Catholics plan census in parish

Catholic parishes in the Lansing Diocese will attempt to visit every adult in the privacy of the home. In this city, the canvasser will solicit information from the Catholic family members. The census is scheduled to begin the last week of September and the final results will be available in December. It is hoped that the census will help the church in its efforts to better serve the community.

Children alone possible victims

Parents, instead of leaving their children alone, should stop and think about the possible dangers. A model house for small children is a popular toy, and it is important to make sure that the children are not left alone with it. Parents should also keep an eye on their children when they are playing with the house, to make sure that they are not hurt.

North to Alaska

Mrs. Wright was in the process of preparing for a trip to Alaska, and her family was busy packing and making final preparations for the journey. They had been planning this trip for several months and were excited about the adventure that awaited them. Mrs. Wright would be driving through several states, staying with friends, and visiting various destinations. The road ahead would be filled with challenges and new experiences.

They left on September 25, with a few days of prior planning. They planned to drive through Southeast Alaska, including the Inside Passage, and then return via the Alcan Highway. The trip would take approximately two weeks, and they were looking forward to exploring the beautiful scenery and wildlife of Alaska.

The journey began with a stop in Seattle, where they met with other family members for a farewell gathering. From Seattle, they continued their drive through Washington and into Idaho. Each day was filled with new sights and experiences, from scenic drives to visits with friends.

By Mrs. Irene Fox

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burtner held a birthday party for their son, David Gene Parks, on Saturday, Aug. 29, at their home in Pewamo. The party was attended by family members and friends. Mrs. Burtner's daughters, Sheryl and Mary Ann, were the hosts of the event, and they provided a wonderful spread of food and drinks.

A birthday cake was the centerpiece of the evening, and guests enjoyed spending time together, sharing stories and laughter. The evening concluded with a brief address from Mrs. Burtner, thanking everyone for their presence and expressing her love for her children.

In conclusion, the trip to Alaska was a memorable journey filled with joy and adventure. Mrs. Wright and her family made lasting memories and created new experiences that they would cherish for years to come. Whether driving through the mountains of Idaho or exploring the beaches of Alaska, their spirit of adventure and love for life remained unshaken.
6 gallons of blood
That's record of area's best donor

Rob Morris holds the record as the number one blood donor in Clinton County. He has been a part of the Red Cross blood program for 22 years. Mrs. Bobby Spiker, volunteer chairman for the blood program, said that Rob Morris has been termed a "miracle of donors because often the blood is loaded. The bottles are placed in a large walk-in refrigerator until an order for blood is received. When the day's collection is received, each bottle of blood has three uses. It is important for the Red Cross to have as much blood as possible because other blood centers in the state of Michigan do not have that luxury and are dependent upon the Red Cross for their blood needs. Mrs. Spiket said that Rob Morris has been a part of the blood program for 22 years.

The Red Cross is again asking for the help of the Citizens who have donated blood in the past.

Agriculture Action

by M.L. Wold

The price of hay and corn silage has changed very little this year, according to M. L. Wold, MSU agricultural economist. He said the price of hay has remained about the same, but the price of corn silage has dropped slightly. Wold said the price of hay is expected to stay at the current level for the rest of the year, while the price of corn silage is expected to drop further.

The price of hay is currently around $5 per 100 pounds, while the price of corn silage is around $8 per 100 pounds. Wold said the drop in the price of corn silage is due to an increase in the supply of corn, which is currently abundant due to a good harvest. He said the increase in the supply of corn will continue for the rest of the year, which will keep the price of corn silage low.

Fire—wasteful tragedy—can be prevented

The most effective way to fight fire is to prevent its starting. This good advice is being followed in Clinton County. In the past few weeks, there have been several instances of destruction and damage caused by fires. The newspapers have been filled with stories of the destruction caused by fires, and the need for prevention is emphasized in every issue. The newspapers have also been calling attention to the importance of preventing fires, and the community is working together to prevent fires from starting.

Three years ago

The Clinton County News of October 9-15, 1966, reported on the dangerous situation created by the fear of fire. The paper stated that the fear of fire was creating a situation where people were becoming more cautious, and that this was leading to more fires. The paper also reported that the fire department had been asked to provide more information on fire prevention, and that the community was working together to prevent fires from starting.

A look into the past...

We're happy and proud that so many families are reading the Clinton County News these days. We distribute 7,600 copies each week, and one of those is an average of at least two and one readers.

That's a lot of people. Kind of scary sometimes when you stop to think of the responsibility that goes into putting out a newspaper, and there's also the more-intangible responsibility.

Responsibility for what? Well, there's responsibility to our readers, to the advertisers, to the community, and to the people who work on the paper. We try to do our best to make sure that the newspaper is as useful and informative as possible.

And we try to do our best to make sure that the newspaper is as useful and informative as possible. We try to do our best to make sure that the newspaper is as useful and informative as possible. We try to do our best to make sure that the newspaper is as useful and informative as possible.

We've only touched the surface in telling you about the things that go into putting out a newspaper, and in addition to the physical resources, there are also the more-intangible resources.

And as individual activities increase in number and complexity, it becomes increasingly important to organize and coordinate activities in order to maximize the benefits to the community.

But we try, and this is part of the work that goes into getting your newspaper out to you every week.

When facts alone aren't thought-provoking, and when the news columns don't apply directly to people who read our paper (we figure the other printed and electronic media have enough news and widespread interest already), our emphasis is on local news, and there's less non-local news in the Clinton County News now than there ever has been.

We seek our local news from all sorts of sources—businesses, schools, and universities, public relations outfits, state police, sheriff, city police, justice and other courts, and the local government. You name it and it's a potential news source.

But again, the news must be of direct interest to our readers or we don't use it.

A need to acknowledge the fact that fires are not only wasteful but also dangerous, and that the need for prevention is emphasized in every issue. The newspapers have also been calling attention to the importance of preventing fires, and the community is working together to prevent fires from starting.

Re: Early Warning System

Your reporter, Mr. Broyhill, makes an excellent point regarding the import of a dual use of the sirens. (March 14, Page 15)

As I understand it, the sirens were used as a warning system after a flood. The sirens are run by the fire department and are used to warn residents of a flood. However, the sirens can also be used as a warning system for other emergencies, such as a hurricane or a tornado.

It seems to me that the sirens could be used to warn residents of both an emergency and a flood. This way, residents would be able to be warned of both situations.

I agree with Mr. Broyhill's suggestion that the sirens should be used to warn residents of a flood. However, I also believe that the sirens should be used to warn residents of other emergencies as well.

I hope that the city will consider Mr. Broyhill's suggestion and use the sirens to warn residents of both an emergency and a flood.
