Commission may ask fire chief to resign

ST. JOHN'S - Sparks flew again Monday night as 3 judges of City Council alloted time to discuss finances during the commission's regular meeting. Bill McEwen, chairman; Bob Nisbet and John R. Shafer, the other 2 members, flung words nearly as hot as the discussion at each other.

McEwen expressed concern about Nisbet's suggestion that the commission consider a motion to acknowledge a claim. "I think something more than that is necessary," the chairman said. "The suggestion is made so suddenly and it has nothing to do with the budget for the coming year."

City Manager Gary Weatherwax defended his intention to present a claim to the commission. "The claim is a result of the activities of the fire department," Weatherwax said. "It is not a budget item, but it is a legitimate expense." The discussion continued throughout the meeting.

Fire Chief Clare Maier requested about $2,000 for the repair of the fire station and the purchase of new equipment. The commission voted to present the matter to the City Council for consideration.

Other social issues included the appointment of a new fire chief, a discussion of the future of the fire department, and a vote to authorize the purchase of a new fire truck for the department. The commission also considered a motion to authorize the purchase of a new fire hose for the department, which was approved unanimously.

"My dream will be done," he explains while adding that he's proud of them for that.

"Opinions of the others" will be for the Redwings strong point this fall.

Like so many others on our list of honored citizens, Mrs. Richard Wells has dedicated herself behind the scenes by working on various needs of bodies personal and public nature. Perhaps only her closest associates know fully her sacrifices for the needs of others and her contributions for these unheralded efforts is without end. She has been a strong voice for community-wide awareness. We are pleased to recognize another concerned citizen; one who makes our community a more cheerful place in which to live.

Tribute to 4-H'ers

It's been said many times before that the 4-H program has a 4-H-ness to it that is hard to explain to anyone in this state. They've had several youngsters win state geography trips and state 4-H contests.

Many people merit commendation for this fine work with the 4-H program, but perhaps the most vocal of them all have been the mothers of the young 4-Hers. These women in the 4-H clubs have worked long and hard to bring about this success. And they have done it not only for their sons and daughters but for all the youngsters in the community.

An example of what 4-H can achieve in teaching youth the rewards of hard work was displayed last week at a banquet held for buyers at this year's livestock auction. Among those attending were several of the county's most prominent citizens and youngsters who will achieve similar distinction in future years.

John and all participants in Clinton County 4-H deserve a resounding tribute for a worthwhile endeavor, molding youth into solid, responsible citizens is a work that will be confronted.

We would dislike to see the proposed shopping center expanded into a city-owned shopping area andジェラルド・ケネディ, a knock-down, drag-out affair. These most directly involved are not the kind of people and certainly differences can be worked out.

The 4-H program is an excellent way to develop leadership among youth and to promote the rewards of hard work. It is a program that will be valuable in the future that we watched the Olympics moving away from us because we've been so absorbed with the real or supposed rewards of hard work at the price we paid for them. We appreciate the value of the 4-H program and wish to see it continued in its present form.

Negotiable spirit

There is seldom a move labeled "progress" that doesn't adversely affect at least a few people. So it is important that individuals and communities get into a compromising mood when instances of "progress" and "expansion" are to be confronted.

We would dislike to see the proposed shopping center expanded into a city-owned shopping area andジェラルド・ケネディ, a knock-down, drag-out affair. These most directly involved are not the kind of people and certainly differences can be worked out.

Good, bad and ugly

Last week we spent every evening glued in front of the television set watching the Olympics. AGE PROBLEM

WARREN E. DOSCHN

I've read a lot to be generous, and what I've read I've enjoyed. It's been a long time since I've had time to read, and I'm sure I'm a long way behind.

I have a few questions to ask you. If you're interested in a political issue, what are you interested in? Should we be pro-life or pro-choice? Should we be for or against education reform? What do you think is the best way to deal with the issue of gun control? Would you support stricter gun laws or do you think that the current laws are sufficient?

