School cuts in Bath?

By RON KARLE

Both school board officials and teachers make and break the argument on the need for the suburban enrollment by 25 percent.

The battle over educational spending has been as intense as state-wide action which has been widely reported and discussed. Bath's school district has experienced some growth, but utilization rates have increased in other areas.

As increased tuition has been an issue in other communities, Bath has been discussing the need for full funding for its educational system. The resulting action has been the same in other districts.

A board member noted that last year's budget was $2.5 million, but this year's budget is only 10 percent higher, or $2.7 million. A variance of $180,000 is the result of increased state funding.

The teachers present were asked to determine the needs in the area. The board member noted that not all the money was spent on educational needs, and that the result was a variance of $180,000.

A variance of $180,000 could be spent on educational needs, and that the result was a variance of $180,000.

KELLEY REVIEWS LAW ON REFLECTORIZED PLATES

BY FRANK J. KELLEY
Attorney General

Editors' Note: This is a public service article explaining the new Michigan law requiring all motor vehicle license plates to be reflectorized or retroreflective, effective September 1, 1969. The Michigan legislature enacted this new law with the aim of making Michigan's roads safer through the use of reflective materials designed to improve the visibility of vehicles and motorists.

This type of ride will appeal to many others as they will strive to meet their goals, which are to return home, and to reach Goose Creek until they are ready to return home.

The 1969 law required that all new motor vehicles be available with reflectorization. The law also states that any motor vehicle that has been in service for more than five years and has not been reflectorized must be reflectorized within one year of its registration.

The Michigan legislature enacted this new law with the aim of making Michigan's roads safer through the use of reflective materials designed to improve the visibility of vehicles and motorists.
Clintondale School is a part of the Clinton County School District. It is located on the north side of the city and is surrounded by Clerk Park, a large city park.

The school has a population of approximately 500 students. It offers a comprehensive curriculum that includes courses in English, math, science, social studies, and the arts. Students are encouraged to participate in extracurricular activities such as sports, music, and theater.

The school has a strong focus on community involvement. It partners with local businesses and organizations to provide opportunities for students to learn and grow outside the classroom. The school also hosts events throughout the year to bring the community together.

Clintondale School is proud to be a part of the Clinton County School District and continues to strive to provide a quality education for all students.

Edna Flegler makes life a little smoother

By JANE MORRISS

It is most important that the receptionist be a good listener, especially when someone calls up with a complaint," says Mrs. Edna Flegler. "If I am a good listener, I may be able to help the person in some way."

Flegler is a secretary at St. Johns High School and has served four principals.

For 18 years, she has been the phone, takes calls of the school, knows where to send the caller, and answers the questions before sending the caller on to where he wants to go.

When asked about her accomplishments, she simply shrugs her shoulders.

"Mrs. Flegler thinks students have chances," adds Dean MacKinnon. "Kids aren't all the same, she works well with the various types."

Flegler has been a member of the St. Johns High School PTA and has served as the president of the PTA.

"I have been a part of the school for 33 years," says Flegler. "I have seen many changes, but I think that the changes have been for the better."

When asked if she has any advice for other receptionists, Flegler says, "Always listen carefully to the caller, answer their questions, and try to help them in any way you can."

"Two winter barley types recommended

Michigan and Huron are either hurricane or winter barley types

recommended for southern barley

varieties by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station or

the Huron Agricultural Research

Station. These winter types are now being tested in the winter

 barley trials at both locations.

The Huron variety, known as

Huron 71, is a dark red, mid-

maturity type with a strong

growth habit and good winter

hardiness. Huron 71 has been tested in the winter hardiness

trials at both the Huron and

Michigan stations, and has not

shown any signs of frost injury

or death in the winter hardiness

trials.

The Michigan variety, known as

Michigan 69, is a light red, early-
maturity type with a strong

growth habit and good winter

hardiness. Michigan 69 has been

tested in the winter hardiness

trials at both the Huron and

Michigan stations, and has not

shown any signs of frost injury

Redwings stomp Mason

Durner, Green, Silm explode in 33-28 victory

BY BOB KATTLE

Redshirt freshman quarterback Jeff Smith, 5-11, 170, was on the run in three out of the five quarters as Mason's defense had no answer for his elusiveness. Smith completed 9 of 15 passes for 171 yards, five first downs and his two touchdowns to lead the Redwings to a 33-28 victory over Mason.

The victory was especially sweet because Mason had blanked St. Johns in the previous week. The Redwings were on the verge of their second straight winning streak.

Platte River Hatchery

turned over to state

The most efficient and fool-proof fish hatchery ever built in Michigan, the Platte River Streamed Fish Hatchery near Honor, officially became a state property this week, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

The hatchery, to go through an estimated $2.2 million first phase of a three-phase $6 million project, will be the DNR's "newest wonder" for years to come. It replaced older facilities and "will be the envy of all other hatcheries," DNR commissioner Jerry T. Durling said.

For years, the hatchery has featured 12 batteries of fiberglass incubators through which these fish-embryo--continuing until next fall, partly for budgetary reasons, which are so crucial during the spawn. It is sensitive to minor temperature changes and mechanical failures in time to prevent fish losses.

The hatchery's "support" facilities, including water treatment, power generation, building construction, and other streamlined devices, have been in place for years. The water treatment tank alone has 12,000 cubic feet of storage capacity.

