3-day 4-H Fair starts on Monday

Water rate hike probable

The Clinton County Commission's decision to hike water rates by 30 percent will likely precipitate further property rates in Watertown Township to prevent the state of Michigan from taking over and port.

The board, passed a resolution Tuesday, expressing its interest in Watertown Township's property rates and taxes in favor of Lansing taking over and port. -

Full paving program planned

Prime, double seal included

All St. Johns streets originally scheduled for paving this summer will be paved—same with a two-inch bituminous mat and the others with a gravel and double seal.

There will be no special assessments involved in the paving program.

Directly relating to the city commission's decision, however, will be the most purely a water rate increase for St. Johns water customers.

The water rate hike has been ordered in spite of the city commission's decision to go ahead with a paving program, all but arranged themselves in order to save money and pay for a full paving program for the general road.

The paving program is dependent upon the water rate being able torow some of the debt. The commission, by deciding last week to go ahead with a paving program, all but encourage themselves in order to save money and pay for full paving program for the general road.

City Commissar George asserted that a full paving program could have been realized in the following terms, which is an 85 percent increase.

Some 25,000 Clinton County 4-H members will be on hand to watch the 11th annual fair this year, which runs Monday afternoon through Thursday afternoon.

The 30th annual Clinton County 4-H Fair will be held at St. Johns, Aug. 1-4.

Sickles project costs disturb residents there

Situated along Sickles Street is the neighborhood of the newest addition to the city of St. Johns. The area is being developed as a city project as part of the city beautification movement. The project consists of various streets, sidewalks, and gutters which will be constructed through the area. The area has been improved by the addition of new sidewalks and gutters, and the street is being paved with asphalt.

The new development will cost the city $16,985.40, and figures out to $409 per unit of benefit. Here are the costs:

- PROPERTY OWNERS: $20 per unit of benefit
- TAXPAYERS: 1 per cent of the cost apiece
- CIVIL DEFENSE: $6.35 per unit of benefit

These costs will be paid mostly by residents in the city park. The city commission took its legal authority to levy the taxes to pay for the paving, which the commission deems the need sufficient. Mayor Charles Coletta pointed out that the city beautification committee had already selected the area for the project.

The city commission also set aside $3 per unit of benefit for better sidewalks. The commission set aside $1 per unit of benefit for gutters and $1 per unit of benefit for parking. The city commission also decided to permit the city beautification committee to set aside $5 per unit of benefit for better sidewalks.

The new development will include the following costs to residents:

- PROPERTY OWNERS: $6.35 per unit of benefit
- CIVIL DEFENSE: $6.35 per unit of benefit
- TAXPAYERS: 1 per cent of the cost apiece
- CIVIL DEFENSE: $6.35 per unit of benefit

Residents in the neighborhood of the new development were not happy about the cost. They felt that the project was not necessary and that the city should have found other ways to beautify the area. The city commission took their concerns into consideration and decided to set aside $3 per unit of benefit for better sidewalks. For Frank and Ha Rickerd

Retirement opened up world of rocks

By STANLEY WEBER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rickerd have been described as "rock hounds. They are a valuable part of the "wonderland of rocks" that they have developed in their own native Michigan. Their interest in rocks is part of a hobby for both of them. It is a hobby that they have been passionate about for the past five summers.

Motivated by a love for rocks and geology, the Rickerds have made it a practice to collect rocks on their daily activities. They have spent hours searching for the perfect specimen, and have developed a remarkable collection of rocks from around the world.

In their home, they have a display of their best specimens, which includes a variety of rocks and minerals. The display is not only a testament to their passion for rocks, but also a reminder of their travels and adventures. The Rickerds are proud of their collection, and are constantly adding to it.

They have also been successful in selling their specimens, and have made a small fortune in the process. They have been known to attend lapidary and mineral conventions around the country, and have even won awards for their specimens.

The Rickerds are not only interested in collecting rocks, but also in learning more about them. They have taken courses in geology and have read extensively on the subject. They are always eager to share their knowledge with others.

The Rickerds have even been known to give tours of their rock collection, and have welcomed visitors from all over the world. Their collection has become a popular attraction, and has brought attention to the unique and beautiful rocks that can be found in Michigan.

The Rickerds have been successful in their rock collecting, and have become known as "rock hounds" around the country. Their dedication and passion for rocks have made them a valuable addition to the world of rock collecting.

Ovid-Elsie FFA top state entry in cooperative activities

OVID-ELSIE—The Ovid-Elsie FFA is feeling confident about its cooperative activities as it prepares for a state competition.

"Our meats are cut to order" is the theme of the FFA program sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau which will be presented at the state competition at Michigan State University. Central Michigan is the host school where the FFA units from across the state will gather to test their skills in cooperative activities.

