Phony fire reports worry city

The award, in the form of a savings bond, was given to the outstanding citizen of the year. The award was given to 1963 Citizen of the Year, M. J. Miller, who has been a civic leader for many years.

FIRE CHIEF Clare Maier said the fire department has received numerous false alarm calls, which are a drain on the resources of the department. He stressed the importance of如实 reporting all emergencies.

No fire caused any damage, but the department was called to handle the situation.

The fire was called in the 300 block of Main Street, burned a hole in the wall of the house, and endangered a 1½-mile radius.

The fire was caused by a discarded cigarette.

Phony fire reports are common in the city, and the department is working to educate the public on the importance of如实 reporting emergencies.

Renewal...

The renewal process is a long drawn out process. We feel the public will be able to deal with the process if the public is made aware of the process.

At this point no specific information has been made available to the public. Specific information will be made available to the public when the process is completed.

The consensus in some quarters is that the public will be able to deal with the process.

According to law we must explain had only to ask.

The fun side of medical self-help

The Section and Corners Extension group at Fowler has had real good luck in recruiting students for a series of medical self-help training classes it's holding at 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday nights on fractures and splinting. It was attended by over 100 persons, and they appeared to have a lot of fun practicing on William Jordan, DC, of Fowler, conducted the class. For better elections, give your leadership.

by W. A. BRIGHT

President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has a special opportunity, a unique opportunity, to give his personal leadership to the cause of better elections.

More importantly, perhaps, the candidate—by controlling the story he tells, the campaign he runs, the promises he makes—can do more than any other individual to control the outcome of elections. He is the one who can do the most to influence the choice of the people.

The franchise is the people's most precious possession. It should be used wisely and effectively. The presidency is the most powerful office in the land. The candidate for protection should be the one to legislate for the presidency.

More eggs from less feed by '80

Purina Rat-Kill!

Chalk up another victim for Purina Rat-Kill! This rat has discovered the deadly charm of the Purina Rat-Kill... and now's the time to give this rat thief the boot.

The average Michigan chicken will eat 20 pounds of feed annually by 1980, according to Michigan State University officials.

This prediction, which was made at a recent meeting of the poultry industry in Lansing, is based on the assumption that the poultry industry will continue to make improvements in production efficiency.

The poultry industry is already getting better than 200 eggs per pound of feed used.

AVERAGE FEED conversion per chicken provides a VIGOROUS outlook for state poultry producers as they plan for Purina Rat-Kill.

One of the benefits of improved efficiency of the poultry industry will be a need for less feed. The quantity of feed used will be reduced by 25 percent during the coming decade.

Part of this improved efficiency will result from a reduced demand for feed per chicken. Presently, a chicken consumes about 3 pounds of feed per year; the reduced demand will be only 2.5 pounds of feed per year.

This is an important consideration in view of the fact that feed and other items are rather volatile in price.

A much more important factor will be the potential increase in breeding between efficient feeders, thus requiring fewer pounds of feed per chicken. The percentage increase is being handled by state poultry producers.

One of the most important gains in poultry production efficiency will come from less feed per chicken egg.

Average Michigan chickens currently are getting better than 200 eggs per pound of feed, which is already down to 3.5 pounds of feed per egg.

These improvements in poultry production efficiency will result in a demand for less feed for Michigan's poultry industry by 1980.

The demand per chicken will be reduced by 25 percent during the coming decade.

W. M. SMITH

Many other people are poor, not because of this fact, but because of many mistakes they've made. Many of them made mistakes that they could have avoided, according to specialists with the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

Mary Aderholdt, Assistant Extension Specialist, said, "Many people are being stuck with old equipment because they can't sell it, and there's not enough people interested in buying it." She added, "As an example, she cited the country's defense needs for housing during World War II, when many people were building homes. Today, however, many people are building too many houses because they can't sell them, and they're stuck with them." She concluded, "Maybe we should look at this problem and see if we can do anything about it."
Freedom of expression carries a responsibility

One of the freedoms Americans possess is the freedom of expression, and transportation of ideas has been one of the greatest vehicles for expression.

Not too many people have the opportunity to express themselves in the newspaper's actual editorial columns, because editors are designed to give the opinions of others. But every American has the opportunity of using the newspaper to express his or her own ideas, even though the editor's name may be on the letter as his or her personal outlay to the world.

We at the Clinton County News have always favored the idea of letters to the editor and have urged that people express their rightful opinions through that particular column. We have even bent over backwards by allowing letters to be printed without signatures, having faith that the substance of the letter be for the over all good of the community. That was that, at least, who know the writer was.

With deep regret, we have discovered not one letter of the signed variety have we received in recent months unsigned letters have been used as a shield to attack personalities. When writers write under pseudonyms they have apparently disagreed.

Perhaps worse than that is the fact some letter writers are signing false names to grievances open generally. Whenever the unsigned letter contains controversial material and it usually does or it would be published with no signature, the newspaper bears the brunt of the verbal attack, which almost always comes from those parties irritated by the unsigned letter.

We are willing to do this to a certain point, for the sake of freedom of expression. But when we have to answer for an anonymous writer's attack on someone's personality, we are almost alone because the writer didn't have the decency to level with us with his own name, then we put our foot down.

And so we come to the moral of our little, tale of woes. Letters to the editor of the Clinton County News are still welcome. There's no need and no reason for them to be unsigned, or for them to be printed with no signatures. We don't stand alone because the writer didn't have the courage to stand alone, and that's why we also decline to do it.

New commissioners to start work quickly

The two city commissioners who are elected to the St. Johns governing body Nov. 8 will find their work faces them within a few days of election. All 8 a.m. Monday, Nov. 14, the new commissioners will meet (as stipulated by the city charter) to officially organize the new group. The two new commissioners will be sworn in, and the commission will meet (as stipulated by the city charter) to officially organize the new group.

One member will be named to the planning commission; this is now City Man­ager Ken Fereer. This appoint­ment is made to serve on the planning com­mission and will expire this year terms; •

One member will be named to the board of review for a three-year term. These three men — the mayor, administrator, and Coletta — are ex-officio members of the plan­ning commission. The occasion was Fire Prevention Week.

Youngsters in St. Johns public and parochial schools had an opportunity last Wednesday to ride a St. Johns fire truck, complete with flashing red light and wailing siren. The rides were sponsored by the fire department and the St. Johns Insurance Assn., as a reminder to the children about fire safety. The occasion was Fire Prevention Week.
