Another try for income

Commission accepts plan for bond sale

The St. Johns city commission at放进 a meeting on Tuesday rejected a plan for a renewal of a general income tax. The action, taken at the urging of city manager John Furry, who had recommended the proposal, will bring the city closer to issuing bonds to cover a general income tax. The measure will be brought up for public discussion at a meeting of the commission on Tuesday.

The plan, scheduled for November, will be presented to DeWitt and Lansing. It was pointed out that this move came about following the meeting with their group and the commission that the last three weeks ago, will mean that voters will be given an opportunity to vote on this proposal. The action, coming in the wake of a city income tax defeat two years ago, will mean that voters will once again be given an opportunity to vote on this proposal.

The city council has identified the proposal as one of its priority projects and may recommend it as a matter of retaining funds in the city.

Commission chairperson W. B. Angell was reluctant to make a firm statement. The action, coming in the wake of a city income tax defeat two years ago, will mean that voters will once again be given an opportunity to vote on this proposal.

were the son of Mr and Mrs Harry Suit of Pewamo, Michigan, and graduate of Pewamo-Westphalia High School. The yon honor wore an aqua and white floral suit. The bride's mother of the groom wore a gown of peau de soie and yellow roses. Both wore corsages of white roses.
Dr and Mrs Bates of Ovid are shown next to their formal rose garden, the background is a mass display of pink roses and evergreen. The catalog setting is produced in conjunction with a life time interest in flowers. The couple recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. They travel extensively, and have a deep interest in civic activities.

Dr and Mrs Bates of Ovid find ‘Life can be beautiful’

"People roses, in a profusion of colors, with a rhythmical movement that give a lift to the heart. A rose is a flower in bloom, and in itself, a rose is a sight to behold." So stated Dr Bates, of Ovid, in a recent interview with The News. "To us, roses are more than just flowers. They bring joy to our lives and give us a sense of peace and tranquility."

"Our love for roses started when we were young," Mrs. Bates added. "We enjoyed them so much, we decided to grow them in our garden."

"We started with just a few roses, and gradually our garden grew," Dr. Bates continued. "Now we have over 50 varieties, and our roses are very popular among our neighbors and friends."

"We enjoy sharing our roses with others," Mrs. Bates said. "We often host garden parties and invite our friends and neighbors to come and enjoy our roses with us."

"Roses are not just beautiful, they also have a unique fragrance that is very pleasant," Dr. Bates said. "Our garden is filled with the sweet scent of roses, and it brings a smile to our faces every time we step foot in there."

"We have found that roses are very easy to care for," Mrs. Bates added. "They require regular watering and pruning, but they thrive in our garden."

"Roses are a symbol of love and beauty," Dr. Bates concluded. "They bring joy to our lives, and we are grateful for them every day.

Blue Star Mothers to sponsor bake sale

Chapter No. 8 of the Blue Star Mothers of Ovid met on Thursday, July 22, at the home of Vivian Terhune, a past president of the chapter, which was attended by Vivian Terhune, Rose Pearl, and Mrs. Bates. The meeting was held in the family room of the Bates' home, which was filled with beautiful flowers and an abundance of evergreen.

"Our chapter is dedicated to supporting and honoring the families of those who have served in the armed forces," Mrs. Bates said. "We hold bake sales, bake-off contests, and other events to raise funds for our causes."

"Our next bake sale will be held on Saturday, August 11," Mrs. Bates added. "We are looking forward to seeing everyone there to support our cause."

"We are grateful for the support of our community," Dr. Bates said. "Without their support, we would not be able to continue our work."

"We hope everyone will come out and support our cause," Mrs. Bates concluded. "Our chapter is dedicated to supporting those who have served in the armed forces, and we need everyone's help to continue our work."

Terrycloth becoming a FABRIC of FASHION

"Terrycloth is a napped fabric. It means the surface feels rough to the touch and is not smooth. This type of fabric is often used for absorbent materials like towels and bathrobes."

"Terrycloth is available in a variety of colors and patterns," Mrs. Bates said. "We have seen it used as curtains, tablecloths, and even as upholstery fabric."

"Terrycloth is a popular fabric for bathrobes and towels," Dr. Bates added. "It is soft and absorbent, making it perfect for those early morning showers."

"Terrycloth is also a popular fabric for loungewear," Mrs. Bates said. "It is comfortable and relaxed, making it perfect for those lazy weekend mornings."

"Terrycloth is a versatile fabric," Dr. Bates concluded. "It can be used in a variety of applications, and we look forward to seeing more uses for it in the future."
A joint research project to study the performance of Lake Michigan has been announced by the American Electric Power Company and the University of Michigan. The project will involve the use of a research vessel and the collection of data on the lake's physical and chemical characteristics.