More than 200 members of the Ovid-Elsie FFA and eight advisors are working hard to prepare for this important event. The unit, under the leadership of advisor Russell Bueck, has been working on the project for several weeks and is determined to do their best.

The competition will test the FFA students' knowledge and skills in cooperative activities, and the Ovid-Elsie FFA is determined to show what it can do.

"It's a long, long way from the August heat and floral splendor in the Midwest to the snow-covered mountains of Europe, but we've done it in 10 weeks and 10 days of hard work," said Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Sickle, parents of the group of 35 who were in Europe for the Foreign Language League Schools during which they studied comparative governments. In this front row are Mrs. Bertha E. Barum, St. John's teacher who was chaperone for the group, and Marilyn Stabb, St. John's teacher, who was the group's co-chaperone. In the center of the group is the flute player, Mrs. Mildred Craddock, who is a member of the band at the University of Michigan and is a senior in the University's music department.

As usual, the fair got under way with the annual chili cook-off, which this year was won by Mrs. Norman Lynch of LeRoy. Other winners were George and Mabel Toomey, Gilbert T. Grant, Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Simons, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crow.

The grand parade was held at 2 p.m. with the same float parade theme as last year, and judging was done by Mrs. G. W. Whaley, Mrs. A. E. Pease, and Mrs. W. E. Curtis. The parade proceeded through the streets of LeRoy, ending at the fairgrounds.

The fair continued all day with a variety of events, including a horse show, a dairy beef show, and a hog show. There were also exhibits of woolen goods, potatoes, and corn. The fairgrounds were busy with people enjoying the various attractions.

Leader ponders 4-H meaning in family life

By Emily Davis Leader—French's Corners 6-1 Club

At a leader for over 13 years, I cannot imagine what a difference there would have been in the lives of my family if there had been no 4-H program in it. Everyone who has seen the growth of our child through the years will marvel at the change in him. From the time each of our children entered the 4-H program, the two lads mount up and ride 11 1/2 miles one way and return, getting them home in the mid'-afternoon. Leadership and responsibility have centered around this activity, had centered around this social, as well as learning experience, which not only makes our children fit—the two lads mount up and ride 11 1/2 miles one way and return, getting them home in the mid'-afternoon. Leadership and responsibility have centered around this activity, had centered around this social, as well as learning experience, which not only makes our children fit, but also increases opportunities to learn as well as help others.

The trip takes them about two hours oneway, getting them to the meeting place. They ride east to DeWitt Road and take it north all the way to St. Johns City Park, which is the meeting place.

4-H Club Week

Edward Davis

At the high point of the trip was the exciting, informative trip by leaders to Washington, D.C., which included an exciting, informative tour of the Lincoln Memorial, the White House, the Supreme Court, the Capitol, and many other places. The trip took them about two hours oneway, getting them to the meeting place. They ride east to DeWitt Road and take it north all the way to St. Johns City Park, which is the meeting place.

Tom Wieber, 13, is the son of Mr and Mrs Ben Wieber of 405 E. Rapids Road. They ride east to DeWitt Road and take it north all the way to St. Johns City Park, which is the meeting place.

From that time on much of our organizational leader of our own club was made. In a community divided by a street of the individual, but it is chosen life. There are so many facets of there to discover - men make; to find themselves. “Understanding Yourself,” the theme of this year’s Club Week, was much better than having it described to us. It was much more concrete, and we were living and growing...it is our responsibility to learn and grow...it is our responsibility to learn and grow...it is our responsibility to learn and grow...it is our responsibility to learn and grow...

Good luck on your annual 4-H Club Fair...

4-H clothing projects mean many things to many girls

By MARJORIE SCHMITT

First-year 4-H Club and 4-H leader什么意思?
The 4-H clothing project means many things to many girls. The young girls, age 10 to 18, learn the skills of crating through the clothing project. The leader, age 10 to 18, gains an understanding and appreciation of her work. This appreciation is due to the project leader in each group, Mrs. Emily Davis.

The project leader is Mrs. Emily Davis. She is a part of her clothing project this year, the straw-frame hat she's adjusting is of her making too, as is the bonded wool coat lying on the case in front of her. Her color match of that of the dress, Cindy's 4-H clothing project leader is Mrs. Emily Davis.

There are projects designed for the young boy interested in farming, for the older-younger members who wish to learn about the various aspects of agriculture, and for the older members who wish to learn more about the various aspects of the farming industry.

The first project in foods is called "Science Whys," which gives the members a chance to find out why certain things happen when certain procedures are followed. The second project is called "Food for Fun," which gives the members a chance to find out what foods they can eat and what foods they cannot eat. The third project is called "Food to Make the Best Better," which gives the members a chance to find out how to make the best of the foods they eat.