I've been interested in these issues for quite some time now, and I would appreciate your input on them. Thank you for your time and consideration.

An ounce of prevention

By Jennie J. Lohm, M.D. (Director of Community Health, Northwest Michigan Health Center, Kalkaska and高低)

We often hear this phrase, but what do we really mean when we speak of prevention? Are we talking about the importance of preventive measures in medicine, or are we referring to the idea of taking precautions to avoid a problem altogether? Prevention is a fundamental concept in public health, and it can be applied to various aspects of our lives. In the context of medicine, prevention involves taking steps to prevent the onset of diseases or injuries. This can include vaccinations, screenings, and lifestyle changes, such as maintaining a healthy diet and exercising regularly. Prevention is also a key component of community health programs, which aim to improve the overall health of a population by addressing the root causes of health problems. Whether it's preventing the spread of infectious diseases, promoting healthy behaviors, or providing access to health care, prevention is essential for maintaining a healthy and sustainable society. In short, prevention is about taking action to keep problems from happening in the first place, which can save time, money, and lives in the long run.
Economic Stabilization

Q. Are rental prices rising faster than the cost of living? Many landlords say yes. And many tenants say no. Although producers do not hoard goods and landlords do not hoard space, the two pictures are exact, both in intent and effect, the economist says. "We are in a program of stabilization," he adds. Mr. H. J. Stein, the economist, says that the prices of housing are subject to controls.

Mr. Stein announced today a decrease in prices of 0.15 per cent. He said that the decrease was not due to a change in the price level, but was due to a change in the price of the lease.

Questions and Answers

No, the failure of the lease was not due to the fact that the tenant did not wish to rent the lease. The lease is for a period of three months from the date of the announcement of the lease. That date is the same as the day the lease was announced. The lease is for a period of three months from the date the lease was announced. The lease is for a period of three months from the date the lease was announced.

In general, a landlord’s right to increase the rent of a lease is subject to the condition that he shall not be entitled to them unless there is an increase of the rent as required by the lease. This condition is not satisfied unless there is an increase of the rent as required by the lease.

Do a manufacturer have the right to raise prices just to improve their profit margin? No. Profitability gains are only one of the many factors that go into a price increase. Productivity gains and cost increases are also important. A price increase may be required to cover a period of cost increases, even though the profit margin may not be increased.

Can a manufacturer raise prices on the basis of anticipated cost increases? No. In general, a manufacturer’s right to increase the rent of a lease is subject to the condition that the increase shall not exceed the increase as required by the lease. This condition is not satisfied unless there is an increase of the rent as required by the lease.

Lighthouses warn sailors and attract sightseers.

Michigan owns and operates almost all of the 175 lighthouses. One is in the Lake Superior area and the rest are on the Great Lakes. A few small lighthouses are operated by the U.S. Coast Guard in Wisconsin and Ohio. Michigan also has a few lighthouses on the shores of Lake Huron.

Lighthouses are not purchased at auction. They are owned by the state and are maintained by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The lighthouses are watched over by the Coast Guard and state officials.

The entire Great Lakes are in the world, and there are several lighthouses along the Great Lakes shoreline. Michigan was Fort Gratiot, a U.S. Army fort built in 1847, its circular, metal tower. A tew miles north is a clock of Midland, which is still in operation.

The first lighthouse in Michigan was Fort Gratiot, located on the shore of Saginaw Bay. It was built in 1858, and shipwrecks were common in the area. The lighthouse is now owned by the state and is open to the public.

Each lighthouse is unique, but all can be viewed, at least from a distance. They are Stannard Rock, Little Sable, south of the 45th parallel, and Point Betsie, north of Traverse City. Now in its seventh season, the Point Betsie Lighthouse is privately owned.

Saginaw Bay converge, is 17 miles. Old Presque Isle Lighthouse, Michigan was Fort Gratiot, a U.S. Army fort built in 1847, its circular, metal tower. A tew miles north is a clock of Midland, which is still in operation.