The announcement was made by Jerry D. Wall, vice president for research at the University of Michigan, and Joseph F. Cipolla, president of the American Electric Power Company. The project will be funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The research vessel, which will be equipped with state-of-the-art instrumentation, will conduct surveys of the lake's surface and underwater features, and will collect samples of water and sediment.

The data collected will be used to improve understanding of the lake's ecosystems, and to inform policy decisions regarding water quality and the management of the lake's resources.

The project is expected to last for several years, and will involve a team of scientists from both institutions.

The researchers plan to publish their findings in scientific journals and to make the data available to the public.

Extended care least understood among Medicare benefits

It is a well-known fact that most people over age 65 have hospital insurance under the Medicare program. However, according to the director of the Lansing social security office, a majority of the clients do not understand the extent of the benefits.

The extended care benefit is the least understood Medicare benefit, and provides for a 3-month period of extended care facility, and provides care. The program is available to people who are in a hospital or a skilled nursing facility, and who require continuing skilled nursing care. The benefit covers a maximum of 90 days, with 60 days of those being covered by Medicare.

Mr. Seamon stressed that service is not automatically covered by Medicare when a patient enters an extended care facility. Five requirements must be met in order for Medicare to cover the costs:

1. Medical needs of the patient
2. Provision of services in a hospital or skilled nursing facility
3. The patient must have been in the hospital or skilled nursing facility for at least three days
4. He must be transferred to an inpatient hospital or skilled nursing facility
5. The patient must have paid for all costs the first 20 days in each hospital stay

The benefit pays for all costs for the next 80 days in each benefit period. If the tax in question does not exceed $2,500 for any year, no further treatment of a condition will be covered in the Medicare program. The term "further treatment" means that the condition no longer requires the medical services ordinarily provided by or under the supervision of a physician.

Advice to sufferers

New approaches mark hay fever treatment

Are you one of the many people who suffer from hay fever? Do you welcome the approach of Each Spring with dread? If you are, you are not alone. Hay fever affects millions throughout the world. The symptoms can range from minor irritation to major discomfort. Several factors can trigger hay fever, including pollen, dust, mold, and pet dander.

There are several approaches to managing hay fever. Here are a few tips that may help:

1. Avoiding Triggers: Identify the specific allergens that trigger your symptoms. This can be done through allergy testing. Once identified, avoid contact with these allergens as much as possible. If you know you are allergic to pollens, try to stay indoors on high-pollen days. If you are allergic to pets, keep them out of your home or minimize exposure.

2. Medications: There are several types of medications that can help manage hay fever. These include antihistamines, nasal steroids, and decongestants. Your doctor can prescribe the most suitable medications for your needs.

3. Environmental Control: Consider modifying your living environment to reduce allergen exposure. This might include improving air quality in your home, using allergen reducing covers on furniture, or keeping pets out of your bedroom.

4. Stress Management: Stress can exacerbate hay fever symptoms. Practice stress-reduction techniques such as meditation, yoga, or deep breathing exercises to help manage your symptoms.

Remember, hay fever cannot be cured, but it can be managed effectively. If you experience persistent symptoms, it is important to consult with your healthcare provider for proper diagnosis and treatment.

Neat grooming gives youth new outlook

A parent of a large family of four children, one of whom is a swimming team member, wrote a letter encouraging the children to participate in sports.

"Our children, who are all involved in sports, have benefited greatly from swimming. They have learned discipline, teamwork, and perseverance. Swimming has also helped them to develop a sense of achievement and confidence."

The letter went on to say that "even though swimming is a strenuous activity, it is also fun and enjoyable. Our children look forward to each practice and meet with anticipation."

The writer also mentioned that "the swimming team has become a source of pride for our family. We are so proud of our children and their achievements."

For more information on how to get involved in swimming, contact your local swim club or community center. Swimming is a great way to stay healthy and build a strong body.

Optical illusions play a big part in decorating. Without mask-and-wear-over costumes, many haystacks, especially touched locations, could be made of waving tulle or organza. Tulle is fine for edges and organza for center cuts. A very light tulle with a little ironing can be used for window decorations, especially in the windows that are too high. Ex-}

4-H teen tells of Japan visit

Kelly Riddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Riddle, R. D. One, DeWitt, is in Japan with the National 4-H Teen Caravan. She will be visiting there until Aug. 11. The following letter Kelly sent home recently tells of her adventures in the Orient.

Mitsukoshi, Japanese Department Store

I have just arrived in Japan for my three-week trip. I found the flight absolutely terrible. I was frightened my whole trip because I have never flown before. I was glad to get off the plane and see the people. I am now living with the Katsumi family in Tokyo. They are my host family.

