as possible to avoid root damage. Maintain the original grade level near the trunk of the tree.

By following these ideas and planning carefully, you can protect your beautiful part of your land.

There are always just lookers at garage sales being held by the dozens in the St. Johns area.

Caution against rabies

Incidence of rabies in the United States is declining as more people spend time with their pets, the Michigan Department of Public Health reported July 15.

"Many pet owners are keeping their dogs and cats indoors and away from wildlife," said Dr. Robert E. Keahey, state veterinarian. "As a result, there are fewer cases of rabies in our state."

However, Dr. Keahey indicated there is still cause for the public to bevigilant.

"Rabies is still found in wild animals and is transmitted to domestic animals and people by bites of infected animals," he added.

The department said there have been 22 reported cases of rabies in Michigan from January to July 1972, compared to 37 cases during the same period in 1971.

"This is the lowest number of rabies cases in Michigan for this time of year in recent memory," said Dr. Keahey.

He explained that rabies, a viral disease of the central nervous system, is common among wild mammals such as skunks and foxes, which are particularly prone to the disease.

The disease is also found occasionally among domestic animals such as cats, dogs, and ferrets.

"Despite the decline in the number of rabies cases in Michigan, it is important for pet owners to keep their animals vaccinated against the disease," Dr. Keahey said.

"Vaccination is the best way to protect pets and people against rabies," he added.

Michigan law requires that pet owners vaccinate their dogs and cats against rabies. Owners who fail to do so may be fined.

"By refusing food, swallowing antelopes in bathing, and notifying local police or sending it for analysis to a veterinarian every other day, we can prevent rabies in our state," Dr. Keahey said.

He referred pet owners to their local veterinarians for information on how to protect their pets from rabies.

"We encourage pet owners to consult with their veterinarians about vaccination and other preventive measures," he concluded.

Life’s little pleasures can be en- countered. Maybe you can enjoy a leisurely drive, but if you’re in a hurry, try a few of the small fragments in your life. Last weekend, I was in the middle of a double-header, trying to keep an eye on the weather so I could get a good game of golf in. I looked over at the disbelievingly calm sea, and thought, “I must be going crazy.”

It was the last day of the month, and I had planned a weekend getaway. I was looking forward to the vacation, but I was also a little anxious about the weather. I had a few practice rounds the next day, and I wanted to be prepared for any possible rain. I had packed an umbrella, and I was wearing my best golf shoes. As I glanced over at the calm sea, I knew I had made the right decision.

Mrs. Hauser's patch is soft and velvety, and the berries are juicy and plump. I can't wait to try them in a delicious recipe. I think I'll make some fresh raspberries for breakfast, and a few for a gift to the neighbors.

Raspberry patch is Jean's pride and joy.

Crab Apple trees for Michigan yards, gardens

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Crab apple growers and owners of small homes, say a variety of crab apples is the most suitable for the home garden. According to Joseph T. Cox, who is the state horticulturist, crab apples are good for decoration, fruit and flowers. The young family member present was David T. Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Cox, of Grand Ledge. For families who want to have crab apple trees in their yards, there are a number of varieties that are suitable. The Coxes have grown a number of crab apples in their yard and have found them to be quite attractive. Lawn care and exercise

Meetings of the Rainmakers 4-H club at the Michigan State University Extension office were held recently. Members received various questions relating to their rainmaking project. The members decided their project will consist of making a natural environment for birds and animal survival.

The Rainmakers club was formed at Michigan State University last fall by members interested in the environment. The project was to help bring to the bird population some food and shelter of their own. The members will raise and grow grass and build houses in the county fair area.

Farmers observe safety week

Farmers observe safety week. The theme for this year is "Proper use of equipment when you work on the farm." The theme was picked by the members of the Safety Committee.

Let's go to migrant school

Visiting teacher Angelita Gutierrez from Texas attracts the undivided attention of her pupils. She's one of many instructing at Migrant School.

A highlight of the day for the little 'tots is the daily ride to school in the big yellow bus.

"Rub-a-dub-dub, two boys in a tub." These kids get a morning bath at the Day Care Center.

Linda Friese teaches colors, shapes and fruits to a group of pre-schoolers.

A new friend is what Migrant School means to this girl. She's greeted by Diane Fox, teacher aide.

Budding journalists is what Principal Mike O'Connor tags his newspaper staff. Leaning a hand in laying out the news is teacher aide Barbara Kohn.

"I can't do a thing with my hair," but with a little help from this Day Care Center worker it comes out great.

It's not all work and no play at the St. Johns Migrant School. Here the boys take to the basketball courts of St. Joseph's School during free time.
