DeWitt sewer ordinance OK expected

VALLEY FARMS - The DeWitt Township Board will hold a public hearing next Monday evening on two proposed ordinances which would provide for the sale of bonds to finance the $298,000 sewer improvement system.

The ordinances are required for two separate legal reasons. One provides for the sale of $245,000 in bonds to pay two-thirds of the cost of the sewer plant and interceptor system and also covers the cost of condemnation of the original sewer line. The other ordinance is for special assessment bonds totaling $55,000, paying for 10 years. This covers the cost of condemned easements of the township, and the amount is about half of the total for the condemnation of the obsolete line.

FEDERAL FUNDS have already been offered and small only the amount needed for condemnation has been turned down.

DeWitt is presently using 200,000 to $150,000 of its $245,000 of Federal funds, according to Township Supervisor Pauline Blaisdell.

While keeping the house this week, on July 24, 1967, the Water Resources Conservancy of the Michigan Conservation Department issued a special agreement for condemnation against DeWitt Township ordering the township to exchange approximately 90 acres of prime farmland for the new plant.

Prices have been set in accordance of fees for condemnation, according to Township President Jim Greer. They are as follows: $2,000 for each acre, $3,000 in total for the condemnation, and $15,000 for the condemnation, and $15,000 for the condemnation. The condemnation of the land will be in accordance with the laws of the state of Michigan.

DeWitt sewer ordinance approved expected

He said the Clean Water Act requires all cities and towns to have an approved sewer ordinance before they can receive federal funds to help with sewer line construction. The DeWitt ordinance is expected to get similar approval. City Councilman Ronald M. Young said it is possible the ordinance could come to a vote at the next council meeting. Young said the ordinance would be 25 pages long.

The proposed plan would be subdivided into five phases. The first phase calls for an in-ground manhole at the Looking Glass River. It is an 80-foot site previously owned by the Clinton County Road Commission. The second phase is the process of transferring ownership to the city in 80-foot sections east of 8th Street to the west side where the sewer would end up. The proposed sewer system is already considered by many to be the best in the state. The new system would have enough capacity for the city’s needs for another 30 years, although the city must pay for the construction of the plant and interceptor line and is reapplying for another federal grant to help with the cost. The township has a federal grant offer for $275,000 to help in the construction of the plant and Interceptor line and is reapplying for another federal grant to help with the cost. It is sometimes necessary to decipher what a driver’s license does not necessarily mean that a person is a good driver. Yet we often fail to recognize the importance of this piece of identification.

A case in point is the license number which is issued to each driver in the United States. To qualify for it, these drivers are required to meet certain health standards concerning their vision and hearing. In the past, we have been too lenient in granting licenses to individuals who are unable to see or hear well.

However, it is now recognized that a driver’s license does not necessarily mean that a person is a good driver. Yet we often fail to recognize the importance of this piece of identification.

FARM DAILY OUTLOOK IS IMPROVING

"The outlook is for dairy farmers to adjust at a good as any type of farm enterprises and is ready better than usual," contends A. D. Bates, Michigan State University professor of agricultural economics.

The recent increases in prices for milk and milk products over the past couple of years have made the dairy farmer more prosperous, and he is using this money to buy more improved equipment. Dairy farmers are now purchasing new milk cooling tanks and other equipment that will help decrease the amount of milk spoilage.

"The dairy farmer management advisor states that we are likely to remain in the same line of trade over the next few years."

There's something about a lighthouse—it's appealing

Blending into lighthouses—three-sided, elevated structures of the shoreline—are the romantic enduring symbols of Michigan’s Great Lakes. They are a reminder of the maritime heritage of the state, where thousands of seamen have navigated the lakes and rivers.

The first lighthouse in Michigan was established in 1834 at Point Iroquois, located on the eastern tip of Michigan’s Lower Peninsula. This lighthouse was eventually replaced by the copper harbor light in 1836, which is still in operation today.

The Mackinac Point Lighthouse, established in 1855, is one of the most famous lighthouses in Michigan. It is located on Mackinac Island, which is accessible only by ferry. The lighthouse is open to the public and offers stunning views of the Straits of Mackinac.

Michigan has over 200 lighthouses, each with its own unique history and architecture. Some of the most famous ones include the Poe Light, the Whitefish Point Light, and the Old Presque Isle Lighthouse.

The lighthouses are not only important for navigation but also serve as symbols of Michigan’s history and culture. They are often the subject of poems, songs, and stories, and are a popular destination for tourists and nature lovers.

Michigan’s lighthouses are a testament to the state’s rich maritime heritage and continue to play a vital role in the safety of those who travel through Michigan’s waters.
SCD state tree plantings show good results

In the Clinton County Soil Conservation District, which is responsible for planting trees, the district has planted 1,000 trees each in the past two years. This has been a good result for the district and the area. The district has received many requests for trees and has been able to accommodate them.

In Michigan, the Cooperative Extension Service is working on tree plantings as well. The service is helping cooperators in the state with tree plantings and has been successful in many cases.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has also been active in tree planting. They have planted trees in various areas of the state and have seen good results.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has also been active in tree planting. They have planted trees in many areas of the state and have seen good results.

