The school year of 1968-69 was another period of growth for the St. Johns Public Schools. The total enrollment rose by 303 from 1,936 in 1967-68 to 2,239 for the 1968-69 year. Because of the fact that four new Elementary Schools were opened the old School at the north end of town was closed and reorganized as a High School. A new High School building was completed and a large wing was added to the old School building. The new building was designed to accommodate the growing pupil enrollment. The operating deficit of $87,532 on June 9, 1969, was the lowest in the history of the school district.

By BOB KARLE

"They're a good team," said Bath's coach. "Ron's (Skorich) a good coach." "If we keep our momentum up we'll be all right." Ron Karp was also of the opinion that his team was a good team. "It's a matter of how well we play," he said. "If we play good, we'll be good." The Fighting Bees had just added another touchdown in the first half. They were ahead 14-0. In the second quarter, they piled on 16 points in the first half. Rod Loynes picked up a 20-yard gain and then scored from the one-yard line. The O-E JV's meet Bullock County League tomorrow night. After a scoreless first period, the game was marked by frequent turnovers. Both teams lost the ball and the score remained 0-0. On the very next play Yellowjackets quarterback Tom Cooley rambled around his 7-yard line and then intercepted a pass in the end zone. The Pirates went on to score three points on a field goal. On the next play with about 5 minutes left in the third quarter, Botke hit end Don Brown for a 4-yard gain and then scored from the one-yard line. The Pirates are now 2-0 in the league. Michigan fishermen to get free salmon

Michigan fishermen are urged to help their sport by reporting the number and size of steelhead on which they hook and catch during the 1969 spawning season. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has set 5 ppm as a limit for DDT in salmon and other fish to maintain fishing success.

Michigan DNR's latest statistical survey is planned to help fishermen and enthusiasts to better manage their harvest. The state's salmon and trout fishing is based on the stepped-up attention we are giving to fish, according to reports it will have the highest success rate.

Reports sought on tagged fish

Nine Fowler bear hunters who called themselves "glorified coon hunters" tagged this big fellow earlier this month in Gogebic County. His opening day of the season, the bear, weighing about 250 pounds, was shot by Edward Babick and Stanley Thelen, a veteran bear hunter recently from Wisconsin. They used a 12-gauge shotgun and a 32-gauge rifle. Shown with their trophy, from left, are David Ross, Gerald Bemis, Elwood Reaume, Barry Sillman, Leroy Schaefer, Edmund Reaume and Chucky Thelen. Also in the party were Walter Williams and Larry Thelen.

The photo was made available to the News by Elwood Reaume.

Sturgeon creel count

in Menominee River

Fish biologists for the Michigan and Wisconsin Departments of Natural Resources have begun creel counts on sturgeon harvests in the Menominee River for the first time this summer. The sturgeon in the Menominee is the largest and most valuable fish of the Great Lakes.

The sturgeon creel count is the first step in a series of experiments designed to study the sturgeon's growth and survival in the Menominee River. The sturgeon is being monitored by U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, and the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

When an Apollo spacecraft lights up, blazes and booms, the excitement blurs, and the tension mounts. Just where there was once a St. Johns family where aerospace in space was taught as person-to-person interaction.

In fact, the Brandon C. White, Jr. family probably told each other theexcitement experienced by space program workers. The White's father is an engineer with the Boeing Aerospace Co. and has been assigned to the Apollo program at the Kennedy Space Center.

White is a dedicated engineer and has been involved in the airplane program to almost, playing an almost infectious enthusiasm in the moonshot program. Disperses in the spacecraft, "White added, "are the people involved to a keen edge.

"We went through everything," explained Brandon C. White Jr., "so we knew about the process. It's the responsibility was to assemble, train on critical areas of the spacecraft pointing out to get the bird in the air, and to have it do designed, but in the end it's up to the man to make mistakes.

"You just don't make mistakes in the race to the moon. And here is the jubilation experienced by those parts and all those people since 1965 has been stationed at Cape Kennedy. White's father is an engineer with the Boeing Aerospace program.

"AND IF YOU CHAT WITH THE SENIOR WHITE, for instance, you'll see a glint in his eye. You'll hear about his love for his work with astronauts.

Almost everything you do during countdown periods. "It's a matter of the process, to be a successful launch."

White explained that when the spacecraft is one hundred thousand miles out, it is composed to get a bird in the air. The second you see the light, you're a witness to the point of lift-off.

"Everyone who is involved is a part of the crew, but it's still the man who makes the difference. The RP1, liquid oxygen and hydrogen and other fuels are pressured into their respective tanks; a process literally changes the course of history. The Idaho families have ties in space work mementos shown to them by their grandfather, Brandon C. White Jr., his son, Brandon, Michele and Mark.

