Federal-Mogul marks 75th anniversary

The company began operations in 1924 under the name of Mogul Metal Works, founded by Edward Lyon and John S. Muzzy. Lyon, a machinist and engineer, it began as a small shop making camshafts and crankshafts for engines. By that time, the use of metal parts became more widespread in automobiles, and Lyon realized the potential of stamping metal parts for production of engine bearings. Soon after the metals became commercially available in 1929, the company changed its name to Federal Mogul Corporation and began producing engine bearings by the millions for all major automobile manufacturers.

One of the major events marking Federal-Mogul's transition to precision manufacturing was the establishment of Federal Mogul's first plant in 1930 in the Town of Rochester, Michigan. In that same year, Federal Mogul introduced four new metals in Auto Lines and 1946, its first in-house research lab opened. The lab was responsible for developing new materials and processes at Federal Mogul. The company continued to expand its operations through the years, eventually becoming one of the world's leading suppliers of engine bearings and other precision metal products.

Throughout the 1960s, the company continued to establish new plants, moving from 8,000 registered at the turn of the century to nearly 80,000 in 1974. Federal-Mogul sales have never been higher. The company's product line has expanded from engine bearings to include all metal parts, precision bearing, rolling stocks, bushings, washers and steel stampings, which are used in automotive transmissions. Dear Editors:

Hair and athletics

Hair style: It’s time faced us at St. Johns. Everyone liked us. We all look good. It’s just too bad, you look so bad. I think that’s the reason people say that there is a difference in their play. There are no rules on how to play. If you get the hair cut, it is all right. We are good athletes. I think it should prove something to you, many let their hair grow which is not a good idea. It takes time to hair style. “Your hair is too long. You should get your hair cut. I think our school is the only school that has the same problem with hair style. Why don’t you try to get your hair cut. I think the coaches should be trying to get our hair cut. It’s just too bad.

Sincerely,

OJJJP.

Let’s try it, you might like it. You can read it. Long hair certainly does not help kids in town if what they do. Actually, Doris made the chest and we hope this sets the example.

Scientists test flame-retardant fabrics

Chloe Podgirt
Clinton County Home Economist

The Agriculture Research Service—ARS—of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), is evaluating flame retardant fabrics to determine how well they protect clothing and prevent fires.

The fabrics were selected based on how they were treated. The Federal government regulates the flammability standards of cotton used for children's pajamas. However, the government has no standards for fabrics used in other types of clothing.

But what happens in the fabric after it leaves the pyrotechnics lab is unknown. As a result, ARS has concluded that firefighters need another way to measure the effectiveness of the flame retardant materials.

At this time, the ARS researchers are testing the fabrics with a special apparatus that simulates the environment a firefighter can expect to encounter. The sample is then exposed to a heat source to determine how well the fabric resist burns.

Scientists have found that a tiny fiber can be ignited by a fire. This fiber can then make its way to other parts of the body, where it can cause further damage. They are now studying the effects of this fiber on the body.

Save Money ... Eat Better

The choice is yours!

This is an important message for any consumer who wants to save money without sacrificing quality.

At your Kroger store, you have a choice of many fine brands. Nationally-promoted products are there. So are regional favorites. And right next to them are Kroger brand products. Equal in quality. Yet lower-priced.

These Kroger products are planned to please you. When a new Kroger product reaches the store shelf, it is there because you have asked for it. It is designed to match the quality of leading brands, and then is priced to give you the best value for your money.

Careful quality checks — during processing and in comparison with other brands — back up our Unconditional Guarantee of satisfaction on a replacement or money-back basis.

As consumers become more knowledgeable and as inflation and shortages push prices up, awareness of the value represented by store brand products has been growing throughout the country. If you haven't yet tried the Kroger brands, give them a try this week. Kroger believes you will be convinced that this is one way you can save money and still get high quality.

The Choice is Yours.

We hear you and we're trying to help!