The hatchery is also equipped with 1200 square feet of water flows and other rearing nurseries, raceways, and other streamlined devices. Thus, the hatchery has been an "envy" of all other hatcheries for years. It will continue to also supervise operations at Harrietta, the hatchery program, notes:

"We have, in this new plant, the most sophisticated system of equipment available to provide the most efficient and streamlined devices, which are as crucial during the hatchery as they are during the hatchery's "support" facilities.

The challenges, the benefits and some of the pitfalls of production farming are covered in the new film "Production Records: Your Biggest Advantage." The film is expected to be in big demand because of its practical advice about how to increase meat production, considering the fact that about one in every 18 families in this nation is a producer. Boys working during August helped dry hay production. The State Department of Agriculture is equipped with the "Hay Accumulator" at a cost of $25 per bale larger than 4 feet wide. The "Hay Accumulator" consists of a crate of 15, 12 by 14-inch, metal, net bags, and 100 steel nails. The Catching hay by hand is less accurate, 25 per cent slower than the Hay Accumulator. A good operator can load 40 bales per hour at an efficiency of 25 bales per hour. Some farmers estimate that the Hay Accumulator has reduced baling costs by 70 per cent. Hay is texturized into a thin, close, shaggy, almost leaf-like substance. Hay spreaders are reported to the Hay Accumulator. The Hay Accumulator is a real pro with today's fabrics, it certainly does this, but rather to attend to the heat in the bale. It is expected that the State Department of Agriculture will continue to produce hay during the haymaking season. The Michigan Certified and Registered Dairy Herdbook, which has been published annually since 1936, is aimed at quality and production. The book, which contains breeding information on thousands of dairy cows, is a valuable resource for farmers and dairy professionals.

Holstein production credits

- Lifetime milk and butterfat production levels for registered Holstein cows in this area have been consistently high due to the emphasis on quality and production.
- The National Holstein Association of America has developed standards and guidelines to ensure the quality and production of Holstein cattle in the United States.
- These standards and guidelines are monitored by the National Dairy genetic evaluation programs.
- The National Dairy genetic evaluation programs are recognized by the Holstein Association and the National Holstein Association of America.

Wheat allotment down

The wheat allotment for the 1970 national wheat allotment is down due to fluctuating market conditions and the impact of government programs.

Farm storage loans available

Farmers are encouraged to take advantage of the available farm storage loans to store their crops properly and maximize profits.

WATERWAY FIGHTS EROSION

This recently constructed grass waterway on Ray Warner's farm in Oakland County is designed to reduce erosion and improve water quality in the watershed.

Autumn

Easy rising does not need the calendar to tell them that autumn is here. The official date of the arrival is September 23, but long before that, a rich, crisp perfume and the smoke-scented air and the hint of cold, on foliage and trees heralded their arrival.

The leaves of autumn known as Indian Summer have been waning. There is something about the fall that easily identifiable with quiet woodland paths, the breeze that makes me anxious to light the treads of wildlife and the mossy-bellied Indian.

This is the vision of Aimeron that so many of us would like to have as nearly as possible. Perhaps the trend toward increased interest in forest trails and wilder, more remote places will bring deeper concern over the litter problem.

There is little which destroys the natural beauty of a scene more quickly than traces of man’s refuse.

Con racket

Door-to-door swaying may not be something new, but there always seems to be a fresh angle to add interest to the con-game game.

The latest is an approach whereby the conman would represent himself as a representative of an electric company who is out to change old meters, as possible. Perhaps the trend toward increased concern from citizens for the purpose of viewing and protecting the meter. However, the conman would not change old meters, but would change the new ones.

The Joint county-ship of the state of New York, known as the Electric Power Company, has adopted a plan by which the conman would not change old meters, but would change the new ones.

As everyone knows, school finance is one of the most pressing issues facing our state. It is crucial that we fully fund Michigan's schools the legislature intended and expected to pay over last year. Fully funding schools is essential to providing our children with the education they deserve.

Unfortunately, despite the legislature's intention, the State Department of Education has not provided the full funding necessary to meet the needs of Michigan's schools. In fact, the department has repeatedly delayed the release of the annual State School Aid bill, which is responsible for funding our schools.

This delay is caused by the Department of Education's failure to adjust funding levels for inflation and rising costs. As a result, many local school districts are left wondering where they will find the funds to provide a quality education for their students.

The state legislature should not be permitted to shortchange our schools. We need to hold our elected officials accountable for their actions and demand that they fulfill their commitment to providing our children with the education they need to succeed.

In conclusion, failing to fully fund our schools is not just a matter of dollars and cents. It is about the future of our state and the opportunities we are providing to our children. We must work together to ensure that our schools are adequately funded and that every child has access to a quality education.

This is the way it's going to be, Pontiac's 70's

Surtce? Pontiac's setting the style for the summer months ahead.

But you may be a bit dizzled to find out that Pontiac finally has a got-and-goin' sport car with the looks of a '68 Dodge Dart and the dynamic performance of a '68 Mustang.

Talke Bonneville. From the strong, new bumper grill to the distinctive bonnet, it's a MUSTANG for the '68 Pontiac. A real talking piece, this colt is the harbinger of some of the traditional Pontiacs you've known and loved.

One of the noblest things we could have done for Pontiac was to leave 20 wares. We did. But we prepared it a 455 V8 with a 3-barrel carb and a four-speed. 1968 Pontiac. It's got power! It's got fire! It's Pontiac! Of course, we haven't seen the '68 Pontiac yet. But we know it has to be good. We're sure it will be a hit.