Tokyo is the largest city in the world and is very crowded. I have found that I must pace myself very well in order to get everything done. I am finding it harder and harder to know how to say things in Japanese. I am finding it very difficult to understand and to express myself. I have found that I must be very patient and understanding in order to communicate effectively.

In the last few days I have been able to visit some of the main attractions of Tokyo. I have visited the Imperial Palace and the largest Buddha in the world. I have also been to Nikko and Kamakura.

Nikko is the location of the largest pagoda in the world. It is completely Japanese style. It is beautifully decorated with gold and jewels. I have heard it is called "Gold Temple." There is also a waterfall in Nikko that is very beautiful.

Kamakura is a town near Tokyo. It is a historical city with many old temples and shrines. I have visited the Kamakura Daibutsu, a giant Buddha statue, and the Tsurugaoka Hachimangu Shrine.

I have now been in Japan for 13 days and have been able to see many places. I will be back home by August 31. I have had a wonderful time and will never forget this trip.

Amateur arts, sculpture added to fair judging

Two new competitions, Amateur Fine Art and Sculpture, have been added to the 58th annual State Fair in Michigan. The competitions are part of the main island—Honshu. There are 16 islands in completely different areas of the world.

I am living with the Katsumi family. I have found that rice is definitely different here. I have found that it is harder to eat than American rice. I have found that theAsian people are so friendly and nice. It is easy to make friends with them. I have visited them in their own homes and have been invited to their dinners. They have been very hospitable and have taken good care of me.

After a few days of adjusting, I have found that the Japanese way of living is completely different from the American way. They have very different customs and traditions. I have found that it is very difficult to understand some of their customs and traditions.

I have found that the Japanese people are very hardworking and efficient. I have found that they work very hard and are very successful. I have found that their business is very competitive and that they are very hardworking.

Moon and poverty

The lesser flight of Apollo 11 and crew has given rise to speculation in some quarters of how much a continuation of the space program warrants the expenses in­voiced.

Much of the objection to space expenses comes from those who feel those funds should be directed toward alleviation of poverty and other glaring social ills. The demand for cattle has made it possible for them­selves to get a better understanding of the problem of poverty goals and should not be dropped from consideration but we fail to see the necessity of pitting one project against another in a race for funds. Particularly when the variables of existence can be so accur­ately read by man.

In this society of our little else seems to satisfy to the extent provided by suc­cesses. However, there have been fed a number of federally funded projects in recent years which can boost the direct success and reorientation of the saddle programs. Similarly, many of the domestic, socially oriented programs have been riddled with ineffective administration, expansive spending and few results; a condition which generates many obstacles to those whose programs were designed to combat the space program, too, may be faced with strong conditions, and few predictable results can be seen.

There can be much value in social projects designed to improve man's plight but allowing them to slip away from a realistic perspective can void even the most beneficial of benefits. There is a growing trend toward expecting the government to provide, however, there is far too much dignity for the moon than there is in reaching for a handout.

Jogging, etc.

Are you still jogging? Perhaps you never did. We fall into that lovely rut of bit of information crossed our desk recently which allows us to rationalize our inactivity. According to the latest issue of the American Jogging Association, the number of the medical profession has expressed common concern with the inadequacies of jogging and, as any reasonable person should have known to begin with, he has decreed that exercise can be dangerous for a number of reasons, not the least of which being the possibility of discovering more at this condition and probably too tight for running.

Another factor which caused us to gravitate away from the jogging track is the generally accepted practice of pursuing this exercise in the morning hours. At this time of day we experience extreme difficulty in limping to the shower let alone flagging around. Unlike a big school shooting star, also there is something distressing about putting along a green course only to see the sun remove a year-old sip by and almost apologetically yell over his shoulder, "Gon, you can really pretty well!"

No, jogging never grabbed us and the preceding reasons along with the doctor's have eased our mind from guilt for not participating in the type of exercise which will only say push-ups, sit-ups and knee-bends have so general benefit our after-dinner nap in the easy chair would truly be wasted.

From the state house

The regular 88th session of Michigan's Legislature terminated regular session last month. There are many sessions which have been beneficial to the state and much of the credit goes to the press and the public. The state will have to be the usual im­plicit in the demands of citizens with problems with State agencies to solve, but the overall picture is more promising. The 88th Legislature approved a total budget of $2.05 billion, of which approximately $700 million was allocated to education. While there is still much work to be done, it is encouraging to see a more involved and educated public.

The Legislature also approved full funding in education by the state, which will go toward the overall welfare of the state. However, there are still many issues that need to be addressed, and the Legislature will have to continue working to ensure the well-being of the state.