White and his wife have spent several days in St. Johns with their son and his family, for the area of inner space was very attractive to the children. If they are working in space, he should be able to identify with a young, growing industry that is so far ahead of them. He did add with a smile, however, "That experience is on the side of the long-time engineer."

"FOR THOSE MONTHS you noticeably wear down," White explained, "not years, but it's a real job. Almost everything you do during this time becomes automatic and the mental and physical strain is hard to explain, but with all this stress and all these people the right decision is always made. You don't have time to argue and wrong decisions you just don't make.

The elder White is a management engineer with Boeing and since 1965 has been stationed at Kennedy Space Center. From there he returned to Washington. However, he did not know his assignment until he was shipped out to Cape Kennedy.

"We paid tribute to modern industry to reach another peak which ultimately led to the success of early automatic transmissions in automobiles."

"The job of Cape Kennedy is to get the bird in the air, and once it's there Houston takes over," White explained that when the spacecraft is one hundred thousand miles out, it is composed to get a bird in the air.

"Well, there's a lot of work to do, but you can't argue and wrong decisions you just don't make in that celebration party."

White explained that the booms and blazes that are often seen and the sound of the rocket engines are used to transmit pictures of the launch. "Basically, it's all the other things that are going on, but the second you see the light, you know it's going to be a successful launch.

Having a grandfather working on a program which literally changed the course of history earned him a reminder for the White grandparents. Brandon, 11, Mark, 9 and Michele, 7, totally remain set unmoved by the excitement surrounding the program.

CROP battles starvation

Nearly 300,000 people on 60 farms in the Central Illinois area are facing a critical food situation this year, according to the Illinois State Department of Agriculture. The problem is caused by the severe drought conditions that have prevailed in the area for the past few months.

The Illinois Department of Agriculture is working closely with the USDA to develop a plan for alleviating the food shortage. The plan includes the establishment of emergency food banks in the affected areas, the distribution of emergency food aid to individual farmers, and the provision of technical assistance to help farmers increase their crop yields.

In addition, the USDA is providing funding to help establish community food banks in the affected areas. These food banks will provide emergency food assistance to farmers who are unable to purchase food due to the drought conditions.

The Illinois State Department of Agriculture is also working with local governments to develop plans for providing food assistance to farmers who are affected by the drought. The department is encouraging local governments to establish food banks and distribute emergency food aid to individual farmers.

4-H Club Chatter

JOHN ATWOOD - Wednesday, Oct 8, Truck Agent

4-H Club throughout the county will be competing soon for the junior tractor program. The winners will be entered into the National Tractor Contest Oct. 25, with the winner there going on to the Illinois State Fair. At that point we are not sure about the Illinois State Fair. The contest will be held in the near future.

Elise youth a finalist in 4-H tractor contest

A 14-year-old youth from Elkton was named a finalist in the Junior 4-H tractor contest at the National 4-H Congress, Dec. 1 in St. Louis. Elise Ray, who lives in Elkton, was named a finalist by a panel of judges at the annual Eastern U.S. 4-H Tractor Operators' Contest. The Eastern U.S. 4-H Tractor Operators' Contest was the beginning of a national contest for junior tractor operators.

Elise is a member of the Elkton 4-H Club. She is currently in the 8th grade at Elkton High School. She has been involved in 4-H for four years. Her favorite project is the tractor program. She has been involved in other projects such as shooting sports, culinary, and sewing.

Elise is the daughter of Michael and Susan Ray. She has two sisters, Marissa and Mollie.

4-H girls learn to manage time

More and more homemakers are finding themselves in the kitchen, working long hours. Often, the only time they have to work on projects is after dinner. But with some planning and organization, they can manage their time effectively.

One of last year's national winners, Karen Taylor, of the DeWitt Co-op, took part in the DeWitt Co-op's Junior Livestock and Home Demonstration Program, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and The American Association of University Women. She spent many hours working with her livestock and home demonstration projects.

Many of the new 4-H girls are finding that managing their time is not as difficult as they thought it would be. They are finding that they can fit in time for their projects by setting aside specific times in their schedules.

The 4-H tractor program has taught Elise the importance of time management and how to use it effectively.

Central events included a 4-H show, where participants could exhibit their skills and take part in various activities such as driving, mechanics, and tool construction. The winners were announced at a ceremony later that day.

"What's in the cup, Granddad?"

Not many bother to answer the question, but it's a good one to ask. And usually we can count on Granddad.

"What was in the Cup at church this morning?" It's a question many people ask ... people usually wanting to know its significance. . . . people who have to regret, (if we oops it out loud) Thelma ... Thelma ... people older and wiser than us.

"Why won't I drink The Cup, like you and all the others, Granddad?"

"You're a little young, Steve. It's one of the important things in life ... a part of growing up!

"What does it mean, Granddad?"

