Suggested energy plan not the answer, but another step

With the state's energy crisis ongoing, city officials are considering a suggestion from one group to form a citizens' energy planning advisory committee. Hail new book on cancer

Clinton County Cancer Society officials are hailing as an important weapon in saving lives a newly revised book about cancer which is available in local lib-are and book stores. The book, entitled "The New Black Book About Cancer," was published three years ago in the U.S. under the auspices of the American Cancer Society and has been reprinted and distributed to several thousand libraries throughout the world.

Heidi Marble, chairwoman of the Clinton County chapter of the American Cancer Society, said the book is "a must-read" for everyone, regardless of age or sex, who wants to better understand the disease, its causes, treatments and symptoms.

"This book is an important guide for anyone who wants to know more about cancer," Marble said. "It is a valuable resource for individuals and families who are dealing with the disease, as well as for those who are just learning about it."

The book, which is available at local libraries and bookstores, provides information on the causes of cancer, symptoms to watch for, and treatment options for various types of the illness. It also includes statistics on the incidence and prevalence of cancer and information on how to reduce the risk of developing the disease.

In addition to the revised version of the book, the Clinton County Cancer Society is also offering a new program to help people struggling with cancer. The program, called "Cancer Connections," provides support and resources to individuals and families who are dealing with the disease.

"We want to help people who are facing cancer feel less alone and less afraid," Marble said. "Our goal is to provide support and resources to help them navigate the cancer journey."

The Clinton County Cancer Society is located at 901 W. Main St., St. Johns, Michigan. For more information, call 989-924-5243 or visit www.clintoncountycancer.org.

Bloodmobile turn-out ‘disappointing’

Officials at the Red Cross were somewhat disappointed Tuesday when only 34 pints of blood donated at Ovid. Mrs. Eleanor Thorne of St. Johns donated her 40th pint of blood. The drive was sponsored by the St. Johns Elks Lodge.

Robert D. Thomas, chairman of the Red Cross in Clinton County, said the drive was a disappointment and blamed the weather for it.

He said he was somewhat surprised at the turn-out when he and his associates arrived at Ovid. He said the Red Cross officials were preparing for a large turnout.

He also said the drive was much smaller than originally expected.

No acreage restrictions on 1968-crop sugar beets

The United States Department of Agriculture announced that restrictions on acreage planted to sugar beets for 1968 will not be imposed. The new decision was reported by Agriculture Secretary John W. Ehrlichman in a federal court action. The court action involved a petition for a temporary restraining order to prohibit acreage restrictions for 1968. The court ruled in favor of the government, which sought to impose acreage restrictions. The decision by the court was overturned by the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals, which ruled that the acreage restrictions were consistent with federal law.

The 1968 acreage limitations were established for the 1968-crop sugar beets. In 1967, the acreage set was 290,000 acres. In 1968, the acreage set was 310,000 acres.

The acreage restrictions were justified as necessary to control the beet disease. However, the court ruled that the restrictions were not consistent with the federal law, which allows producers to plant the crop without restrictions.

The decision by the court is a significant victory for the sugar beet producers, who have been opposed to the acreage restrictions. The restrictions were typically used to control the beet disease, which can cause significant damage to the crop. The decision by the court clears the way for sugar beet producers to plant the crop without restrictions.

FARM LABOR MOVEMENT STUDY WINS AWARD

"Here you go, keep 'em down on the farm," was a popular song during World War II. "It's a new farm law," the farm community has been saying for the past several years. The farm labor movement study award is named for the late Dr. John W. Ehrlichman, who was a member of the Department of Agriculture. The study was conducted by the Department of Agriculture and was designed to assist farmers in the management of their farms.

The study award was named for Dr. Ehrlichman because he was a strong advocate for the farm labor movement. He believed that the farm labor movement was necessary to ensure that farmers could continue to produce food for the population.

URGE BOTH POP-UP, broadcast fertilizing

A combination of fall fertilization and pop-up fertilizing in the spring can help a farmer achieve more efficient use of his fertilizer money. A report based on University of Michigan research on this subject was published recently.

A broadcast application of fertilizer in the fall is effective in helping control weed seedlings and giving some protection against winter injury.

It always seems that summer has barely started when someone smashes "fall" in the air. Many people hate to see the leaves begin to turn. But, if they look around them when fall is in "full blossom," they will find that they are in a picture. Something to look forward to!"

Path to true peace lies ahead

By A. Russell Wodeyll

In today's world the title 'peace' no longer means merely the absence of war. Peace is both a goal and a condition in which every individual, every nation, every organization has a right to exist and be free to pursue its just ends.

In the year 1967, peace as a goal is of even greater importance than ever. The world is passing through a period of great change and turmoil. Technological advances and the spread of information have brought about a new dimension in human relations. The gap between the haves and the have-nots is growing wider. The world is faced with a number of pressing problems, ranging from nuclear weapons to poverty and hunger.

It is imperative that we approach these problems with a new perspective. Peace must be seen as a dynamic process, not just a static state. It is not something that can be achieved overnight, but rather a continuous effort that requires the cooperation of all nations.

The world is not yet ready for peace. We must work towards a world government, where all nations can work together for the common good. The world needs a leader who can bring about peace and unity.

The path to true peace lies ahead. With the right approach and determination, we can achieve a world of peace and prosperity.
