Pharmacy Facts

Today

The modern practicing pharmacist is a contributing member of the health care team. Pharmacists in hospital pharmacies also perform vital health care functions associated with health services for the institutionalized patient, especially as related to drug therapy. The community pharmacist more often performs his services for the ambulatory patient in a clinic, drug store or medical specialty pharmacy. In all of these settings, he must be skilled in the proper use of pharmaceutical products and new pharmaceuticals, and he must be dedicated to patient care for his patients on a direct basis with the patient.

Today's Pharmacists

Pharmacists are one of the dynamic growth professions in the health care field. Pharmacists must be well versed, creative, adaptable, and ready to handle the ever-increasing needs of the public and the increasing demand for pharmaceutical services. These services are here to stay. A pharmacist's education can be supplemented by additional study and training, but in the end, the pharmacist must be dedicated and committed to the role of the health care professional.

Today, as never before, firemen need your help.

Approximately 1400 homes burn each day in the United States. Every year, almost 12,000 people die as a result of fire. Most of those fires could be prevented. Most of the lives lost to fire could be spared. But to prevent the tragic loss of lives and property, your fire department needs your support.

The fireman of today is better equipped, better trained, more professional and dedicated than ever before. But he needs your help: The prevention of fire is not just the responsibility of firemen—it is the duty of every person in the community. Fire prevention is your responsibility.

You can help. How? Start by eliminating fire hazards in your home and by preparing your family for a fire emergency. Know how to get out of a burning home quickly and safely; know how to call your fire department.

Visit your local fire station. Your firemen will gladly help you devise a fire prevention plan for your home. They'll help you look for, and eliminate, home fire hazards. Get to know the men whose profession is protecting your family from the danger of fire.

You'll sleep better each night with the knowledge that you have taken all possible measures to eliminate the danger of fire in your home. And if fire should strike—and you know what to do—you may spare your family the tragedy too often experienced by others as a result of fire.

Your firemen are on the alert around the clock waiting for your emergency call—but they want to help prevent a fire from ever occurring at your home. With your support, they can.

It's Homecoming for Redwings after clobbering Ionia 46-6

ST JOHNS - The St Johns Redwings will be working for all they have in their upcoming game when they take on Waverly Friday night in the final home game of the season.

After doing what few expected, winning at Ionia last Friday and remaining unbeaten in the win-less Bulldogs. Waverly has a strong, fast offensive game and coaching. Coach Eddie Becker says they are very "tougher defensively." However, in their last 3 opponents, the Redwings have shown the Redwings only one of 4 times they went up the lead in the 1st quarter. The other 3 times they went up the lead in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarters respectively, the Waverly defense failed to hold them.

The Redwings have had to work hard to get this far. With this momentum behind them, the Redwings are even "tougher defensively." The Redwings have shown the Redwings only one of 4 times they went up the lead in the 1st quarter. The other 3 times they went up the lead in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th quarters respectively, the Waverly defense failed to hold them.

Brent Coffman, defensive tackle, jarred the ball loose and the Redwings held a 4-0 lead.

Ballenger warns of "rip off" possible in campaign reform

The 32-year-old lawyer said he had seen polls showing that 55 to 65 per cent of people did not believe that candidates for public office spent all they said they did in their campaigns.

"The problem is that those polls are based on lies," he said.

"What we need is an investigation of the financing of their campaigns," he added.

Ballenger said that he had been approached by a number of people who had been involved in the campaign financing issue.

"I am concerned about the money that is going into political campaigns," he said.

"I think it is important that we look into the monies that are going into political campaigns," he continued.

Ballenger said that he was willing to work with anyone who would help him with the investigation.

"I am willing to work with anyone who will help me with this issue," he said.

"I believe it is important that we look into the money that is going into political campaigns," he concluded.

The article goes on to say that Ballenger believes that the financing of political campaigns is a serious issue and that it needs to be investigated.

The article ends with a quote from Ballenger: "I believe it is important that we look into the money that is going into political campaigns."
A talk with "Syracuse" can be more informative. Always ask more than the obvious question. "Syracuse" is the name given to an automatic sensory field equipment, the cooperative Extension Telephone Program. Telephones programs were conducted by the Central Michigan United States Office. By using this equipment, farmers were able to make use of the cooperation Extension telephones in E-37 field management programs. The results of this field management program were then reported to the Extension office for processing and added to the database. Farmers could then look at their field performance over time if need be and look at a given source for information. You can talk with "Syracuse" to find out more information.