"It means remembering ... remembering what God gave us ... what Christ did for us ... what The Church is to us. It means being truly sorry that we have failed to do our very best.

"I don't understand, Granddad!"

"You will. That's why we all go to church ... to learn ... to understand ... to remember ... to love our Lord."

"Maybe I do understand, Granddad, about The Cup — because I already love this land."

How taxes affect food processing

A look at how state and local taxes affect food processing and grain is provided in a new 58-page report entitled "The Michigan Department of Agriculture and Markets' report does not contrast "Forno ...xiovt," it is a plenty. To the person persecuted by the youth group of the national man looks at it as a place of so much meaning! It would take America. The pamphlet sells for 75 cents a new high, were reported at Gross receipts of $8,933.85, 1970 Oldsmobile is a 455-cu.-in. V-8. A high output engine option, state treasury, will not be known more than a day was needed. A committee of the Michigan Department of Education and the Michigan Department of Public Health has been established. A program to give every ninth grade student a copy of the new Michigan history book "From the West to the Far East" was established. This year's auction of the National Board of Education, 7th graders and 10th graders, and in all other subjects. An interesting item in the report is that the vast majority of American families and the small town is the home of the family by ability, not ability. e.g. All people are not created equal. Each person has a unique set of abilities and strengths. At the Michigan Department of Public Health, the Department of Public Health, the Department of Public Health, and the Department of Public Health. The report does not contrast...

City, school talks

The St. Johns city commission and St. Johns school board for some time had been involved in a controversy apparently designed to serve a two-fold purpose. In several of the school board's deliberations, a somewhat broad educational facility, extended an offer for a long-term lease on the high school building and athletic field at the park. The offer, with apparent intent to aid the city's budget, was called for an opportunity to work with both city and school sponsored groups which would be directed toward improvement in the area. As confusion continued to be expressed that the proposal was at least acceptable to both sides and the general inference could be made that ultimately an agreement would be reached.

Then, last week the city commission rejected the proposal an action which has. in this writer's opinion, the loss of interest on the part of either group to completely discontinue. It would be most advisable if any group believes to be the source of misunderstanding and ill feelings.

We at Clinton County News are no exception. We are proud to be part of the group; to be serving a growing area in the progressive heart of mid-Michigan.

But along with this pride goes a deep sense of obligation for adherence to the principles of journalism and a commitment to public service. We recognize our responsibility to pursue truth and accuracy in our news and advertising columns and we're aware that our critical editorials must be supported with a willingness to cooperate toward the completion of projects beneficial to the entire area we serve.

We recognize, too, that the vibration of an expanding community gives rise to conflicting interests and issues in turn often nurture a degree of discord. It is during these times when we must temper our convictions with objectivity; be sincere in our reporting and strive to fill the role of a cohesive community writing for the community in general but interest in particular. This may sound idealistic. It's intended to. There are few worthwhile achievements in the history of mankind that were not negotiated and battled in an ideal and while some may never feel our goals are attained there will be few who can deny the effect of our efforts.

However, there is another side of the newspaper which is supported on a more realistic foundation. As in any profit-oriented enterprise the newspaper must operate within the framework of sound business practices and continuous financial transactions of a business are maintained. Advertising and subscription sales are the main sources of a newspaper's income and it is in these areas the realities of the business world must be recognized.

No major stories of interest (and some minor ones, too) newspapers have picked a week to draw attention to their existence. It's a time when they can herald the rule they play in this great nation and, from the glints of the industry to the middle, each group is at task of taking advantage of the occasion.

We at Clinton County News are no exception. We are proud to be part of the group; to be serving a growing area in the progressive heart of mid-Michigan.

The way we figure it, not enough if you aren't getting the highest possible earnings and free checking, too.

But take our 5% Golden Passbook. We'll compound 5% continuously for an effective annual rate of 5.15%. And that's the highest bank rate you'll find for free checking, too.

You also get a free checking account—one that doesn't require a minimum balance. This alone can save you $20, maybe even $30 or more, each and every month.

Open your Gold Passbook account with as little as $500. Add in all amounts as small as $50. And withdraw any funds on deposit, any time, for any reason, more, or whenever you want.

And with what you can save on checking charges, plus what you may when 5% is continuously compounded, it adds up to a sizeable return on your money.

Stop by and let us do something for your money. Today.
'Last call' issued for service schools

Third District Congressional Clerk Brown has announced that he will take the next steps in his proposal to issue 'last call' notices for service schools at a particular Academy. Normally, candidates who qualify for an Academy achieve a SAT score of at least 700, but those who do not qualify are also given an opportunity to which nominated, are offered a special service which might help them obtain an education. Again this year, Congressman Brown intends to employ the advice and counsel of a District Congressional Clerk and the State Highway Department to nominate 10 candidates to the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut, for service schools.
