Are you getting help from Extension?

Last week I briefly discussed the benefits and philosophy of the Michigan State University Extension Service. This week, I would like to talk about the services that are available for farmers, homemakers, parents, and others who wish to enhance their knowledge and skills. In Westphalia, the Village of Westphalia has an ordinance that provides for the establishment and maintenance of a program to promote educational needs each agent can equip them to help people meet many traditional areas of agriculture. Homemaking educational needs can also be met. Local managers can help with this and make sure it is done correctly.

We can make it happen during 4-H Week

With the many problems we face as a nation, it is refreshing to see our young people working and willing to help bring about solutions to these pressing concerns. Enthusiasm and optimism has been better by an 18-month period before Aug 1 have until Aug 1 to apply for low-cost insurance.

Youthful exuberance, combined with the guidance and experience of adults provides an unbeatable combination. The results of that cooperation are evident in the 4-H program.

We salute the combative efforts of 4-H'ers and their leaders "to make the best better" on the occasion of 1974 National 4-H Week, October 1-7.

The theme of the annual observance is "We Can Make It Happen." Those five words emphasize the commitment and cooperation of nearly 3.5 million youth and 56,000 volunteer leaders working together to solve common problems. With their enthusiasm and energy, in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and Washington, DC, 4-H'ers from all economic, ethnic and social backgrounds are helping clean-up and protect the environment and natural resources.

The youths work to conserve energy, assist in agricultural production, and improve health and nutrition habits of the community. In the process, the 4-H'ers develop good citizenship and leadership traits and acquire skills that will help them in later life.

Youthful enthusiasm and energy, combined with adult guidance and support and working together in a common purpose—the 4-H story in 1974. And we support the efforts of 4-H'ers, their parents, their leaders and alumni "to make the best better."

And we would encourage our younger readers who have plenty of enthusiasm and our adult readers who may wish to volunteer their time and talents to "make the best better" and help fill the information on 4-H programs and activities in the area can be obtained from the county extension service office or state 4-H office.

"If It Fitz . . ."

It's for my own good

By Jim Fitzgerald

And I don't remember where the old saying originated but it is certainly a truth that if it suits your purpose, you can use it to your benefit. I know that I do it all the time. I have a lot of things that I would like to do but I don't have the time to do them. So I just put them on my "to do" list and forget about them.

One of the things that I have been trying to do for a long time is to get my garage organized. I have a lot of stuff in there that I need to get rid of but I just don't have the time to go through it all. So I just put it on my "to do" list and forget about it.

Another thing that I have been trying to do is to get my finances in order. I have a lot of bills to pay but I just don't have the time to go through them all. So I just put it on my "to do" list and forget about it.

But the thing is, if I don't do it, I will always have it on my "to do" list. So I might as well do it now and get it over with. It's just too tempting to leave it there all the time.

So, if you have something that you have been meaning to do but you just don't have the time, just do it now. It's better to do it now than to have it on your "to do" list forever.
Farmers determine environment

BY CLEON PRICE, M.D.
Director of Public Health

Within the United States are a myriad of agricultural lands. Unlike other products growing in the nation's fields, beneficial and harmful practices can directly influence the lives of the people living in the surrounding communities. Away from the city, the way farmers work determines the existence of wildlife and even the health of people in the area. For example, farmers determine the habitat of wildlife. If harmful practices are used, the potential effects on the people can be severe. This article will outline some of the ways farmers can contribute to the health and welfare of all who live in the local area.

If Fire Strikes...

Seconds count! Your house is on fire! Have you taken the time to make your family fire safe?

Develop a Home Escape Plan. Hold a practice fire drill. Then continue to practice until each member of the family knows exactly what to do. Your local fire station will be glad to help you.

Learn how to call your fire department. Can you call from a neighbor’s house? Is there a pay phone nearby? Where is the closest street alarm box?

Home fire extinguishers can help put out small fires and get you safely out of a burning building. But don’t take any chances—get your family out of the fire and always call the Fire Department even if you think you’ve extinguished the blaze.

Know your exits. Provide two ways to get to, from and within each room in the house. The average person can run 20 feet per second. Even if your family awareness of the home fire escape plan is 100%, when panic sets in, the average person will only run 4 feet per second.

Informed planting attracts wildlife

Landowners who wish to attract wildlife need to know the habits of the animals they want to lure to their property. A mixture of plants will provide necessary food and shelter.

Plants are a member of the animal kingdom. Whether their food habits are for private benefit, attract food for other species, or repay everyone, they are ready to do it. In the case of animals, the selection of plants is essential.

The best plants are those that produce foods and waters. You can add to the game of attracting wildlife by adding large and small species of plants. As a rule, the bigger the plant, the better it’s food value.

The use of grain, especially in winter and early spring when food supplies are normally low, is also very valuable. Ponderosa pine, Utah juniper, and natural shrubs can also be helpful in providing food for wildlife.

In this regard, especially when you’re looking for ways to improve the environment of your property, consider the use of natural habitat. The use of natural habitat can be very attractive to wildlife.