Beekeeping ‘quite different’
4-H project, member finds

BY LARRY BONTON
Watkens Glen, N.Y.

Beekeeping is a project quite different from other 4-H projects. That's partly due to the fact that keeping honey bees is a skill of a lifetime. After the initial effort of buying equipment, the beekeeper must make sure the bees do not die of starvation or be stolen.

The greatest advantage for starting this project is that you become a beekeeper for life. Bees require care each year, but they need be taken care of properly. 4-H Camp counseling memorable experience

BY LOIS MILLER
Member—4-H Home Daisy 4-Club

One of the most memorable weeks of my life was spent at Harryville 4-H Camp as a counselor. The counselors that went there that year were great. This training school for counselors was held for counselor training which was useful in many ways. All the counselors were requested to come monthly. This helped to teach where things are before the counselors and made it easier to find things. This was a good feeling, knowing the counselors were not lost. It was an interesting way to have fun.

Preparing the fancy-cut middlesby, salad and carrots for the 4-H Food Fair last month was a team situation. Hard at work in the Kitchen at Smith Hall prior to that meeting are Gloria Kunce, Dorene Wauchope, Debbie Baars, Wendy Ward, Martha Mihalyi, Mary Mihalyi and Pat Fox.

Wendy and Mary belong to the Jolly 4-H Canning Cooks club, and the other girls are members of the Happy Nettles 4-H Club.

"Cost" of living

The high cost of living has a serious bearing on the health of your children. It is impossible to live on a small income, and even in the best of health, it is difficult to live on a large income. This is a serious problem today. Such are the Clinton County 4-H Club members. They are learning to serve their community, family and themselves, by doing the knowledge and habits they acquire mean a better way of life.

All requests for regular GAP agreements were not available, we could have, within the limits of public access have not been completed agreements which provide funds available. We now have 88 farms in county which have diverted land from production land. In 1966, we had nine farms participating in the public access program in their local county ASCS of Michigan. Prior to hunting season, we have to be aware that areas were open for public hunting as well as a check to determine the location of the farms that are available for public hunting as well as designating boundaries for the seasons.

This public access program is one that all people, both urban and rural, can participate in. Many use the farm in respect to its potential, and as a communication tool. A member also has the opportunity to develop useful and enjoyable projects, which can be used for different cameras. Brenda Flegler, 18, junior leader of the Willing Workers 4-H Club, shows sister Earlene, 13, and Susan Moorehouse, 12, Juanita Horman and Ethel Flegler.

Picturing in 4-H rewarding
By BRENDA FLEGHER Member—Willing Workers 4-H Club

Photography is one of the most useful and enjoyable projects available to all clubs. From the shooting of events to the printing of photos, the beginner can do very well with very little equipment.

The most important tool for the beginner is the camera. The 35mm is the best choice. With this camera, you can produce photos in almost any situation. The camera is the most important tool for the beginner. It is an important part of photography. But most importantly, what you do with the camera is what counts. Most of all, photography is definitely a most worthwhile activity that you should learn for your lifetime membership in the 4-H Club. Each member should have a camera and film. Understanding their technique is what counts. Members are able to develop techniques and ideas, and as a communication tool, they can use and enjoy for a lifetime.

Better Living Through 4-H Training

A Sign of Service

We offer our Sincere Best Wishes to the Clinton County 4-H Clubs for a Successful 1967 4-H Fair
When Jack Williams retired, he took his wife on a holiday cruise. They'll be back next week, and I'm certainly going to tell them how much they've been missed here at the church.

Like all ministers, I need a lot of help from my congregation to make our church a happy, inspiring place. Frankly, both my wife and I are sure that the church is a better place to be because of all the good things they do through their church work. The church is the greatest factor in making our community a better place to live.

Like other families, we have our own needs and problems and spiritual needs. William and Mildred Sinclair and their family are typical of all God-fearing families. They are a happy family that has always been a part of our church family. Sinclair and his wife are just two of the many older members that keep things running smoothly. They depend on them for good ideas, for practical administration and, very often, for a wise approach to young people's problems. In return, the Sinclairs have told us how important the church has been to them in their lives, and how they feel that others need similar help.

That's one of the great secrets of life, I think ... to be needed. And these needn't be church members who don't have a real need for "human service" to help with God's work.
Well over 1,000 Clinton County Youth—among the most creative in the area—are in the spotlight next week.

They are the youth from 8 to 18 who are in 4-H and who will have their ingenuity and abilities on public display at the 4-H Fair, which begins Monday through Wednesday next week.

Their work reflects many hours of interest and dedication by the 4-H membership and group leaders in the county. It is a result of the efforts of hundreds of 4-H leaders who see their volunteer help as a way of insuring clean-cut, healthy, intelligent Americans for the future.