In conclusion, the state of Michigan has been successful in tree planting. The state has received many requests for trees and has been able to accommodate them. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Cooperative Extension Service, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have all been successful in tree planting.

Fall plowing is a triple-threat tool

Properly applied at the right time, it can do more good for your land than any other practice. First, it can help prevent erosion, which is a serious problem in many areas. It can also help reduce weeds, which can be a problem in many cases. Finally, it can help promote plant growth, which is important for many crops.

The key to successful fall plowing is applying it at the right time. If you wait too long, you may damage the soil or cause other problems. If you apply it too early, you may not get the results you want.

To be most effective, fall plowing should be done when the soil is moist and the air temperature is below freezing. This will help prevent erosion and promote plant growth.

Fall plowing can be done by many different methods, including disk plowing, moldboard plowing, and sub-soil plowing. Each method has its own advantages and disadvantages, so it's important to choose the one that is best for your situation.

In conclusion, fall plowing is an important tool for many farmers. It can help prevent erosion, reduce weeds, and promote plant growth. To be most effective, it should be done at the right time and using the right method.

Commercial farms increase rapidly in rural Michigan

Each day during the past few weeks, Michigan has been losing 7000 acres of farmland. The speed and scope of the agrarian migration is being accelerated by the market for milk. Small farms, unable to compete with large commercial farms, face a bleak future. The solution is to increase the size of the farms so that they can produce milk at competitive prices. This will require the development of new techniques and practices that will enable small farms to compete with large commercial farms.

New Purina's Calf Program brings you extra energy in milk at the time when she needs it most. Purina has developed New Calf Growena. This is a 16% protein ration that is coarse— the way young calves like a ration to be. It's fortified with essential minerals and vitamins. And the milk testing and artificial insemination results show that expenses and investment rates are few per cent less in the sections where the skills associated with these techniques are being used.

Farm expansion answers not easy

As we are making a major change in our farm operations, the farm market listed below will be sold to the highest bidder of the farm listed a 1/2 mile east of Williamson, Mich. on M-43 (just U.S. 12) or 1/12 miles west of Wayland on M-45.

LOW COST PRODUCTION...

In 1964 Ovid Roller Mills, Ltd., Ovid, Mich., as part of Manor Farm, Ltd., was established.

Patio/Floors, Walks and Drives. HMS reduces popping, dusting, and cracking and is the only product in the market that has ever been shown to be effective. The Skil-Craft process makes it possible to produce rolls of unlimited length, and the product has never been found to be inferior to that of any other manufacturer.

The agricultural economist, pointing to his rolls of unlimited length, said, "I don't see how anyone can beat this new product." The rolls are made of water-repellent materials that prevent the absorption of moisture, and the product has never been found to be inferior to that of any other manufacturer.

Not only was the quality of the new product superior, but the price was also lower than that of any other manufacturer. The economic advantage was so marked that it was decided to manufacture the product on a large scale.

While the trend toward narrower margins of net income continues to be a problem for many farmers, the situation should be improved by the introduction of this new product. The agricultural economist believes that this new product will play a major role in the economics of the industry in the future.

A chuckle or two

A man could say, "What's your plan?" and get a different response from each of the people he asks. Some would say, "Get a job," while others might answer, "Get a degree," or "Get a date." It all depends on the person and their circumstances.

Incitement pay

"By W. H. DODSON"

With skillful incitement tactics, D.C. leaders can stir the people. The incitement pay is a crucial element in D.C.'s political strategy.

In an editorial in The Washington Post, W. H. DODSON, who was a prominent Republican, wrote that "Incitement pay is the key to D.C.'s political success. It is a powerful tool that can be used to sway public opinion in favor of the Republican agenda."
Michigan's "hard core" unemployed are not in steady employment. They are not receiving the necessary guidance and counseling to improve their employability. The Michigan Mirror has reported that these individuals have been unemployed for long periods of time and are facing many challenges in finding stable employment. The use of a flexible program, based on individual needs and preferences, could help these individuals. The program should include guidance on job search, résumé writing, and interview skills, as well as access to job training and placement services. The position of "hard core" unemployed is not likely to improve unless there is a comprehensive approach to workforce development and support services.

How Many Straws Can He Take?

By STEVEN HOPKIN

The last long holiday vacation, this is the way the Labor Day weekend was "piloted." It was very easy if you remember to take a straw. When school was out and school was in again, the straw would give you more time to enjoy the last long holiday vacation. By this time I thought the straw was a straw from a boat and as I asked why he had taken it, he replied it was from the last long holiday vacation. He had given him a straw and he had used it as a straw to get more time to go to school and school was out again. The straw is a symbol of the last long holiday vacation.

Double or nothing dairy

There are many ways to expand dairy housing, but one of the most direct is to increase farms near Lancaster, Ohio, who have by merging. Farm Quarterly editor to expand his business. "One of the major problems in merging is that there is a shortage of capital, sometimes calls for capital, sometimes not, and sometimes a need for more capital." He states that a "double or nothing" approach can be successful. He also mentions that there are many ways to grow, such as increasing debt and of financing the construction to mold the combination. The brothers' parents, John and Mary, started in 1961 and now the goal is to increase their income through milk production while reducing per-unit costs. Results are shown in the form of greatly reduced labor and machinery costs, in spite of the economic conditions.
